

STABBING AFFRAY

PLANS PERFECTED FOR BIG RECEPTION TO COMPANY M

Mayor James E. O'Donnell was kept busy this morning on the plans for welcoming home Company M. Several telephone messages were received from the railroad centers along the homecoming route and there were scores of anxious inquiries from Lowell people who thought that the mayor's office would be aware of the latest developments.

The mayor was informed early today that the troops would arrive shortly after noon but a few hours later it was stated that the troops would come via Providence, Mansfield and Framingham and would not arrive before 3:30 p. m. and possibly later. The greatest uncertainty is the length of time that shall be consumed at Framingham. Company M will get rid of a great portion of its equipment at Framingham and members of the local militia companies say that it will take longer than the committee has allowed for. Aside from the uncertainty of the hour of their arrival in Lowell, all plans will be carried out as scheduled—provided they are agreeable to the commander of the company on its arrival.

At the depot will be the Sixth regiment band, members of the municipal council and the reception committee. The parade will form immediately and will march through Middlesex street to Central, to Merrimack street as far as city hall, and from there to the armory on Westford street through Dutton street and Thorndike. Major Kittredge will have his command at the depot and all other uniformed organizations have been invited to line the streets, that the soldiers will pass through. Battery C will join with Company M in the parade and in the dinner that is to be provided by the D. L. Page company. The purpose of the mayor and the committee generally is to give a hearty welcome that shall not keep the boys long from their families.

The Lowell high school regiment will meet Co. M and will join in the reception planned for the soldiers. At school this forenoon the officers' and other members of the regiment were instructed to report at the school annex on Paige street immediately after the sounding of the 15 strokes on the fire alarm system.

INDICATIONS POINT TO RE-ELECTION OF PRES. WILSON

On the eve of election, the indications point to a great democratic victory for the national and state tickets. The betting, which up until the eleventh hour, had been against the re-election of Pres. Wilson, has shifted and today, the big New York brokers are giving odds on the president. The fact that the New York Herald, a republican paper, conceded the re-election of Pres. Wilson, spread throughout the country with the result that little Hughes money could be found. News from all parts of the United States shows that the south, east and west are rallying to the president, and now indications point to a great victory for President Wilson.

The New York World today prints the following: Prophecies, the last for this year, were as promising on one side as on the other. The last to be issued was that of Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall, based on the private figures given him by the district leaders. Mr. Murphy has hesitated to give figures in advance for several years past. All that he said last night was: "The reports submitted by the Tammany leaders are very satisfactory indeed. They indicate a substantial majority here for the democratic ticket. In my opinion, President Wilson will carry this state and sweep the country."

BOTH CANDIDATES CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—President Woodrow Wilson and Charles E. Hughes, candidates of the dominant parties for president today were recuperating from the labors of the long campaign. The last word sent forward by them to the people was an expression that each felt confident of victory.

President Wilson planned to remain quietly at Shadow Lawn today and his only activity tomorrow will be a trip to Princeton to cast his ballot. Tomorrow night, with only the members of his family about him, he will receive the returns in his study at Shadow Lawn.

Mr. Hughes remained at his hotel early in the forenoon, but later visited the national republican headquarters, chiefly, it was stated, to thank the workers there for their efforts in his behalf. He intended to take a drive through the parks this afternoon and spend the rest of the day quietly at his hotel. Tomorrow he will vote in his home district here and tomorrow night he will get the returns in his hotel rooms. Like Mr. Wilson, he plans to have only immediate members of his family with him when the election returns come.

Political headquarters here still presented scenes of activity today. Late reports from the political battlefield were received and final instructions sent. Both the chairmen had little to add to their forecasts issued Saturday night.

Republican Chairman Wilcox then predicted Hughes would receive at least 100 majority in the electoral college, while Democratic Chairman McCormick gave Wilson 384 votes in that body. The necessary number of votes to elect is 295.

The larger participation of women as voters in a presidential campaign and the congressional elections is a matter of keen interest to politicians generally. The returns from the states in which women will vote will be anxiously scanned.

So far as congress is concerned a full house of representatives and 33 United States senators will be elected. The total membership of the house is 435. In the senate the present membership is 95. In all 35 new senators will take their seats next March. Of these the republicans elected two at the September election in Maine.

Forty-two of the states will elect state officials tomorrow. Of these states 35 will elect governors.

Fair weather and moderate temperatures is the forecast generally for election day and if this prediction holds true virtually a full vote, it is expected, will be cast throughout the country tomorrow.

The national chairmen of the republican and democratic committees were both busy today receiving final reports on the results of their respective campaigns but neither had anything to add to their already published predictions. Both reiterated their confidence of victory tomorrow and republican Chairman Wilcox's statement was "It is all over but the shouting." Chairman McCormick of the democratic committee received a visit from Secretary of Commerce Redfield who has recently made a tour of Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois. He told the chairman that these states were "undoubtedly safely democratic."

Both chairmen said they expected a heavy vote tomorrow throughout the country. Republican headquarters was enlivened by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Hughes at noon. The candidate shook hands with all the employees and thanked them for their efforts in his behalf.

After looking over a batch of telegrams from all parts of the country, Chairman McCormick said: "If this continued for a few days it would be necessary for me to revise our forecast because of the reports that are pouring in here."

IN MASSACHUSETTS

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Both republican and democratic party managers planned today to carry their campaign activities up to the last possible moment before the election. Gov. Samuel W. McCall, who seeks re-election and is a democratic opponent, Frederick W. Mansfield, made their final pleas on the stump in this city, and rallies, many of them in the open air, were arranged for all parts of the state.

Republican leaders remained firm in their estimates of victory tomorrow for both state and national tickets, including the return of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his first test by popular vote, by a margin of at least 15,000. Democratic state committee asserted confidence that President Wilson and Mr. Mansfield would carry the state by safe margins and that John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, would defeat Senator Lodge.

QUIET IN VERMONT

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 6.—Vermont politicians rested today after a quiet campaign, with a republican victory tomorrow conceded by all. Democratic leaders, however, predicted an increase in the vote for President Wilson over that of four years ago.

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 6.—The campaign for state officers, which has divided interest with the presidential contest, closed in New Hampshire today. The two republican congressmen have had lively opposition.

CLOSE VOTE IN RHODE ISLAND PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 6.—The contest between Senator Henry F. Lippitt and former Congressman Peter G. Gerry in the first direct senatorial election in Rhode Island tomorrow to some extent overshadowed in interest the presidential campaign. A close vote was anticipated.

BOTH CLAIM CONNECTICUT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—With both republican and democratic state leaders claiming Connecticut for their respective candidates by comfortable margins, the party workers today made their final appeals to the voters. Over night, neither Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican committee, nor David E. Fitzgerald, chairman of the democratic committee, saw any reason for changing their estimates. The former claimed between 15,000 and 20,000 majority for Hughes, while the latter predicted Wilson would carry the state by between 10,000 and 15,000 majority. Local rallies throughout the state marked the closing hours of the campaign.

IN NEW YORK STATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The day before election finds both republican and democratic parties confident of victory.

TWO MEN STABBED IN ROW IN BENT'S COURT THIS AFTERNOON

Two men were taken to St. John's hospital early this afternoon suffering from wounds sustained in a stabbing affray on the lower floor of a tenement block situated at 12 Bent's court, off Gorham street. One of the men, Prokory Tigartick, had several cuts on his body and at the time of going to press the extent of his injuries could not be learned. The other, Frank Smith, of North Chelmsford, sustained a bad cut on his left arm. The man alleged to have used the knife jumped through a window after the stabbing had been done and disappeared through the alley. The police were given a description of the man, and his address. This afternoon a search was made for him in the vicinity of Howe and Davidson streets. Little about the trouble was known in Bent's court. It seems that there were five men in a room together. All work nights in a mill in North Chelmsford. This noon three men who occupy a room at 12 Bent's court were entertaining Smith and the man said to have done the stabbing. It is said that a pall of beer was sent for and soon afterward the trouble started. According to occupants of the house, the Belvidere man drew a knife during the heat of an argument and threatened to clean out the room. Tigartick and Smith were stabbed and then the assailant escaped.

The other two men ran for a policeman and the ambulance. Patrolman Killey was seen on the scene, but no trace of the man accused could be found. No information relative to the cause of the trouble or the circumstances of the stabbing could be learned at the police station.

Alleged Stabber Arrested

Shortly after 2 o'clock, Alexander Bonder, who is accused of the stabbing, was arrested on Bridge street. The rumor spread and there was quite a crowd at Merrimack square when the accused was taken to the police station and booked for the offense.

BIG WELCOME TO EIGHTH IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The Eighth regiment, Massachusetts National Guard, which arrived from the Mexican border during the night, paraded through the city today while thousands cheered a welcome. The marchers were reviewed by Governor McCall and Mayor Curley.

At the same time the Ninth regiment, first of the state's four regimental contributions to the border guard to arrive at its post and last to leave, was reported nearing home and was expected to reach this city tomorrow. With that organization is Brig. Gen. E. Leroy Sweetser, who was the ranking officer of the Massachusetts troops at the border.

DANGEROUS WEAPONS FOUND BY POLICE

Twenty-nine men were arrested in a raid on a coffee house conducted by Paraskevas Demetriou at 384 Suffolk street, late Saturday night. The owner of the place was booked for maintaining a gaming resort, while the others were charged with being present at a game.

The police department received numerous complaints of games being played at the place.

LOWELL JITNEY DRIVERS WIN IN LAWRENCE

A delegation of 10 jitney drivers from Lowell and Lawrence appeared before the municipal council in Lawrence this morning, in an endeavor to have the newly adopted ordinance in relation to jitneys revised so as not to discriminate against Lowell chauffeurs.

Some time ago, the Lawrence city council passed an ordinance by which all jitneys must be licensed. The fee for the vehicle is $5 and that of the chauffeur, $1, but no chauffeur is eligible for a license unless he is a bona fide resident of Lawrence, Methuen, Andover or North Andover. The said ordinance to go into effect Dec. 1.

The delegation of chauffeurs present at this morning's meeting pointed out that Lawrence men under the new ordinance can secure a license to operate their machines to and into Lowell, while Lowell men cannot go to Lawrence. They said, Lowell men should be given as much right as Lawrence people. The ordinance was passed at the request of the Lawrence Chauffeurs' association. It was stated this afternoon that all the members of the council were in favor of amending the ordinance so as to include Lowell chauffeurs and they have taken the matter under advisement to report next Monday.

REXALL STORES' STRAW VOTE

The straw vote taken by the Rexall stores numbers 771,063 and the totals give Wilson an electoral vote of 255 and Hughes 236. These returns are compiled from votes received daily from 5000 Rexall drug stores all over the United States.

FAIR PLAY!

MR. ROGERS—

The issue in this campaign is your vote against the Adamson Eight Hour Law. You have not been willing to debate this question face to face with me.

And now you have sought to distract attention from your own record by suddenly springing a slanderous story about my connection with the Attorney General's Office.

I challenge you to repeat that story at City Hall Square at nine o'clock tonight, and then listen to me tell the truth about it.

To My Opponent

My engagements will not permit me, as your advertisement suggests, "to repeat at City Hall at 9 o'clock tonight" the disclosures concerning your employment by the Commonwealth which I have brought to the attention of the people of Lowell.

Why should I REPEAT them? They are a matter of public record at the State House, and you yourself have not denied them.

SWEATERS

In our boyhood days we discovered that there was nothing more comfortable than a sweater. The close, intimate mould of a sweater over our muscles seemed to lend us the power of vitality. Crisp days—the days of long deep breaths—a sweater—out of doors, and then, who cares? Distinctiveness in sweater styles is hard to get. We have it.

SUITS BROUGHT SCHOOL BOARD AS RESULT OF CYCLONE INVESTIGATES SCHOOL

As a result of the miniature cyclone which visited Lowell a few weeks ago, two suits have been entered against Mrs. Margaret W. Merrill, owner of the Card building in Shattuck and Market streets, each suit being in the sum of $2000.

The first suit is an action of tort brought by John Manning, while the other is also an action of tort brought by John Heslin. Both plaintiffs, who are still in their teens, claim they were struck and injured by bricks which were blown off the Card building by the wind. Attachments were filed at the registry of deeds office Saturday and the writs are returnable at the superior court.

An attachment in the sum of $500 has been filed at the registry of deeds office against Joseph Blondin of Los Angeles, Cal., by Harriet Craven of this city in an action of tort for alleged, misrepresenting incumbencies in the sale of property.

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Grady, 47 Church street. Mrs. Grady was presented a beautiful couch, John Hickey making the presentation. A musical program was also furnished.

All members of the school committee attended by the superintendent of schools paid a visit of inspection this morning to the Greek school on Worth street, partly to ascertain the actual condition there and partly because of complaints which had reached the school department relative to the punishment administered untruly put.

STEPHEN CHRESHUS IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Stephen Chreshus of 40 Prince street lies in a serious condition at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of an accident in the Bay State storage warehouse on Jackson street, about 12:30 o'clock today. Chreshus was working with some other men moving flour when one of the heavy barrels fell on him, injuring his back. He appeared to be badly hurt and the ambulance was summoned to remove him to the hospital. The man complained of pains in his back and it is feared that he is internally injured.

Y. M. C. I. HOLDS MEMORIAL EXERCISES

The members of the Young Men Catholic Institute held their annual memorial exercises in their hall in Blackpole street, last evening. The affair was largely attended and proved very interesting. The speaker of the evening was Rev. William Mahon, O.M.I.

The evening's program was as follows: Piano selection, John Broderick; song, Andrew Doyle; song, Thomas Carlin; song, Henry Driscoll; song, James E. Donnelly; song, Ernest Reidy; remarks, Thomas Beane; remarks, Thomas McQuaid; song, Frank McCarthy; reading, Thomas Kelley; song, Edward Lechrie; song, Joseph Wedge; song, Thomas Moss; remarks, George Lynch; song and recitation, John Burrows; selection by the Y.M.C.I. quartet, Messrs. Harrington, Quinn, McCarthy and Burns; song, William Gookin.

In the morning, the members of the organization received communion in a body at the 7:30 o'clock mass at the Immaculate Conception church and at the close of the service they repaired to their rooms, where they were served a bountiful breakfast by the

LIEUT. GEN. MAHON FOR IRISH COMMAND

COMMANDER OF BRITISH FORCES IN EGYPT APPOINTED TO SUCCEED GENERAL MAXWELL

LONDON, Nov. 6.—It is officially announced that Lieutenant-General Bryan T. Mahon, commander of the British forces on the western frontier in Egypt, has been appointed to succeed Sir John Maxwell as commander of the British forces in Ireland. General Maxwell is appointed commander-in-chief of the northern command in England.

It is also announced officially that General Sir Reginald Wingate, sirdar of the Egyptian army, has been appointed high commissioner for Egypt in succession to Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Henry MacMahon. (Note.—The Maxwell dissatisfaction has caused much dissatisfaction throughout Ireland. He has been considered chiefly responsible for the harsh measures adopted to put down the Dublin revolt last Easter and for the severity with which martial law has since been administered. It is considered probable that with a change in command will come a change in the methods of military rule in Ireland.)

PRESCOTT STREET AS ONE WAY STREET

Strong opposition is expected at the hearing to be held before the municipal council next week on the proposal of Commissioner Morse to make Prescott street a one-way street. One of those to come out strongly in opposition to the project is John L. Robertson of the Robertson furniture company who says that the adoption of Mr. Morse's idea would rob the storekeepers of 25 per cent. of their business. He will be present at the hearing, he says, and he expects several businessmen of the street to take his view on the matter.

Mr. Robertson has said that the plan is brazened as a means of getting the electric cars out of the square as quickly as possible but this Mr. Morse denies, saying that he has personally observed the traffic congestion and that his scheme would be for the interest of all, even of the businessmen on the street. Mr. Morse says that Mr. Robertson does not take kindly to the idea that his team instead of driving from Central street

TEUTONS PROCLAIM NEW POLISH KINGDOM

BERLIN (By wireless to Sayville), Nov. 5.—"Polish provinces occupied by troops of the central powers," says the Overseas News Agency, "were the scene today of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austria-Hungary, by joint action, proclaimed Warsaw and Lublin the kingdom of Poland, and re-established the right of the Polish nation to control its own government the wishes of the Polish national life and to govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation."

"A few days ago a representative Polish delegation called upon the imperial chancery, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. At parties, all ranks of society and all creeds were represented. They transmitted to the German government the wishes to the Polish nation, which now have been granted to them."

"Thus, the ancient kingdom of Poland from which in the past came famous rulers like Jagellones (a dynasty founded by Jagello which reigned in Poland from 1385 to 1772) and glorious soldiers like the great Sobieski (John III, King of Poland in 1674-1696) is now resurrected to new life."

"The Poles are again free from Russian oppression, no more to be trodden under the heels of the Cossack. The liberty that had been destroyed a century ago by Russian investigation now is restored. The rule of the knout has been abolished. Poland has been given back to western civilization."

"The manifesto issued at Warsaw and Lublin today reads as follows:

"His Majesty, the German Emperor, and His Majesty, the Emperor of Austria, and Apostolic King of Hungary, inspired by firm confidence in a final victory of their arms, and prompted by a desire to lead the districts conquered by their armies under heavy sacrifices from Russian domination toward a happy future, have agreed to form of these districts a national state with a hereditary monarchy and a constitutional government. The exact frontiers of the kingdom of Poland shall be outlined later."

"The new kingdom will receive the guarantees needed for the free development of its own forces through its intimate relations with both powers. The glorious traditions of the ancient Polish armies and the memory of the brave comradeship in the great war of our days shall revive in a national army. The organization, instruction and command of this army shall be arranged by common agreement."

"The allied monarchs express the confident hope that Polish wishes for the evolution of a Polish state and for the national development of a Polish kingdom shall now be fulfilled, taking due consideration of the general political conditions prevailing in Europe and of the welfare and the safety of their own countries and nations."

"The great realm which the western neighbors of the kingdom of Poland shall have on their eastern frontier shall be a free and happy state enjoying its own national life, and they shall welcome with joy the birth and prosperous development of this state."

ROGER SHERMAN HOAR ANSWERS MR. ROGERS

Speaking at the big conference of campaign workers in Woburn on Sunday, former Senator Roger Sherman Hoar, democratic candidate for congress in this district, dayed what he characterized as an extremely unfair eleven hour roarback issued by his opponent, Congressman Rogers. Mr. Hoar said:

"Mr. Rogers is afraid to discuss his record with me. He declined my invitation to debate it."

"Instead, the district is being covered with a circular praising him, which is called by the man who gets it out, the Merrimack Valley Labor Journal, pretending that it is a regular labor newspaper and that it has the endorsement of the Central Labor Union of the district."

"This sheet is not a regular paper, and is issued only at campaign times. It has no circulation except as it is distributed free by politicians. It has no connection with organized labor, and is not endorsed by any Central Labor union of the district."

"Rogers voted against the eight hour law. The A. F. of L. certifies my record to be 100% correct."

"But I appeal not only to labor. The farmers are entitled to be represented by me, a farmer. And all lovers of fair play ought to repudiate the use of this fake labor paper by Mr. Rogers by voting against him and for Roger Sherman Hoar."

SCOTT MAXWELL DIES IN DOVER, NEW HAMPSHIRE

ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN COTTON MEN IN THE COUNTRY—
HEAD OF MFRS. ASSN.

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—Scott Maxwell, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association and agent of the Indian Head Cotton Manufacturing company of Cordova, Ala., died Saturday night at the Wentworth hospital, aged 51, of a shock sustained a few days ago at his summer cottage at Ocean Park, Me.

Mr. Maxwell, who was one of the most widely known cotton manufacturers in the United States, had been connected with the mills in New England and in the south. He was born in Webster, Me., July 8, 1855, the son of Arthur and Elizabeth Maxwell. He began his career in the doubling and twisting department of the Androscoggin mills at Lewiston, Me., in 1872. Later he became a second-hand in spinning with the Pepperell mills of Biddeford, then went to the Bates mills at Lewiston to take charge of the spinning department of the Granite Manufacturing company in South Carolina. He was with the Vaucluse mill of that concern.

In 1887 he became superintendent of mills at Rock Hill and Fort Hill, S. C., and 10 years later went to the Dallas Manufacturing Co. mill at Huntsville, Ala., as superintendent. In 1901 he was made agent of the largest cotton mills of West Point, Ga., and early in 1904 went to Cordova, Ala. as southern manager of a large New England cotton concern and as agent of the Indian Head mills. At the Cordova plant coal for power is mined in the mill yard. It is said to be the only cotton manufacturing plant in the United States with a coal mine on its own premises.

Mr. Maxwell was elected a member of the board of governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association in 1910, becoming chairman of the board in 1913. At the annual meeting at Memphis, Tenn., in 1915, he was elected president.

He was a Pythian and a member of Masonic lodges in the south, and of the Zomora Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Atlanta. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. C. L. Barton and Miss Mabel E. Maxwell of Cordova. The funeral and burial will take place in this city.

CARDINAL IS PRESENTED BRONZE CRUCIFIX

PRESENTATION MADE AT RECEPTION BY LAYMEN'S RETREAT GUILD IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Cardinal O'Connell was presented a beautiful bronze crucifix at a reception tendered him yesterday afternoon at the Blessed Gabriel monastery in Brighton by the members of the Laymen's Retreat guild, composed of men who have made retreats at the monastery. Cardinal O'Connell visited the Passionist fathers to come to Boston and conduct a monastery about five years ago, and it was to show their appreciation to the cardinal for his great interest in the work that the guild honored him yesterday.

After the presentation and following solemn benediction in the chapel, the Rev. Fr. Alexis, C.P., rector of the monastery, thanked the cardinal for his interest and work in behalf of the retreat movement. The cardinal then spoke on the great work of the Passionist fathers and the retreats at the monastery.

The cardinal was accompanied by Mgr. Splaine, the Rev. Fr. Alexis, the Rev. Fr. George, the Rev. Fr. J. J. Ryan of St. Paul's church, Cambridge, and the Rev. Fr. Philip O'Donnell of St. James church, as he proceeded to the chapel, where solemn benediction was given.

Solemn benediction was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Stanislaus of West Hoboken, N. J., representing the provincial head of the order, who was unable to attend through illness. The Rev. Fr. Walter was deacon and the Rev. Fr. Benjamin, sub-deacon, while Mgr. Splaine was master of ceremonies.

Maj. P. E. O'Keefe, in behalf of the Laymen's guild, made the presentation of the crucifix to the cardinal. He paid a high tribute to the head of the archdiocese for his untiring work for the laymen of the diocese, particularly his interest in the retreat movement.

Father Alexis in his address gave all credit for the success of the monastery to the cardinal, who was responsible for its establishment in Brighton, and praised him for his work for the church.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR

A reception will be given in the Kirk Street Congregational vestry, Kirk and John streets, Wednesday evening, November 8, to Rev. and Mrs. William F. English, Jr. The members of the church and congregation are cordially invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. English from 8 to 10.

This is the richest producing country in the world, and is today more prosperous than ever.

The people of Massachusetts are entitled to a just share in the wealth they produce.

It should be impossible to cheat them of the reward of their labor by increasing the cost of their living necessities.

Stock gamblers and speculators in the necessities of life are fishing millions in profits from the sea of blood that is drenching Europe.

The toiling masses in America must not be sacrificed on a golden altar reared to the god of war.

I pledge myself, if elected Governor, to punish with the utmost rigor, every person, regardless of politics, proved to be a party to any conspiracy for unjustly increasing the prices of the living necessities of the people of this State.

The record of twenty years devoted to the welfare of the working people of Massachusetts is the guarantee that I will make that pledge good.

PRES. WILSON CLOSES CAMPAIGN; SAYS COERCION TRIED

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 6.—President Wilson closed his campaign for re-election at Shadow Lawn Saturday with a speech in which he accused the opposition of attempting to coerce workmen, and charged that political capital is being made out of unsettled questions, "which, if not settled wisely, might bring this country at any time into the world conflict."

Predicting democratic victory next Tuesday, the president declared: "Having despaired of an issue, they are filling the country with alarms. They are not only filling the country with alarms, but they are attempting coercion of their laborers. They imagine that these men are not their own masters, and dare not vote as they think, but at last, I thank God, the American laborer is awake."

Alarms Their Own
 "Let them fill the country with alarms; the alarms are their own, not ours. They used to control the credit of the country; now they control nothing but the feeling."
 "So, my fellow citizens," he continued, "I feel rising in my pulses already the inspiration and impulse which is to come not only to the United States, but to the world next Tuesday. I do not identify myself with this. To me has fallen the unspeakable good fortune of happening to be the spokesman of the American people at this crucial and fateful time."

 Mr. Wilson asserted that the republican party had fallen back on the protective tariff as its only issue. "They know perfectly well," he said, "that all the pretenses about the protective tariff have been torn away," adding that the industries with the highest protection have paid the lowest wages.

Difference Between Parties
 "The difference between the republican party and the democratic party is this," he continued. "The republican party offers them masters; we offer them comrades and leaders. The republican party offers to take care of them; we offer to go into the fight shoulder to shoulder with them to get the rights which no man has a right to give them."
 "The New Jersey political situation was handled directly by Mr. Wilson. He said that any man voting for the republican ticket in that state is voting for 'invisible government.'"

The president's address was delivered before a large gathering which came from Jersey City, Newark, Trenton, Princeton and other towns and cities in the state, including a delegation of Princeton professors and students. Gov. Fielder of New Jersey presided.

THE SPELLBINDER

The campaign comes to an end tonight and Saturday evening found the speakers on every corner putting in their final licks, and getting quite personal toward the finish, even Congressman Rogers finally having a few personal words to say about Roger Sherman Hoar, and the latter's career. Lion John T. Sparks was in the height of his campaign work on Saturday when he received the speaking news of the illness of his closest personal friend, Anthony Walsh, and gave up politics, temporarily to remain by the bedside of his dying friend. The death of Mr. Walsh was a shock to Centralville where he had been in business for many years. Messrs. Purcell and Stearns were about town during the evening, and despite the chill in the atmosphere, Mr. Stearns went around without an overcoat, and apparently unmindful of the November blasts. Tonight the local democracy will close the campaign with a rousing rally in Associate hall. Lawrence Cummings will preside and among the speakers will be Hon. James H. Vahoy, of Watertown, former democratic candidate for governor; Hon. Thomas J. Boynton, former attorney-general of this state; former Mayor Barton, of Melrose and Hon. Francis G. Slatery, of Boston, who made such a favorable impression at the rally held in Lincoln hall a few evenings ago. It is doubtful if ever before such elaborate preparations have been made to get out the vote and those who need a conveyance to get them to the polls whether they be democrats or republicans may secure such conveyance by the asking. Both city committees will have autos and carriages covering all of the 27 precincts while some of the candidates independently will provide machines. Many friends of Register have volunteered the use of their automobiles, and volunteer checkers and ralliers will work in his behalf at each of the polling places, as well as in the towns of the district. It is doubtful if ever any individual candidate has had as complete and as effective a political organization as has Mr. Purcell, in this contest, and it is a volunteer organization pure and simple, the friends of the popular candidate rallying to his support regardless of party affiliation, and purely out of personal regard for him. A meeting of Mr. Purcell's friends was held yesterday afternoon at the Purcell headquarters at Keyes' Commission Rooms, at which final arrangements were completed.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. until 4 p. m. and all who have a vote should avail themselves of the privilege of voting, and there is little doubt that all will do so, though Lowell has seen livelier presidential campaigns in the past. The early returns will come in late in the afternoon, and The Sun will throw them on the screen upon their arrival. Come down to Merrimack square and get the returns from The Sun.

The Highland Line Joke
 Just one year ago, after the state election Rep. Lewis intimated that he was about to start something that would result in an improvement of the car service in the Highland district where a long-suffering constituency had been getting miserable service, "and then some." But the year has gone by, and likewise Rep. Lewis, with a worse service and more of it, and now the unhappy residents of that neglected district are wondering if the new member of the legislature from ward eight, Mr. Putnam, will take up their cause and attempt to remedy the conditions that at present exist.
 If Rep-elect Putnam answers their request with the statement: "I'll take it up with the management," he's likely to get in bad at the putter, for the stairs in the Grosvenor building, leading to the railroad office are worn from the feet of complaining Highlanders seeking redress at the local headquarters, and they realize that it can't be done through that source for the only result of complaining there made has been the "bawling out" of some motorman, conductor or starter who is not responsible for the system, or lack of it, under which the line is operated.

The Highland car which leaves Merrimack square at 10.07 in the evening always carries a goodly crowd. On Saturday night it carries an army, on Saturday night, a mob. Let me tell you the experience of the Highlanders who took that 10.07 car on last Saturday night. The Highland car preceding it was on time to the minute, and hence it was to be assumed that the next car would also be on time.

But it wasn't, and when the assembling crowd noted that it was late they began to hasten toward East Merrimack street to meet the tardy conveyance before it reached Merrimack square and assure themselves of a seat. By the time the belated car had reached the cable bridge on East Merrimack street it was crowded almost to the doors. More time was lost at the Merrimack square as the crowd which had awaited it at that point paid us they entered, and when it left the square there were 93 fares rung in, the seating capacity of the car being 40.

On the way to the depot a few more tried to crowd on and some managed to get clinging space on the car platform, though it was impossible for them to pay as they entered because they never really entered and couldn't get to the machine in which the fares are deposited. Upon arrival at the depot another crowd awaited the car, and being unable to get anywhere near the rear entrance forced their way onto the front platform, and through the door, and thus got a ride home, such as it was, free of charge. When the car finally left the depot it had 100 passengers aboard at least. It proceeded but a short way along Middlesex street when it met the downward bound Highland car and the crowds charged over. But there was no difference in the size of the conductors and hence the change afforded the passengers no perceptible advantage. When the car turned into Coral street, the excitement of detaining started. Everybody was supposed to leave by the front door. But by the time they had reached it most of them were ready to be carried the remaining distance. Probably about one-half of the passengers had left the car when it arrived at the Pine street turnout, and it was still well filled when along came the 10.27 car behind it, and when the two cars got side by side the passengers in the 10.07 were told to "change cars."

On the 10.27 car was a fair-sized crowd and when the others got in, the 10.27 was packed to the doors, and so tightly packed that it was impossible for the motorman to close the front door of his car, thereby affecting his own view of objects in front of him. In the excitement of anything like safety, the motorman was obliged to extinguish the lights on his front vestibule, and as a result all who left the car from the corner of Stevens and Pine streets to the end of the line were obliged to leave through a pitch-dark vestibule, which in case of accident might be construed as "contributory negligence" by a jury. "It took about three-quarters of an hour to get from Merrimack square in utmost discomfort on that 10.07 and no less than a dozen disgusted passengers asked that something be written about it.

But what's the use? The management may give a conductor for missing a few fares and a motorman for putting out his vestibule lights. The management is never at fault; it's always the conductor, the motorman or the starter, though the public service commission might entertain a different opinion of the situation.

A Lively Night Before

With the soldiers coming home from the border, the big democratic rally and Roger Sherman Hoar challenging Congressman Rogers to meet him on city hall steps at 9 o'clock, there should be excitement enough down town this evening to please all comers. From the manner in which Candidate Hoar words his challenge to his opponent the congressman will have work getting away from a meeting, in graceful manner. If he does appear there should be a real time, as the two engage in joint debate. There isn't any doubt of the size of the audience they'll have, particularly with a democratic rally being held nearby.

"We Think," Etc.

As usual on the eve of election the editor of the Courier-Citizen this morning told the world how to vote, and mentioning the eighth senatorial contest said: "We cannot with any honesty say we regard Mr. Sparks as capable of making nearly as good a senator as Mr. Colburn would make." On the eve of the primaries he told us about McIntyre, Judge Mulligan, Nelson Brown and a few others and in each case apparently the voters read his advice and then voted the other way. In all probability the same thing will happen tomorrow.

The 14th District

One more word about that contest in the 14th district in which Dennis A. Murphy and Charles H. Slowe are the democratic nominees. It is assumed that this district is safely democratic but the fact is yet to be proven, and therefore it is incumbent upon every democrat in wards one, two and nine to vote for the democratic representative candidates and vote for both Messrs. Murphy and Slowe, as the cutting of one of them may mean the defeat of both while by straight voting both can be elected.

The Little Things

Yesterday's Boston Globe had an interesting article on the little things that have affected the presidential campaigns in the past, referring principally to the defeat of James G. Blaine, through the bad break of Dr. Burdard of Rumi, Romanism and Religion memory. Since Senator Lodge made his break about the postscript, he has been dubbed the Burdard of this campaign in many quarters. Twenty-five years ago the late John D. Long was called the Burdard of the Russell-Allyn campaign as the result of his "Little Apples" story. The little things that in minor contests as well as in national matters, and the little things that Candidates Stearns and Colburn have been saying in the country towns and elsewhere are likely to react with force.

Labor Can't Be Fooled

Republicans' Final Effort to "DELIVER" the Labor Vote Exposed

There appears in the leading newspapers of the United States today a page advertisement containing alleged labor testimonials in support of Candidate Hughes and censuring President Wilson.

This is the last desperate effort of the Republican National Committee to hoodwink the Public into believing that even one reputable labor man of prominence is supporting their candidate.

A few days ago they were gleefully quoting a six-year-old statement made by John M. O'Hanlon, Editor of the official organ of the New York State Federation of Labor, even after Mr. O'Hanlon had issued a public statement calling attention to the fact that for months he had been supporting President Wilson.

This time the Republicans are leaning upon Frank Feeney named by Martin M. Mulhall in the famous lobby scandal at Washington as his "closest friend and advisor" while Mulhall was the strike breaker and legislative agent of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Feeney is notoriously known as the labor agent and political henchman of the Penrose-McNichol Machine in Philadelphia. Mulhall swore that he had Feeney on his payroll and that he had documents to prove it.

Two weeks ago the Democratic State Chairman of Pennsylvania publicly charged that Senator Boies Penrose had been put in charge of $400,000 to attempt to influence the labor vote of the country and that Penrose had objected to "doing the dirty work" with so small a slush fund! That charge has not been denied.

Nearly a week ago the Democratic National Committee exposed Frank Feeney's employment by Penrose in this campaign to circulate fake labor endorsements of Mr. Hughes.

The alleged resolutions appearing in today's page advertisement of the Republicans are the work of Feeney and his agents.

The Chicago Building Trades Council did not adopt the pro-Hughes resolution quoted in the Republican advertisement and the Republicans know it!

The false report that such a resolution had been adopted was promptly denounced by Simon O'Donnell, President of the Chicago Building Trades Council and by Edward N. Nockels, Secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The alleged pro-Hughes resolution, offered at a meeting in the Philadelphia Building Trades Council, was defeated. Leonard Kraft, Feeney's closest friend, then drew enough proxies from his pocket to jam it through. A week later—November 3rd—the Council officially denounced the act as a conspiracy and repudiated the alleged pro-Hughes resolution. Feeney tried to get similar resolutions adopted in Cincinnati and other cities—and failed.

When the attention of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was called to the Republican's page advertisement last night, he issued the following statement:

"To the Workingmen of the United States, Greeting:

"As predicted by me a few days ago, there is some scheme to spring a canard upon you when it will be too late to disprove and repudiate the falsehoods and fictitious allegations or declarations.

"The information comes to me that a pretended labor leader has secured some fake declarations of a few supposedly labor organizations attacking the character and the policy of the Labor Representation Committee of the American Federation of Labor, and that they are to be published as advertisements in the newspapers of the country tomorrow (Monday).

"The American Federation of Labor has without a dissenting voice or vote proclaimed the political policy to stand by the friends of labor and justice and to defeat its enemies.

"In this campaign Woodrow Wilson stands for all that is true to labor, justice, patriotism, freedom, and humanity.

"The false friends of labor will fail in their purpose to deceive."

PROGRESSIVE PROGRAM ENACTED INTO LAW

Here is the democratic record of achievement in legislation for the past four years. The platform of the progressive party in 1912 demanded:

The destruction of the invisible government—President Wilson destroyed it when he drove the lobby out of Washington.

Woman Suffrage—Wilson voted for woman suffrage.

National Child Labor Law—Wilson himself drove such a law through congress.

National Income Tax—Wilson's administration enacted that tax.

National Inheritance Tax—Wilson's administration passed an inheritance tax law.

Downward Revision of the Tariff—Wilson's administration revised the tariff downward.

Non-Partisan Tariff Commission—President Wilson obtained the authority and is now choosing such a commission.

Trade Commission—Was appointed by President Wilson under authorization by a democratic congress and is now at work.

Workmen's Compensation Act—Such a law was placed on the statute books.

Federal Department of Labor—In President Wilson's cabinet is a secretary of labor.

Improved Corrupt Practices Act—Such a law is now pending and undoubtedly will become a law at the next session of the democratic congress.

National Aid for Agricultural Education—The agricultural extension law is only one of many measures of the Wilson administration to give such aid.

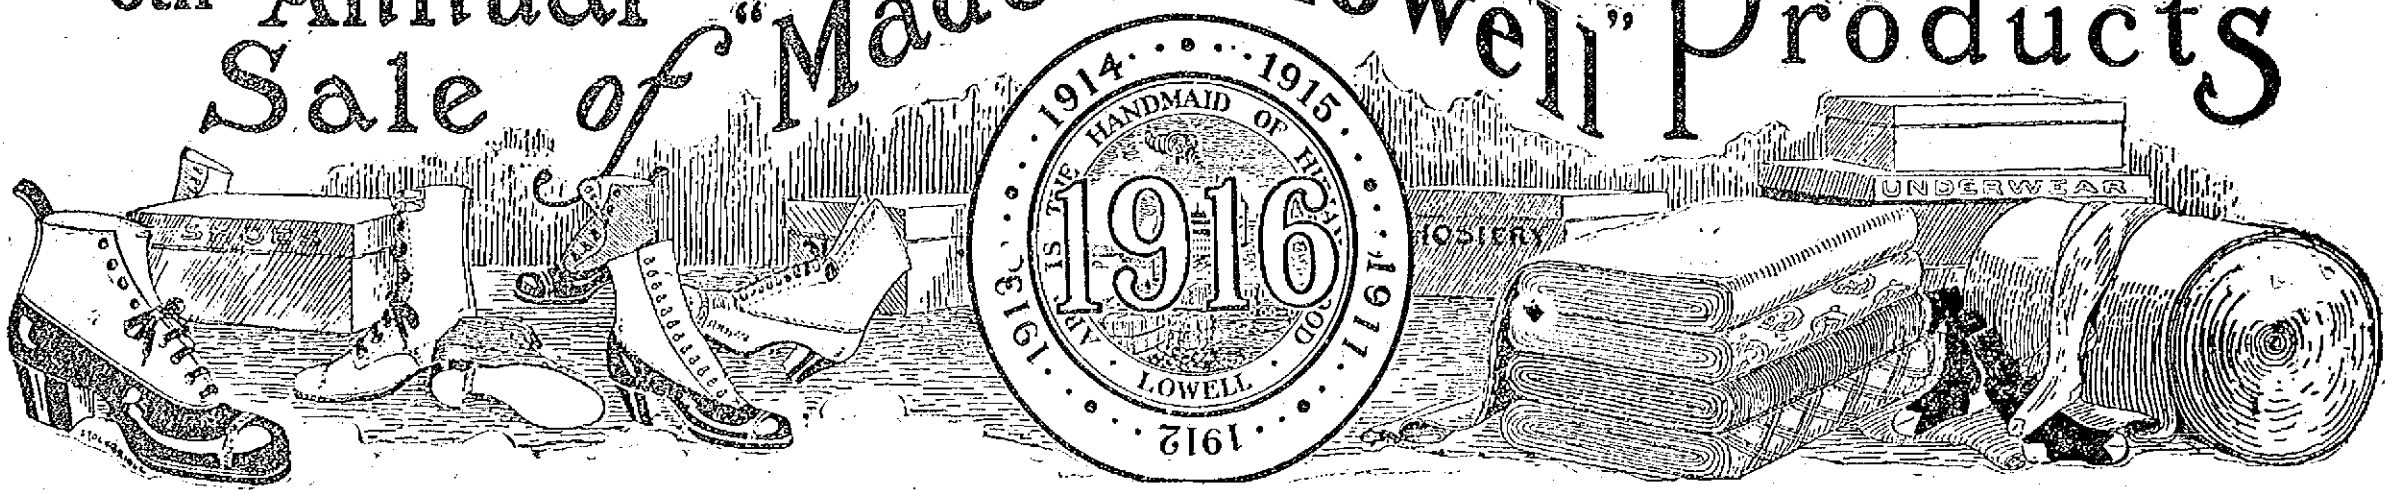

Physical Valuation of Railroads—This physical appraisal is now being made.

Naval Program of Two Battleships Per Year—Wilson's administration has provided for a naval increase three times as great.

An Eight-Hour Day in all Industries Operated Throughout the Day and Night—Wilson has gone far beyond this. He has secured a trial of the eight-hour day even on railroads.

But, more than all this, Wilson has far exceeded the general demand of the progressive platform. The new department of labor takes care of much work that the progressive platform demanded better and more efficiently than could have been done by direct compliance with that party's platform. Health is being looked after by a strengthened public health service. For the first time in history the aid of the federal government has been extended to men in search of work.

This administration has also looked after many matters of real conservation. A national park service has been created and Americans have been introduced to the inexhaustible stores and the landscape beauty in our national parks and reserves.

WILSON THANKS SUPPORTERS FIGHT WON

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 6.—President Wilson Saturday night wired his final word of the campaign to the men who have worked tirelessly to bring about his re-election, this telegram, being sent to every state and county chairman in the country: "I thank you heartily for the splendid work done by you and by all the workers in the cause of progressive principles at issue in this campaign. The fight is won, I fully believe; you to renewed exertions and vigilance to see that belated efforts to confuse the public judgment do not succeed. "Our country is prosperous, secure and happy, and its prosperity is upon a sound basis. Steps to protect our commerce and industry in any emergency after the European war ends have been taken. The anti-dumping clause of the so-called war revenue act provides the executive with ample power to prevent the "dumping" of European surplus manufactures upon our markets. "The tariff commission shortly will be appointed and at work to provide the facts which will determine what other legislation is necessary or desirable. I need not add that the federal reserve act is a guarantee against panics and that the federal trade commission will aid, as it already has helped, to preserve the stability of our domestic and foreign commerce. "I am confident that the time has passed in America when votes can be bought, the ballot box defiled by corrupt practices, or the judgments of the American people determined or influenced in any way by the use of money. It is, however, our duty to take every precaution, lest con-scientious agents of the sinister forces working in opposition to progressive principles and popular government resort in their desperation to industrial coercion or to the evil and insidious practices of a decade and more ago. Woodrow Wilson."

SERVICES SHORTENED
Lights in Haverhill Churches Go Out and Organ Stop Playing When Linemen Cut Cable

HAVERHILL, Nov. 6.—Church services were interrupted, and in some cases cut short, here yesterday when some linemen of the Haverhill Electric company began to cut over some cables in the conduit on Merrimack st. They began their work about 10.30, which is the time for church services to commence. As they started on one cable they cut off the power from St. Joseph's church on Grant street, St. James' church on Winter street, the Winter Street Baptist church, Trinity Episcopal church on White street, and the North Congregational church on Main street. The lights in these churches went out, and they had no power for their organs. As the power remained off for about three-quarters of an hour, the services were necessarily shortened.

IMPORTANT RULINGS BY ACCIDENT BOARD

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 6.—Two important rulings were made by the industrial accident board last week in cases coming before the board in which claim was made for compensation on account of injuries received by employees. In one case the board favored the employee, while in the other the insurance company benefited by the board's finding.

Dorinda Cournoyer of Webster was employed by S. Slater & Sons, and during the noon hour one day last March, with another girl employee, she got on an elevator on the company's premises to "take a ride." The other girl pulled the cable, starting the elevator, and Dorinda was caught between the elevator and the second floor, her leg being broken and the flesh badly torn.

It appeared in the evidence that several other employees had used the elevator for pleasure rides; that no signs were posted warning them not to do so, and that the overseer had never told them not to. The board ruled, however, that an injury arising out of the use for pleasure purposes of a freight elevator, during hours when employees are not actually at work, cannot be held to be an injury arising "out of and in the course of" employment, as intended by the compensation act, and compensation was refused.

Street railway employees will be interested in the case of Bernard J. Gibbons of Watertown, an employee of the Boston Elevated. Gibbons was a motorman on one of the company's big semi-convertible cars, and one day last May attempted to close the front door of the car by using the handle provided for the purpose. The door was obstructed in some way and Gibbons used considerable strength in forcing it to close. In doing so he aggravated an existing hernia, and as a result was laid up for several weeks. The board ruled that he was entitled to compensation during the period of incapacity.

GERMANS RECAPTURE GROUND FROM FRENCH AND BRITISH

Neither the British nor the French were able to retain in its entirety the ground won by them from the Germans on the Somme front during Saturday's fighting.

British Forced to Give Up

Heavy counter-attacks were delivered by German troops last night on the new British positions in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt, south of the Albert-Bapaume road and London today announces that the British were compelled to give up portions of them.

French Driven Out

Similarly the French lines were attacked and Paris states that while the Germans were held off on the line between Sully-Sailles and St. Pierre-Vaast wood they were able to recapture some positions in the wood and in the village of Sully, just to the north of Hamman Victory.

After a long interval the resumption of active operations in Dobruja is reported from Bucharest which announces a Rumanian victory. Rumanian troops are declared to have taken the village of Fild Marshall von Mackensen's troops from several villages which were set on fire as they were evacuated.

Germans Captured 400

Berlin in a lengthy official statement today, regarding the fighting on the Somme front, declares that yesterday's operation consisted of a thrust of the most powerful character by the British and French along a 12-mile front, but that it accomplished nothing except a small gain for the French in St. Pierre-Vaast wood. The Germans captured about 400 prisoners and 11 machine guns.

Teutonic Gains Reported

Regarding the fighting on the Rumanian frontier, Berlin reports Teutonic gains southward of Hirsova, where a height was captured from the Rumanians, and southeast of Rothenthurm pass. The Rumanians were repulsed in attacks in the Saurduk pass region and lost a total of more than 450 men in prisoners in the day's fighting.

Rumanian Advance Checked

The Rumanian advance in the Jiu valley, where pursuit of the Austro-German forces has been going on for several days, has been checked, Gen. von Falkenhayn having reinforced his column in this sector, according to the Bucharest announcement today. Violent engagements are reported at various points along the southern Transylvanian front, with no decisive result recorded.

Teutons to Force Fighting

Premier Radoslawoff of Bulgaria, as quoted in an interview by a Budapest newspaper, declares the central powers will force the fighting during the winter to hurry a decision and will not allow the cold season to be used by the entente as a period of preparation.

TEXT OF EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH'S LETTER REGARDING POLISH MANIFESTO

BERLIN, Nov. 6, by wireless to Sayville.—The text of the letter sent by Emperor Francis Joseph to the Austrian premier, Ernest von Koerber, regarding the Polish manifesto, is given by the Vienna Zeitung as follows: "In accordance with my agreement with his majesty the German emperor, a national state with an hereditary monarchy and a constitutional government will be formed of the Polish districts conquered by our brave armies from Russian domination. This occasion is remembered with deep emotion the many evidences of devotion and faith through my reign on the part of the land of Galicia and likewise of the great and heavy sacrifices which this land, exposed to violent hostile attack, had to make for the victorious defense of the eastern frontiers of my realm, sacrifices which give Galicia everlasting title to my warmest paternal care.

"It is therefore my will, at the moment when the new states come into existence, to grant in connection with this evolution the right to the land of Galicia to settle public affairs autonomously so far as is consistent with the fact that Galicia forms part of our commonwealth and so far as is consistent with the welfare of that land, and thus to offer to the population of Galicia a guarantee of national and economic development.

"In notifying you of my purpose in this connection, I request you to elaborate projects suitable for its legal realization and to place them before me."

NO IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS ON EASTERN OR BALKAN FRONTS

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Today's official statement reports that there were no important developments on either the eastern or the Balkan fronts.

SUCCESS FOR RUMANIANS IN DOBRUJA REPORTED BY BRUDJA

BUCHAREST, Nov. 6, via London, 2:11 p. m.—The war office announces that Rumanian forces in Dobruja have compelled the retirement of Teutonic troops which in their retreat set fire to several villages. The villages burned were Dueni, Garlic, Rosman and Gaidar.

Dueni and Garlic are towns on the Danube 12 miles north of Hirsova. Gaidar is 18 miles northwest of Hirsova. All the places mentioned are situated about 40 miles north of the Constantza-Tchernavoda line.

FRENCH REPULSE ATTACKS OF GERMANS, SAYS PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 6, noon.—A violent attack made by Germans was made last night on the positions captured by the French between Sully-Sailles and St. Pierre-Vaast wood. The war office announced today that this assault was repulsed with heavy loss to the Germans.

Some ground was gained by the Germans in the wood and in the village of Sully.

On the Verdun front there has been active cannonading in the Danoult region but no infantry engagements occurred. Elsewhere along the front the night was calm.

BRITISH COMPELLED TO RELINQUISH GROUND ON SOMME FRONT

LONDON, Nov. 6, 1:45 p. m.—A strong German counter attack last night compelled the British to relinquish a portion of the ground they had captured in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt, on the Somme front, the war office announced today. The text of the statement follows: "During the night a strong enemy counter attack forced us to relinquish a portion of the ground we had won in the neighborhood of Butte de Warlencourt.

"East of Lesbocufs we secured yesterday's gains.

"We conducted three successful raids on trenches in the Armentiers and Ypres areas."

ENTENTE POWERS HAVE LOANED FIVE MILLION FRANKS TO GOV. AT SALONIKI

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The entente powers have loaned five million francs to the provisional government at Saloniki according to an Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. The despatch says that the Athens and London banks have received an order to advance a sum of this amount to the Venizelist officials and charge it to the account of the entente powers.

COMMISSIONER BOULGER CALLS AT HOTELS

The police reported "business quiet" at all of the hotels yesterday and that in most cases there was a very perceptible falling off in patronage. Just how great was the falling off will probably be disclosed in the officers' reports to the superintendent. In order to ascertain if the sandwiches were of the honest-to-goodness type, officers, it is stated, would feel them, and if any were not eaten that might probably account for it. The fact remains that the police seemed very vigilant and some of the hotels had another visitor last evening in the person of Commissioner Boulger, who had undoubtedly decided that he would see things for himself. His visits were unannounced and he went unattended. Only two arrests for drunkenness were made during the day.

GERMAN U-BOAT BLOWN UP

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Copenhagen says a German submarine stranded Saturday night off Fathore, on the west coast of Denmark. After vain attempts by German torpedo boat destroyers to rebait it and the refusal of assistance from the local life boat station, the crew blew up the submarine and took refuge on board the destroyers.

WHERE THE RACE OF MEN PASS BY—THE MEN WHO VOTE AND THE MEN WHO DON'T

Roger Sherman Hoar of Concord, candidate for the U. S. congress, met with a second automobile accident yesterday afternoon, the second since opening his campaign, and as a result he left his machine by the side of the road between this city and Wilmington and rode to Lowell in a Lowell-bound machine which picked him up on the road. Mr. Hoar's ear became crippled while driving it to Lowell.

FITZGERALD AT WOBURN

Democratic Candidate for Senator Urges Government Ownership of Mineral Deposits

WOBURN, Nov. 5.—Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the opening of the Woburn forum in Lyceum hall. Ex-Mayor Henehey presided and fully 1000 were present. Mr. Fitzgerald said in part:

"I think it is a fine idea for cities like Woburn and Brockton and other communities where forums have been established to discuss affairs relating to the public weal. The Ford hall forum in Boston is doing splendid work."

"In a huge advertisement issued this morning by the republican state committee, attention is called to the fact that wages in this country are two and a half times as much as they are abroad. The voters are called upon to vote the republican ticket as a reason for the continuance of that condition of affairs."

"As I have said before in this campaign, this argument of the republicans is a falsity and does not stand the test. The woolen and cotton industries are the highest protected in the state, while boots and shoes have no protection, yet wages in the boot and shoe industry are 40 per cent. higher than in the cotton and woolen industry."

"The fact is that the United States is the wealthiest place in the world, and can easily distribute amongst the 100,000,000 people 2-3 times as much as any other nation can give. Germany, for instance, is not as big as our one state of Texas, neither is France nor Great Britain, yet all of these countries give insurance against sickness, accident, non-employment and old age."

"We grow nearly all the cotton in the world, a large proportion of the wheat, most of the corn, while our mineral deposits are stupendous and would satisfy a nation five times as big as ours if the people controlled them."

"I have said upon the platform that the time has come when the United States should own the tremendous deposits of coal and oil that lie underneath the surface."

"I believe the time has come when there should be an embargo on the exportation of food products until the reasonable demands of the people of the United States are satisfied."

"I believe that a system of insurance akin to that in Great Britain, Germany and France, should be in vogue in the United States, and when I go to the senate I shall introduce a bill for that purpose."

SUPPER AND CONCERT

A supper and concert was held in Oad Fellows hall, Middlesex street, Saturday evening in observance of the 34th anniversary of Waverly lodge, 104, Sons of St. George. The affair was attended by over 200 people and proved most enjoyable.

The supper was served at 5 o'clock and the meal was presided over by P.P. Joseph Wilnot. Later the guests repaired to Encampment hall, where a delightful entertainment program was carried out, those taking part being Fred Timmus, Master Wilber Roberts, Mrs. Albert Felding and Miss Timmus. The members of the degree staff of Princess lodge, Daughters of St. George, gave a pleasing exhibition drill under the direction of Miss Nellie Haslam with Miss Northam at the piano. Addresses were given by Supreme Vice President John Orrell, a charter member of Waverly lodge, and by Mr. Wilnot.

The committee in charge of the event consisted as follows: N. W. Matthews, Jr., chairman; Fred Potter, secretary; Samuel Holgate, treasurer; Willis H. Bowles, Benjamin Holgate, D. H. Hogue, William S. Dawson, John Orrell, Samuel J. Burt and Joseph Wilnot, assisted by Frank L. Orrell, Ernest Orrell, Seth Fawthrop, William Horaby, Albert Stophard, John W. Corfield, William Shires, Herbert Ashton, Thomas Gardiner and John Barker attended to the sale of tickets.

CALLS ON LABOR TO VOTE FOR PRES. WILSON

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—In a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Boston Central Labor union yesterday afternoon, all laboring people are called on to support President Woodrow Wilson at the polls tomorrow.

The resolution, enumerating laws enacted by the present administration, mentions the Clayton Anti-trust act, seamen's act, child labor law and the eight-hour law for railroad employees, points out that the utterances of the principal political opponent of President Wilson and the well-known views of his principal backers and supporters leads the central body to entertain the gravest fears that much of the beneficial labor legislation enacted during the last four years will be nullified or wiped from the statute books if labor fails to support public officials who have rendered "such valuable assistance as has the present administration."

The central body at Washington is asked to express its approval of the administration of President Wilson and to endorse his candidacy.

PRES. GOMPERS HEADS OFF A CANARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued the following statement last night, addressed to "The workmen and citizens of the United States":

"As predicted by me a few days ago there is some scheme to spring a canard upon you when it will be too late to disprove and repudiate the falsehood and malicious allegations or declarations."

"The information comes to me that a pretended labor leader has secured some false declarations of a few supposed organizations, attacking the character and the policy of the labor representation committee of the American Federation of Labor, and that they are to be published as advertisements in the newspapers of the country tomorrow (Monday)."

"The American Federation of Labor has, without a dissenting voice or vote, proclaimed the political voice to stand by the friends of labor and justice and to defeat its enemies."

"In this campaign Woodrow Wilson stands for all that is true to labor, justice, patriotism, freedom and humanity."

"The false friends of labor will fail in their purpose to deceive."

MEETING OF FRIENDS OF IRISH FREEDOM

A regular meeting of the Patrick H. Pearse branch, Friends of Irish Freedom was held in Hibernian hall last evening with a large attendance. Among other business transacted plans were made for a commemorative meeting for the Irish martyrs of Master week, at Associate hall, Sunday evening, November 26. The anniversary of the Manchester martyrs has usually been celebrated around this date, but this year the other Irish societies will join with the Friends of Irish Freedom in a great joint celebration.

The committee is planning to have as principal speaker Judge Patrick O'Donnell of Chicago, a noted orator, and among other speakers will be Luke Dillon of Philadelphia, one of the noted political prisoners of Boston (Irish). A concert of appropriate vocal and instrumental music will also be provided.

An invitation was received from the Irish National Foresters asking the body and through them all friends of Ireland to march with them to the Sacred Heart church Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock where a solemn mass of requiem will be offered up for the men who died for Irish freedom.

Other Irish societies are planning for a mass for the same purpose that morning at St. Patrick's church and large congregations are expected at both.

WM. G. BUNCE, FAMOUS ARTIST, KILLED BY AUTO

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 5.—William Gedney Bunce of Hartford, said to be the best-known painter of Venetian subjects, was killed here last night at 6 o'clock, when he was struck by an automobile driven by John C. Nichols.

He is believed to have painted more Venetian studies than any other artist of the present day, and his paintings are to be seen in almost every gallery of any size in this country and in France.

His most famous picture, "A Venice Night," painted in 1874 and 1875, won first prize in the Paris Salon in 1875. The companion picture, "A Venice Morning," was hung in the Paris Salon and received a gold medal in 1875. In that year he entered the Society of American artists in New York. His picture, "La Luna Venetiana," was sent to the Paris exposition, and was one of the most-talked-of pictures hung there.

The French republic purchased several of Mr. Bunce's pictures, and Queen Victoria bought one at Riviera.

FOUR CHURCHES HOLD UNION SERVICE

The first of a series of union services was held at the High Street church Sunday evening. The other churches represented being the Elliot Congregational, the First Unitarian and the First Universalist. The preacher was Richard L. Swain, Ph.D., of Bridgeport, Conn., who gave the introductory address to a series of two lectures, to be given at the High Street church this week. These lectures will be delivered each evening, excepting Saturday at 8 o'clock and questions are invited at the close.

The sermon last evening was on "The Honest Atheist." Dr. Swain relating his own religious doubts and experiences as typical of the point of view of many. A questioning condition of mind, he said, is to be found within the church as well as without it. He deplored the fact that so many college men lose a sense of religion and told of teachers in colleges who believe neither in God nor in a soul. In relating his own experience he said that he is the son of English parents who came here when he was a small boy and settled in the frontier. As a boy he never doubted the existence of God, but when he reached 14 a new impulse woke within him. He has attended revival meetings and he tried to get the religious feeling of the older people. After one experience of what he described as ecstasy he felt that other religious experiences were and soon grew to doubt and question. Then, still doubting, he helped in evangelistic work in a supernatural psychic state. Finally he went to college and to his theological school and in the study of philosophy discovered that to look for revelations from God is neither Christian nor sensible. The popular conception of God, he said, is wrong and we may not know any more about it after death than we know now. Yet if one knew all that "God" means, there would be no need for other definitions of creed. At the close a few questions were asked and Dr. Swain gave interesting answers.

St. Paul's Church

Twenty new members were admitted to membership at St. Paul's church yesterday. There was a large attendance at the communion service and two members were baptized. The sermon in the evening was on "Is Religion Necessary?" and Rev. C. E. Skinner in his talk declared that religion is not only necessary, but indispensable to humanity. Without religion life is incomplete. Religion is native to the soul; it alone makes for the highest development of all powers. "But we want a religion which honors God, exalts man and one which spans the great divide. Christ alone adequately meets the test." Charles V. Barker gave an organ recital of 30 minutes. There was a large attendance.

Calvary Baptist

Yesterday was the seventh anniversary of the erection of the Calvary Baptist church and also brought to a conclusion a seven weeks' campaign for new members for the church. It was learned that 42 members were admitted to membership. The pastor, Rev. A. Reed Dills, took for his morning topic, "New Things," a subject appropriate to the occasion, and especially helpful to the new members who were received into the church at the communion service. The evening subject was "A Great Keeper," on which Rev. Mr. Dills preached a telling sermon. On Friday evening of this week, a reception will be given for the new members, with a roll-call supper for the entire membership.

FIRE TOOK PART IN MOVIES AT THE JEWEL

Considerable excitement was caused in upper Merrimack street shortly before 7:30 o'clock, Saturday night, when an alarm was sent in from box 24 for a blaze in the cellar of the building numbered 501-503 Merrimack street. When the blaze was discovered, it had consumed a great deal of rubbish in the cellar and the smoke poured from the windows in huge volumes. Thick smoke also made its way into the Jewel theatre, where there were hundreds of people seated watching the "movies." The management of the house notified those present that there was no danger and but few left the theatre.

The heat from the fire was so intense that it burned off connections to two gas meters, and for a time there was a rush of gas which made it difficult for the firemen to fight the

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

flames, but when the gas was shut off, the firemen were able to make better progress and it was but a short time before the blaze was under control.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building, owned by Esther Harpocopian on Merrimack street damaged by fire Saturday night.

Another Cellar Fire

An alarm from box 6 was sounded at 5:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon for a fire in a pile of rubbish in a cellar at 35 Lakeview avenue. The fire was extinguished before any material damage was done. The property is owned by Robert Bartlett.

And Still Another

What threatened to be a dangerous fire broke out in a pile of kindling wood in a cellar at 609 Market street, shortly after six o'clock Saturday night, but the early discovery and prompt response of the fire department put an end to the blaze before much damage was done.

91 LIVES LOST IN COLLISION OF SHIPS

BELFAST, Nov. 6.—The death list as a result of the disaster to the steamers Connemara and Retriever on Thursday night is now set at 91. Eighty-two persons lost their lives on the Connemara and nine on the Retriever. Sixty-nine bodies have been recovered.

The collision occurred at 8:30 o'clock in the evening a mile off the coast. The sole survivor of the Retriever, James Boyle, was in the water half an hour clinging to an overturned boat, which was washed ashore.

The disaster was due directly to a storm. The incoming Retriever and outgoing Connemara were steering the proper courses to pass each other in the narrow channel of Greenacree harbor. The vessels were nearly abreast when a huge wave struck the Retriever, laden with coal, altering her course. Before she could recover, her bow was driven amidships into the Connemara. The Retriever was so badly damaged that she sank in a quarter of an hour.

The collision was seen from the shore, but the sea was too rough to permit assistance being sent to the ships. Scores of rockets were sent up from the shore in the hope of drawing any ships in the neighborhood to the rescue, but apparently none was near. The boilers of both steamers exploded after the collision, killing a great number of the persons on board, as was made evident by the mutilated bodies washed ashore.

The people on board did not even have time to secure lifebelts as none of the dead was found to be provided with them.

BABY GIRL IS DESERTED ON MAINE COAST

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 6.—A well-dressed baby girl about six months old, was found abandoned in a stateroom of the Governor Cobb yesterday morning. The boat left Boston last night. The only clue to her identity was a name, Irene Holt, written on a piece of note paper and pinned to the baby's breast.

The police have but a hazy description of the couple that engaged the stateroom, but are watching every railroad station in the city and searching hotels and lodging houses in an effort to locate the pair. The man in taking passage, gave his name as A. W. Harris, no address.

The infant was dressed in expensive clothing, while, according to a stewardess, the couple who occupied the stateroom were poorly dressed. This may indicate, the police say, that the couple were hired to make the trip to this city from Boston and to desert the baby here.

The baby was found at 8 o'clock by a porter who entered the stateroom to make the berth. The baby was in the upper berth, playing with her toes and cooing to herself. The porter reported that a half hour earlier when he had knocked at the door the couple had been inside the stateroom.

The police were notified and men were sent to the railroad stations but it is believed that the couple had time to reach the Union station and take the 2 o'clock train back to Boston before the police reached the station.

Officials of the steamship line stated that the couple had purchased their tickets at the uptown office of the line in Boston and that they had kept closely to their state room after coming aboard last night. No one can be found who remembers seeing the couple bring the baby aboard the boat. A stewardess who was called to the stateroom when they came aboard, reports that the man was between 21 and 25 years of age and the woman about 16. He wore a shabby gray suit and stiff hat, and the woman wore a brown suit.

You Are Working; —Not Fighting! Alive and Happy; —Not Cannon Fodder! Wilson and Peace with Honor? or Hughes with Roosevelt and War?

Roosevelt says we should hang our heads in shame because we are not at WAR with Germany in behalf of Belgium!

Roosevelt says that following the sinking of the Lusitania he would have foregone diplomacy and seized every ship in our ports flying the German flag. That would have meant WAR!

Hughes Says
He and Roosevelt are in Complete Accord!

Senator Fall, who has vast interests in Mexico and is Candidate Hughes' advisor as to Mexican Affairs, declares "a Hughes WAR would be preferable to a Wilson peace."

Read the published list of Heavy Subscribers to the Republican campaign fund, then look up the list of Americans with enormous interests in Mexico and learn why those who place the almighty dollar ahead of human life would not hesitate to plunge this country into an ignoble war of conquest—would not stop at sacrificing thousands and thousands of American lives in their greed for oil and gold.

Look again at this list. Then you will see why the "Old Guard" appeals frantically for a protective tariff—

THAT BREEDER OF STRIKES, OF STARVATION WAGES, AND OF EVERY PANIC THAT EVER CURSED THIS COUNTRY—

And which made billions for organized wealth by putting honest competition out of business.

You will see why in sheer desperation and bereft of all decency the Republican "Old Guard" is capitalizing the lamentable incidents in Mexico and trying

Read the list still again. Note the names of men heavily entrenched financially in the protective tariff system and in vicious special privilege.

Read and see why millions are being spent to reenact the Payne-Aldrich tariff—to wipe out the Federal Reserve System—to repeal the Eight Hour law and other progressive laws—to undo the Wilson Record of unparalleled achievement.

Then understand why Candidate Hughes said in his Milwaukee speech: "The whole list of Democratic accomplishment must be wiped off the books for the good of the country."

John W. DISEASES OF CHILDREN

I find worms one of the most common of children's diseases—either pinworms or stomach worms. These parasites make their presence felt through deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and watery, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 50 years Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, has been the standard remedy for worms, stomach disorders and constipation, both for children and adults. Mr. Wm. L. INVESTIGATE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The rising cost of living is being investigated by the government to ascertain whether the increasing prices are being pushed upward unlawfully. Wherever that is found to be the case, persons responsible will be punished to the full extent of the law, according to Attorney-General Gregory. Agents of the department of justice particularly are seeking evidence of unlawful price increases through conspicuous or other means.

The attorney-general yesterday authorized the following statement of his department's activities in that connection:

"The department of justice investigation of recent abnormal and suspicious increases in the prices of various necessities of life, especially food. Wherever any such increase has been due to conspiracy or other unlawful action the department will invoke against the offenders the severest penalties which the law prescribes."

GET TOGETHER DAY OF THE BOY SCOUTS

The "get together" day of the Boy Scouts of the Greater Lowell council held at Golden Cove Saturday was a pronounced success. A feature was the sporting program. The starter was Scoutmaster Ernest Mountain and the judges were Scoutmasters Herbert Vance, Arthur W. Shaw, Axel Schomborn, Ernest Gunther, Rev. Raymond G. Clapp and Rev. F. W. Tingley of Dracut. The result of the program follows:

100 yard dash under 14 years, won by Scout Carl Laidlaw of Troop 13.
100 yard dash over 14 years, won by Walter Lorman of Troop 8.
Bicycle verbal despatch race, won by David Lambertson, Alfred Palmer, Fred Willet and Rupert Rhodes.
Blind crab race, won by Leroy Perkins of Troop 16.
Scout race, a most interesting and educational scout event, won by Walker Caddell of Troop 15.
Staff race, won by Troop 11 of Dracut.
One mile bicycle race, scouts under 14, won by Walter Rogers of Troop 10 from a held of 25 contestants.
One mile bicycle race, scouts over 14, won by Alfred Lamson of Troop 18, from 15 contestants.
Antelope race: Won by Troop 4, the Scandinavian troop; Scouts Hedlund, Castor, Lloyd, Matley, Stromberg, Ryan, Copp and Laurin.

RESCUE MORE THAN 50 IN NEW YORK BAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Volunteer lifesavers and coast guard crews rescued more than 50 persons yesterday in the outer bay when a northeast gale drove inland disabled motor boats and small fishing craft. Coast guards from Sandy Hook station went to the rescue of three power boats, in one of which were 20 fishermen. Another boat, the Mary E. Combs, drifted ashore at Sandy Hook point with 33 fishermen clinging to her sides.

A small motor boat, tossed by the heavy sea, ran aground near the shore, attracting hundreds of persons to the beach. The three occupants were rescued by a coast guard cutter after being tossed about for three hours by the gale.

A lifeboat crew from the Anchor line steamer Calabria, outbound for Naples, took eight men from the disabled motor boat. Echo in Ambrose channel and transferred them to the pilot boat New York. Coast guard stations at Monmouth beach, Sea-brigh and Spermaceti Cove reported many fishing and small pleasure craft in distress, but were unable to launch lifeboats to go to their assistance on account of the heavy seas.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"The Story of the Rosary," Walter Howard's great drama of love and war, is the offering of the Emerson Players at the Opera House all this week and it is a play that every man, woman and child in Lowell and for miles around will see. There is a great demand for seats for the attraction now and though capacity houses will rule the week and night, there is a possibility to be hundreds of requests to run the play a second week, previous contracts make it impossible to do so, and who ever will make reservations early and thus avoid any chance of disappointment. Reservations can be made by "phoning 261."

"The Story of the Rosary" was originally produced in London and for a year played to packed houses after-noon and evening at the Prince's theatre in New York. The play ran for nine months and just now is enjoying a very successful run in Chicago while there are two other companies appearing in the big cities of the south and west offering the attraction at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2. The play has been secured by special contract by the Sanger and Jordan, the well known New York playbrokers, at an almost prohibitive royalty and one of the largest theatres in the city is being any attraction offered in stock in recent years.

Ivan Miller is seen at his best in the play as the character which he portrays offers him splendid opportunities to exploit his talents. Harriet Duke also has wonderful opportunities in this attraction and her work is certain to win her legions of admirers. Mildred Vincent, James Hayden, Rose Morrison, Gertrude Shirley, Gladys Meigs, James F. Galloway, Frank Wright, Ernest East, Davis Baker, Hatfield and other members of the company also appear in fine character parts. The production is given with seven distinct settings.

The play has all the elements of a great success. The character which is portrayed is a woman of strong personality and while intensely dramatic, there are many delightful comedy scenes in the play and they are sprinkled around beautifully. "The Story of the Rosary" is a play that will live long in the memory of the theatregoers of this city and the entire country. The production. The play is not to be confused with "The Rosary," which has been played in this city many times. "The Story of the Rosary" is a brand new success and an entirely different play.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"Vaudeville Musical Comedy" is the title of the brilliant skit to be shown at the B. F. Keith theatre this week by Roger Gray & Co. Gray is new to vaudeville, but he has had a long and rather eventful career in the highest grade of musical comedy, and he is in a position to "put over" many of the bright things connected with that field of amusement. For the purpose of bringing out all of the niceties of the musical comedy, the company has formed a mixed quartet, so that every thing just as it is programmed in the larger productions will get a neat little dig from this company of musical satirists. "Our Bob" is just a dramatization of Robert L. Dailey's own personality, for Robert Dailey will play the title part of our musical skit. He, too, has been featured in several of the biggest successes of recent years. Keller Mack and Frank Orth have written this delightful musical sketch around Mr. Dailey, and have given him an opportunity to show his unusual talents.

A novel singing finish is one of the best things in the piece. McIntosh and his Scotch lassie will sing and play, beat the drums and blare the brass and, besides, they will swing their little and contribute stirring songs and sword dances. What does the blood a-fighting more than a well done Scottish turn? And McIntosh is a brave lad, who knows just what all the world likes to see in a well fought forward Highland scenes. The lassies are an engaging lot. The Merrimack Brothers are billed as the most sensational aerial performers in the world. They make use of a replica of the Eiffel tower in Paris in doing their daredevil stunts. Jack Sidney and Miss Billie Townsend make frequent changes of costume, and sing and dance. Arthur Rigby, the old time minstrel blackface comedian, will entertain royally. The Larneds, a man and woman, offer "Nonsense on Wheels." The Pathe News will give all first-run news pictures.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The bill of pictures which will be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday of the continuous performances is worthy of the attention of every movie picture enthusiast, and will doubtless engage the attention of all who are appreciative. And the stars? There is the famous actor of Oriental birth and ancestry, Sessue Hayakawa, who appears on these next three days with the adorable Myrtle Stedman in the new drama "The Soul of Kura San." Sessue appears in the role of a poor Japanese artist in love with the Japanese beauty, Kura-San, the daughter of a tea house merchant. Upon the death of his uncle in America, he goes to Japan to claim his bride, but in his absence many things have happened which bring about a tragedy which leads the Japanese to believe that women have no souls. The play, which is interesting in every scene, shows what little regard the old Jap has for suffering and death.

Lenore Ulrich will also be seen today, tomorrow and Wednesday in a pleasing yet powerful picture, entitled "The Intrigue." This is a modern story revolving around the invention of an X-ray gun which the United States refuses to buy. Miss Ulrich as Countess Sonia, an international spy, foils the purchase of it by another government. Though the inventor loses his gun through the destruction of the model, he wins more—the heart of the girl he loves. The play brings out a lot of great dramatic action and is well worth seeing. A very funny comedy—one which will make everyone laugh, has also been booked for the first half of this week; as well as the Pathe News, which gives every patron a living glimpse of the events of world interest.

There is also evening the latest election bulletins will be given from the stage. Special arrangements have been made which assure prompt service. "Less than the Dust," the first picture produced by Mary Pickford's new company, is the last word in motion picture art. By far it surpasses any play of its kind produced.

ROYAL THEATRE
Among the famous masterpieces of fiction turned out by Alexander Dumas is "Black, the Story of a Dog," a plausible story of reincarnation. This author, known all over the world, has been called the greatest writer of fiction in his day, and his contributions always proved novel and refreshing. His subtle phraseology, his wonderful grasp of humanity, his keen eye for the truth, a sincerity which other writers lacked. The above internationally famous novel has been screened under the title of "Where is My Father?" in which May Ward, surrounded by the best of the stars, is starred. Her supporting cast is an excellent one, and the production is one of the most sensational ever filmed. This seven part master play, and five other new releases, among them a railroad story, featuring Helen Gibson, will round out the entire show for today and tomorrow.

The story of "Where is My Father?" deals with the adventures of Dieudonne de la Craverie, a well-to-do Parisian who marries a young orphan who soon wears of her good natured husband. Learning of her unfaithfulness, he leaves her in the South Pacific islands, with Dumesnil, a sincere friend, who tells him that if he needs him after his own death, he would come to serve him in the shape of a dog. His wife dying in Paris, and some time later the death of Dumesnil even leave him a broken man. Years later, Dieudonne returns in Paris, and there, one day, a black dog comes to him. The dog leads him to a theatre, who, unknown to him, is the daughter of his unfortunate wife of years ago. She is to commit suicide, she being alone and destitute, and having been betrayed by a scion of society. We then see the young girl restored to happiness, and a calm old age comes over Dieudonne and the dog "Black."

This novel theme has been remarkably well handled by a splendid cast of high class players, and Dumas' splendid bit of fiction has not lost its flavor in the filming.

OWL THEATRE
Lionel Barrymore, the idol of hundreds of local theatregoers, has been starred in another great five part Metro photoplay, entitled "The Brand of Cowardice," which will head the big Owl theatre bill today and tomorrow. Advance notices predict that Barrymore will gain thousands of new admirers by his wonderful portrayal of the military man in this new release, which was taken on the Mexican border while the troops of the state militia were stationed there. This new play deals with a military matter. It was written by a military man and the man who directed it to the making is a West Point graduate and a veteran of the Spanish war. Appearing with Barrymore in this film is the charming young star, Grace Valentine, who, displaying such wonderful talent that she rose from the ranks of the supernos to the heights of stardom in less than 12 months.

The story of "The Brand of Cowardice" deals with the recent trouble with Mexico. Barrymore is seen in the role of an officer of a crack militia company, who refuses to go to Mexico at the call of the president. His fiancée calls him a coward and returns his engagement ring, then leaves for Mexico to join her father, who is a general in the regular army. The officer, stung by the girl's contempt, goes to Mexico and joins the army as a private there, comes in contact with a fighting corporal and after giving him a severe thrashing, deserts the army and flees across the border to Mexico. In the meantime, the girl falls into the hands of a crowd of Mexican bandits. The despised sweetheart soon after learns of it and goes alone to the village of the bandits. How he finally rescues the girl and how his bravery and heroism have for him forms one of the best photoplays ever released on the Metro screen. In addition to "The Brand of Cowardice" other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl today and tomorrow.

Build Up Your Blood
It is a hopeless task to try to restore your health while your blood is deficient in quantity or quality.
The blood circulates through every part of the body, keeps the hair and nails. It takes the nourishment from the food and distributes it to the various muscles and organs; it takes also any medication that is administered through the mouth. The blood is the only means by which medicine can reach the nerves. If the blood is thin its carrying capacity is lessened because it is the red corpuscles in the blood that carry oxygen and other needed constituents to the various parts of the body.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People increase the red corpuscles in the blood. They enable it to absorb more oxygen, to carry more life and strength to the weakened organs. In any disease in which the patient becomes thin and pale Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be used successfully to combat the anemia and build up the health and strength.
"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of good information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price 50 cents.

ROYAL THEATRE
Among the famous masterpieces of fiction turned out by Alexander Dumas is "Black, the Story of a Dog," a plausible story of reincarnation. This author, known all over the world, has been called the greatest writer of fiction in his day, and his contributions always proved novel and refreshing. His subtle phraseology, his wonderful grasp of humanity, his keen eye for the truth, a sincerity which other writers lacked. The above internationally famous novel has been screened under the title of "Where is My Father?" in which May Ward, surrounded by the best of the stars, is starred. Her supporting cast is an excellent one, and the production is one of the most sensational ever filmed. This seven part master play, and five other new releases, among them a railroad story, featuring Helen Gibson, will round out the entire show for today and tomorrow.

The story of "Where is My Father?" deals with the adventures of Dieudonne de la Craverie, a well-to-do Parisian who marries a young orphan who soon wears of her good natured husband. WILSON AND THE NATION'S DESTINIES

Had President Wilson any desire to play politics on our international relations, he would have taken advantage of the sinking of the Marina and the consequent loss of American lives to make threats against Germany or even to order the German ambassador to get out, charging that in the Marina disaster, the German pledge not to sink vessels without due warning had been violated.

The president, however, has proceeded as he would have done had the election been two years away, by taking the only sensible and logical course open to him. He called for the details of the disaster. When the evidence is secured, he will weigh it carefully and if it be found that Germany has violated her pledge, he will hold her to strict accountability. Whether that will mean a severance of diplomatic relations will depend upon the circumstances of the case.

Some of the president's unreasoning critics, such as Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Hughes, seem to think that he should treat Germany with something like the same bulldozing tactics as Roosevelt used against Colombia in the Panama affair and for which we had to pay an indemnity in order to convince the South American republics that we are not looking for opportunities to exploit them for our own ends.

If President Wilson paid any attention to the jingoes that are howling at his heels for political effect, this country would certainly be involved in war either with Mexico or with Germany; and the men who shouted most loudly for war would be the last to respond to the nation's call for defenders.

It is certainly fortunate that in a world crisis like the present, the destinies of this nation are directed by an able, sincere, honest, fearless and patriotic statesman who will not be swayed from the right path by the prospect of personal advantage or the threat of political defeat. The country is safe with Wilson in the White House and despite the cacophony of the army of critics on the republican side, there is every indication that the sovereign people will select him as their chief executive for four years more.

Democrats, vote your straight ticket from top to bottom at the polls tomorrow, and be careful not to spoil your ballots.

MORE MEXICAN ALARMS

It was expected that some alarming despatches would come from Mexico near election day relative to outrages in which the lives of Americans would be threatened. Secretary Baker warned the public of this scheme to influence votes in the coming election. Accordingly a despatch announces that Villa robbed a train near Juarez and maltreated the passengers in other ways. As a result, a great many of the critics of President Wilson threw up their hands in affected horror and exclaimed that "Americans have no protection anywhere." When did the United States become responsible for the work of Mexican bandits or for false reports sent out to influence votes in the coming election?

The case was different during the administrations of Roosevelt and Taft. Americans were killed and outraged in Mexico at that time; but the republican press did not stand aghast at the present. President Wilson has done more to stop outrages in Mexico than any republican president. Moreover, as he has an international commission settling the Mexican trouble at the present time, he is not warranted in sending an army to inflict summary punishment on the bandits who may rob a train or commit other outrages as they have been doing for a great many years.

Every sensible citizen will realize that this country does not want to get into war with Mexico while the European war is in progress for the reason that we know not the day nor the hour on which we may be involved in the world conflict. Our best guarantee of peace lies in having at the White House a diplomat and a statesman who can deal in a capable manner with every international problem that may come up for settlement. It must be plain also that were this country engaged in cleaning up Mexico, it could not give proper attention to the enforcement of our rights on the sea as a neutral nation. Besides, war with Mexico would deprive us of the friendship and the trade of the South American republics. It might also induce them to call in some foreign power in violation of the Monroe doctrine. These fundamental principles do not seem to have any weight with the critics of the administration who assail the president, although he is still guarding the interests of the country with patriotic courage.

LODGE'S ROORBACK

Senator Lodge's roorback has acted as a boomerang in its effect upon the republican campaign. While accepting the president's denial he fought a rear-guard action in his retreat, and though unable to sustain his original charge, he conveyed the impression that the charge was true. Mr. Lodge in the past has been able to induce this propensity with security as he did not have to appeal to the people for votes.

It will be remembered that in the early part of last year, the administration was accused of intending to purchase the German ships interned in American ports and that certain members of the administration had a personal interest in the deal. A senate committee investigated the story and called witnesses, but no one could throw any light on the source of the story. In spite of the testimony proving that the charge was false, Mr.

Lodge wrote an article in the Outlook in which he repeated the charge on his own authority. It is such political tactics that have discredited Senator Lodge and placed him in the matter of reliability and veracity on a very low level as compared with Senator Weeks and the average senator in congress.

REGISTER PURCELL

Register Purcell has brought his office to a high state of efficiency under which the work of tracing titles is much easier and much less expensive than formerly. Besides, the records are protected against the risk of destruction by fire while safety lockers are provided for lawyers who wish to deposit valuable papers there while engaged in looking up titles. All these changes have made the office much more serviceable to the public and this is why he deserves a re-election at the hands of the voters regardless of party.

We are assured that there is no truth in the charge made by his opponent, Mr. Stearns, that young ladies employed at the registry have been making a house to house canvass for Mr. Purcell. If any young lady employed there asked some of her friends to vote for Mr. Purcell, she had a perfect right to do so. The charge that clerks do so on the county's time is absurd, as all have to be at their respective desks during the regular working hours of the office.

THE EX-PRESIDENTS

The two ex-presidents are making a ludicrous showing in this campaign. We are sorry for Mr. Taft, who has always tried to be decent and consistent. As for Roosevelt, he is the most dangerous and unscrupulous man in American politics today. If he had any influence in directing the government, the peace and safety of the nation would at once be placed in the utmost peril.

His tirade in New York like Lodge's will help the democrats elect Wilson.

SENATORIAL CANDIDATES

Hon. John T. Sparks, the democratic nominee for senator, has a record as a legislator that should commend him to all parties as the right man to elect.

In the seventh senatorial district, the democratic candidate is Frederick W. Burke of Lynn. We do not know much about Mr. Burke except that he is a good democrat which should bring him the support of every member of his party in that district.

REPRESENTATIVE CONTESTS

Under the new arrangement of the representative districts, the county commission gave the democrats a square deal for the first time perhaps within the memory of living men. If the democrats of Lowell do not elect three representatives, the fault will be their own. Stand by the democratic nominees for representative in your district.

FOR GOVERNOR

Hon. Frederick W. Mansfield has made a splendid campaign, fair, open.

decent, honorable. His friends hope he will be elected, but if defeat comes, he will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has won a high place in the hearts of a great portion of the people of this state.

Of course the fiery editors who advocate war with Europe or Mexico would have no objection to serving in the trenches if the call came. Or do they suppose that their patriotic duty consists simply in standing aside and shouting "sie em" to the war dogs?

Seen and Heard

The man who never has stumbled has never been anywhere and never did anything.

The man who raises the price of coal has no desire to know what the people of this country are saying at their firesides.

"Mike," said Budding Pete, "what would you do if you had a million dollars?" "I'd burn 'em," answered Alexander Mike. "But in my suspicion, I'd be sitting up nights worrying 'em for some of these billion dollar boys out freeze me out an git it away from me."

A little North Carolina girl went with her mother to make a call. On their way home they got lost in the woods. After the girl had wandered for some time trying to find the way out, the little girl, becoming weary of it, looked at her mother and exclaimed, "Mamma, why don't you phone?"

Another Chance
Today another chance to face. Another lap in life's sweet race. Another choice to make or die. As we climb upward o'er the hill. Today another dream to know. To feel in life another glow. Of hope and cheer and trust again. Amid this happy dream of men. Today another mark to reach. Another truth to know and teach. And every foot we take today. Another chance to reach the goal.

Eyes Easier to Find
Mary's mother found her busily engaged in cutting up potatoes in her home in Arrostook county, Maine.

"Why, Mary," said the astonished mother, "what are you doing that for?" Pausing a moment in her task, Mary looked up and replied:

"I heard the man over the store say that there was money in potatoes this year, mama, and I was just looking for some."—Exchange.

Just Saved His Life
"I was rummaging through some old papers last night, when I ran across some mining stock certificates that I bought for a dollar a share about 15 years ago."

"And it turned out that they are immensely valuable, I suppose."

"Yes, in a way they are, although they would bring no more than the price of waste paper in the market. But at the time I found them I was just about to make another fool investment and the sight of those worthless certificates made me change my mind."—Exchange.

What's in a Name?
Shakespeare once said "What's in a name?" or something of the sort, and like lots of other things he said, the truth of it becomes apparent now and then. A few days ago, for instance, a member of the Sun's advertising staff got some florid campaign literature from a candidate for representative against for Frederick W. Burke of the district he would like to represent. Being somewhat of a scholar the young man in question read it all through.

and then with a beaming smile he said, "About this time every year I get a free correspondence course in French from aspiring politicians, though I cannot lay claim to any French ancestry."

Time Changes
My, but it is terrible—the things they did not know! Back of modern science came a few short years ago. Poor, benighted people they, putting Wondering just why it was everything went wrong. Never heard of sex hygiene, or the eugenics plan. Dolls and harmful tales were not beneath the ban. Had no Montessori then to aid the child, poor thing, was but a mole, groping, dumb and blind.

Take a peep at history! Think of what great men They'd have raised if they had only known eugenics then. Cromwell and George Washington were fairly good, I suppose. Shakespeare, Bacon, Cicero, were passable, of course. Burke, Carlyle and Sheridan; Byron, Rank among the great men of those old days, to be sure; What an awful handicap they had they did not know. Just because the poor things lived so many years ago.

Washington and Cromwell, were they living now, I wist, Would exclaim: "Tut, tut," and slap Carranza on the wrist. Think of Shakespeare's chances were he with us now today. He might prove that he could write a George H. Cohan play; Burke would be in congress and a Pader, Tommy! Sheridan, the facile, would be grinding moles out. Byron might write tango-odes and write as well who knows. And Tom Moore would surely do the Chauncy Olcott shows.

My but it is terrible—the things they did not know. Back of modern science came a few short years ago. Didn't have a chance you say; modern progress, what? Changed conditions with inventions? And even today, I suppose. Had they known of sex hygiene and the eugenics plan. If the dolls and fairy tales had gone by the board, as great men then, as you and I now know. Not the weakling class, that lived so many years ago.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Cleanses the Little Liver and Bowels and They Get Well Quick

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the Little Stomach, Liver and Bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, and doesn't come out or not naturally, if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a tea-spoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, croupifies and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given. Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little figure today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. WATERWAYS COMMITTEE WOULD INVOKE STATUTE

COMMITTEE WANTS CITY COUNCIL TO DECLARE PREMISES OF LOCKS & CANALS UNSAFE

In a communication from the committee on waterways to the mayor the committee reports the fencing of the ends of Chestnut street, Joiner's court and Clark's court. In the communication the following is noted:

Owing to the fact that the department of streets has not taken up the matter of fencing across Hale's brook on Gorham street we again call it to your attention.

The immediate future work of this commission falls under chapter 32, revised laws of the commonwealth, section 32 which reads as follows: "If the city council of a city or the selectmen of a town shall, after notice in writing to the parties in interest, adjudge a canal or waterway within the limits of the city or town to be dangerous to public travel, they may by an order in writing require any person owning, operating or controlling said canal or waterway to fence the same." Section 33 is as follows: "If such order is not complied with within 60 days after written notice of it has been given, the city council or the selectmen shall cause the same to be fenced and may collect the cost thereof in an action of contract from the person required to fence the same, who, for such neglect, shall also be liable to a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100."

The commission has reported many places into the city under the statute. The Wamsitt Power company and the Proprietors of the Locks & Canals are chiefly concerned in the recommendations made. The former corporation has indicated its willingness to confer with Your Honor and to construct fences where reasonably required. The Proprietors of the Locks & Canals have disregarded the communication from this commission.

We, therefore, recommend that you invite the Wamsitt Power company to attend a conference with you and the members of this commission to go over the matters connected with recommendations touching this company. In regard to the Proprietors of the Locks & Canals it will be necessary to invoke the statute. We, therefore, suggest a test of the matter by having the city council declare the premises of the Proprietors of the Locks & Canals along Broadway near the Pawtucket canal dangerous to public travel and request the Proprietors of the Locks & Canals on Merrimack river to attend a hearing regarding the same. The notice should state that the Locks & Canals company must erect a suitable and safe fence at that point within 60 days under penalty provided in the statute.

Should the Locks & Canals company disregard this notice this commission requests that the fence be built out of the waterways protection appropriation and that civil and criminal action be started as provided by statute.

NEWS OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCHES

At 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday morning the members of the Immaculate Conception sodality received communion in a body. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. P. L. Rayson. The parish mass was celebrated by Rev. D. J. Hefernan, while the sermon was given by the pastor, Rev. D. J. Keleher. A meeting of the members of the Children of Mary sodality was held last evening and several new members were received. On Tuesday evening a meeting of the members of the Immaculate Conception sodality will be held.

Very exclusive!

That exactly applies to every pattern we show in Rogers-Peel and "Society Brand" clothes.

Suits and Overcoats that you'll not find elsewhere in ready-to-wear clothing.

Imported Scotch tweeds and homespun that you'll not find even with the merchant tailors.

To make this clothing even more exclusive, we buy but few Suits or Overcoats of a pattern—except in solid colors.

Hence—if you wear Rogers-Peel or "Society Brand" clothes you'll not likely run across another man dressed like yourself.

The prices are exceedingly modest—all based on last year's cost of cloth.

Suits and Overcoats, the broadest selection we've ever shown.

LOWELL LOSES TO MANCHESTER HIGH

Scoring the only touchdown of the game in the first few minutes of play, the Manchester high school football eleven defeated Lowell high at Textile park, Manchester, Saturday afternoon. The score was 7 to 0.

After the touchdown, which came on the third play, the teams fought hard but most of the time they remained near the center of the field. Once or twice Lowell threw a scare into the 1500 or more Manchester fans present by threatening to cross the line, but the great defense of the winning team prevented a score.

The Lowell team was badly crippled. Captain Liston played the entire game in spite of a recent injury. Arthur Lynch, the star fullback, was called into play in the latter stage of the game and his work made a difference in the showing. Mahoney did not play. Manchester high considered the game one of the most important of the season. The New Hampshire boys had a string of victories but it was not thought that they were strong enough to win from the fast Lowell team. The work of Hampton, Kelly and Kenyon excelled, and they succeeded in offsetting the brilliant playing of Lynch, Liston and some of the other Lowell boys.

Hampton scored the touchdown for Manchester, sweeping around the left end for a 65 yard run. The play puzzled the Lowell team. Kenyon kicked the goal. Lowell then made several fine advances but the "pep" that had been shown in the victory this season was lacking, and Hampton's touchdown proved sufficient to win the game. The lineup and summary:

John Chipman, Retired Sailor, Tells to His Friends an Interesting Story

In order that any man or woman may derive a full measure of pleasure and success from life, it is necessary that he or she should be possessed of health in mind and body. It is certain that the greatest thing in all the world is health, without it a man can scarcely do anything worth doing; he can accomplish little that is really worth accomplishing. Attention to health then should take the place of every other object; that which is necessary to secure it should receive consideration in preference to everything else. For instance, the new herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, which is gaining such a following in Lowell, where daily grateful people are testifying to its merits and recommending it to their friends.

Recently, the signed testimonial of Mr. John C. Chipman, a retired sailor who lives now at the Sailors' Home, Snug Harbor, Quincy, Mass., was received. Mr. Chipman has sailed the seas for 69 years and is well known in all the harbors along the New England coast. He has hosts of friends who will be glad to learn of his recovery to health. He stated:

"For the past four years I was troubled with rheumatism contracted while at sea, and I had terrible pains all over my body. I could not sleep at night on account of the pain and would walk the floor all night long many a night. My stomach was in a very weak condition and I could hardly keep any food in it. I had such pains in my arms and shoulders that I could hardly move them. I had tried so many different kinds of medicine that I was very skeptical, as none of them ever did me the least good. When I heard so much about Plant Juice I thought I would try it. I thought I had little faith in its curing me. After taking it for several weeks I was greatly surprised at the wonderful results I obtained; I can now eat any kind of food and have a good appetite for my meals; I sleep well at night and the pains have left my system. I consider myself entirely cured, and am glad to recommend Plant Juice to all of my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of the remedy.

MANY OTHER BIG SIX DAY RACE LEAGUE CLUBS ON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The sale of the Boston American League club, within a month after the team had won the world's championship, is thought by many close followers of baseball to be the first of a number of changes and readjustments in major league circles. Former President J. J. Lannin made no secret of the fact that the Red Sox were for sale and if rumors and innuendo could be accepted as fact, several other club owners would be as well as the Red Sox, who held the franchise but lack the frankness of Lannin.

The president of the Boston Americans placed a price of $750,000 upon the club early in the present year, and it is understood, was offered and refused $500,000. Under the circumstances the sale of the Red Sox, while the glamour of the world series victory was still fresh, at $675,000 appears in the light of a compromise. Judging from past results and attendance figures at Boston the new owners made a good deal of money. The value of the club, franchise and park property is taken into consideration.

The Boston club entered the American league in 1901 and since that season has won the junior league pennant five times and the world's championship three times. In the sixteen years the Red Sox have finished fourth or better every season except in 1908-7-8 and 1911. The average position of the team for the full period works out as 3-1-4. Furthermore Boston has always been noted as a club baseball town, supporting its clubs with a consistency whether winners or losers.

Harry Frazee, the new head of the club, while a young man has always been a close follower of sports and is far from being a novice in the promoting line. In addition to his many theatrical ventures, he has backed several sporting events of more than ordinary prominence, including the heavyweight championship bout at Havana, Cuba, when Jess Willard wanted the title from Jack Johnson. As a result he does not enter big league baseball circles without previous training. Because of his close knowledge of the amusement trade of the American public, Frazee should prove a valuable addition to the roster of baseball magnates.

With the growing prosperity of Cuba, yachting has developed into one of the leading sports of wealthy Cubans and the Havana Yacht club races are a feature of the season. Many of the amateur yachtsmen feel that they have outgrown the Sander type of racing craft and orders have been placed in this country for several of the larger racing yachts. When these are launched it is hoped that some of the American yacht owners may be induced to visit Cuba and enter in a series of international races. If the outcome of these races warrants several of the wealthy Cuban enthusiasts may combine and challenge for the American cup within the next few years.

The new plan for the intercollegiate tennis league among eastern colleges has been outlined as follows:

"The league embraces Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Cornell. Each team will play each other team in the league a match of at least four men, four singles and two doubles; if possible, a six-man match will be played. These matches will take place in the spring of the year, and an intercollegiate league championship banner will be awarded the leading team at the end of the season. The league will be under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Tennis association and will have the captains of the league teams as an executive committee. It is believed that the league matches will increase collegiate interest in tennis and give a definite purpose to the spring matches."

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Twenty-two of the world's most famous cyclists, every one trained to the minute, will take the starter's gun at the Boston Arena at 1 o'clock this afternoon for the start of Boston's tenth annual six-day race.

Probably no field of bikers ever gathered together for an event of this kind compare in all-round ability with the one which will start in this year's contest. It's a speedy bunch, with a good-natured sprinkling of youngsters, and it is these so-called kids that bend their energy toward new records and in doing so make the race a thriller from beginning to end.

In every race, no matter what kind it may be, there is always some individual or team that stands out a shade better than the others, at least on paper. This year that honor goes to the Australian-American combination of Alf Grenda and Al Goulet.

Australians Favorites
 Goulet and Grenda are parts of the past two winners in the Hub's six-day race. Grenda, paired with Freddy Hill, landed last year's grind and the one previous went to the team made up of Goulet and Hill. It's only natural then that Goulet and Grenda, welded as one, stand out the favorites.

McNamara and Spears, the Australian team which finished second in the 1915 race, is probably the pick of the others. The German-French outfit, Harry Kaiser and Marcel Dupuy, is a whirlwind in every respect and one that will always be feared by the competitors. The Spencer brothers, Willie and Arthur, forming the Canadian team, must be considered in the running. Arthur certainly will make them all hustle. He was a sensation at Newark last year. He whipped Goulet and many other cracks. In fact he took Goulet's record down at the Revere track, or at least tied him, which is a good feat for a victory for the Canadian, considering that Alf was a top-heavy favorite.

All Are Dangerous
 As for the rest of the teams they're an even stand-off as the betting goes. Of course every team is dangerous in a six-day race, for accidents and jams and the like often break up a winning combination. There's some corking good outfits outside of the favorite row, especially the kid teams of Hanley and Madden and Sullivan and Exton. Eddie Root, the blonde, paired Melrose boy, and his partner, Irer Lawson of Salt Lake City, are veterans, but a dangerous pair; up to every trick of the game and a combination that will bear watching.

Italy has a youthful pair in Vincent Madonna, the sensational pace follower, and Tony Belle, road champion of the country. New York's motor-paced team will be represented by George Wiley and Clarence Carman, Rever favorites and long-distance riders of note. Two teams likely to be overlooked, but which will certainly make themselves heard before the race is well under way, are the San Francisco riders—Thomas and Lawrence, and the Australian-American pair—Corry and Magin.

TEXTILE BEATEN

Lowell Eleven Was Easy For St. John's Preparatory School Team—Score 26 to 0

St. John's Preparatory football team had no trouble in defeating Lowell Textile on Columbus avenue, Danvers, Saturday afternoon by a score of 26 to 0. John's team showed its best form of the season and easily outplayed the local school boys. Two of the winning team's touchdowns were scored on forward passes, the first coming about three minutes after the start of the game. Hayes, Shea and White made the touchdowns and goals from touchdowns were kicked by Murphy.

WANTED M'CARTHY TO SPLIT SHARE OF MONEY

Players of the New York National league club who took a barnstorming

trip at the close of the regular season are spreading a story that does credit to the Dodgers as thrifty souls.

Low McCarthy, as is well understood, received a full share of the Dodgers' world's series haul as a condition for joining the Giants, in exchange for Fred Merkle. That little stipulation, it seems, ranked in the breast of silvered Robins, and when McCarthy ventured forth on that little exhibition tour of the Giants the same Robins arose to remark that since McCarthy cut in on the Dodgers' world's series bit, it was only just and proper for McCarthy to donate a percentage of his barnstorming receipts to be divided in equal shares among the entire team. It is estimated that each Giant mailed about $200, and you can imagine what McCarthy and his fellow-tourists thought of the money-mad Robins.

"About the only thing the Dodgers parted with upon their departure from Brooklyn was the breath to articulate their best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," said an old-time ball player, who had heard about the McCarthy incident from the New York players.

SAILORS HOLD INDIANS TO SCORELESS TIE

LARGE CROWD WITNESSES SPECTACULAR GAME AT BUNTING PARK—MANY GOOD PLAYS

Before the largest crowd of the season, the Indians and the U. S. Virginia football eleven played to a scoreless tie at Bunting park Saturday afternoon. In the first three periods the teams showed equal strength, neither one being able to get any advantage over the other. In the final periods, however, the local boys displayed a burst of speed and rushed the ball down the field a distance of about 50 yards. They were within a few yards of the opponents' goal posts when time was called.

The large crowd saw a well played game, there being many spectacular plays. In the attendance there was a number of sailors from the Charles town navy and the enthusiasm was kept at a high pitch by both teams. In the first period the sailors were a little superior but after Lowell's men got a line on their play the result was different. Line plunges and end runs resulted in the best gains for the Indians while the Virginia team resorted to more open work. The entire Indian team played well, the backfield being particularly fast. The lineup:

Indians
 Quinn, Laurine re. lt. Gato lt. Johnson
 Moran rg. lb. Habberman
 Flynn c. lb. Bowen
 Kelly lg. rg. Kutney
 Poullet, Quinn lt. lb. McHugh
 E. Donnellan qb. lb. Brewster
 McIntyre lb. lb. Murphy
 Williams, Gleason, fb. lb. Shultz

Summary: Score—Indians 0, U.S.S. Virginia 0. Officials: Referee, Donovan; umpire, Smith; head linesman, Hensley; linesmen, Olson and Aldrich. Time: Four 12-min. periods.

ARREST IS FOR VOTE FRAUD

Du Pont Company Employees Charged With Colonization and Illegal Registration at Penn's Grove, N. J.

PENN'S GROVE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Charged with "colonization" and illegal registration, 13 workers at the Carnegie Point plant of the Du Pont Powder company are under arrest, while more than 100 more have been summoned to appear before the county

Fred Gentile, an assistant foreman for Du Pont's, yesterday entered bail for 19 of the 13 men arrested. The arrests are said to have been made at the instigation of the New Jersey state democratic committee.

GERMAN SUBMARINES IN GULF OF MEXICO

MEXICO WARNED BY BRITISH AMBASSADOR OF DRASTIC MEASURE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—The Mexican government has been notified by the British ambassador at Washington of the presence of German submarines in the Gulf of Mexico and has been warned that the allies will take "drastic measures" if the undersea craft receive aid from Mexican ports or sources. This information was made public last night by Foreign Minister Aguilar, who issued the text of a note received from the British ambassador through Secretary of State Lansing and Charge d'Affaires Charles B. Parker.

The British note demands a strict censorship of the Mexican wireless and says that any failure to maintain Mexican neutrality will be attended by disastrous results. In his reply, addressed to Mr. Parker, Senator Aguilar says that it seems strange to the Mexican government that Great Britain should use the United States state department as an intermediary on a point concerning Mexico alone, especially when Great Britain has an accredited representative to Mexico. The reply says that the Mexican government will, for this time only, answer the questions of the British government through Mr. Parker.

Foreign Minister Aguilar states that the Mexican government feels it unjust for the allies to hold Mexico responsible for submarine activities in the Gulf of Mexico when the same submarines arrived in American territory without causing conflict or difficulty between Germany and the United States. He adds that Mexico desires to retain cordial relations with Great Britain and to this end suggests that the English fleet prevent the German submarines from leaving their base, thus obviating to the Mexican government any possible incidents caused by the European conflict. If such measures by England are not efficacious, the foreign minister concludes, the Mexican government will take such measures as the circumstances direct should German submarines enter Mexican waters.

EX-CONG. O'CONNELL IS FOR PRES. WILSON

The ex-congressman has just returned from a visit to New York, where he says he found Wilson sentiment very strong. The following is his statement:

cerning the attitude of any democrat in this campaign, nor the attitude of any man who carries the interests of America close to his heart. Woodrow Wilson deserves the vote and hearty support of every man who places humanity above the dollar and America above the world.

"He may have made mistakes, but we forgive them because we know he tried sincerely to serve the interests of America and the American people. I have freely criticized many features of his foreign policy, but I as freely acknowledge his selflessness and his ardent desire to aid his country."

"No man, least of all a democrat, can look with any favor on the interests behind Mr. Hughes. It is inconceivable that we should again turn the country over to the discredited, reactionary Old Guard republican bosses tainted as they are with the domination of Wall street and all the millionaire high tariff barons."

"I believe the re-election of President Wilson is assured. The democratic party in congress by its achievements in legislation, namely the federal reserve act, the rural credits bill, the child labor law, eight-hour law and other splendidly progressive legislative acts, has well earned a vote of confidence and an order from the people to complete the program."

"Those who are true to America have but one choice tomorrow, for there is no place here for the man who by his vote shows he has anything but the highest and dearest interests of this country at heart."

16 BODIES ARE RESCUED FROM BESSIE MINE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 6.—Sixteen bodies have been recovered from the Bessie mine of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co. where an explosion, estimated 30 miners Saturday. Rescue parties fighting their way into the mine through masses of black damp gas virtually had abandoned hope that any of the 14 missing would be found alive.

WANTS EX-PRES. TAFT TO GO TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Theodore Marburg, former United States minister to Belgium, who is now chairman of the committee on foreign organization of the league to enforce peace, in an address here last night dealt with a constructive scheme of world statesmanship to be put into effect after the close of the war. Mr. Marburg proposed that former President Taft, who is the president of the league to enforce peace, should be sent to Europe at once to negotiate some plan of a joint guarantee of peace.

Immediate action is essential, Mr. Marburg declared, because of the fear that men will forget the horrors of war as soon as the fighting ends.

BOTH LEGS BROKEN IN LEAP FROM BRIDGE

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Joseph Leboutte, aged 45, of 143 West 4th street, South Boston, employed as a bridgeman in the South Terminal yards of the New Haven road, is at the Massachusetts General hospital with both legs broken as the result of a peculiar dilemma which confronted him yesterday afternoon while at work in the yards.

Leboutte had just started to cross the ponderous steel bridge which spans Fort Point Channel, across which Old Colony, Plymouth and Midland division trains pass. As the Massachusetts General hospital with both legs broken as the result of a peculiar dilemma which confronted him yesterday afternoon while at work in the yards. Not caring to risk going up with the span, he climbed up the ties as the end of the structure speedily arose to a perpendicular position. Ataining the top he poised himself and leaped a distance of 25 feet to the solid roadway, both legs being broken. Employees of the yard were quickly at his side, and in a few minutes he was on his way to the hospital.

A SENSIBLE CIGARETTE IS EASY TO "DIGEST"

No word can describe that mean feeling which often follows smoking a poorly-blended but otherwise good cigarette. Such a cigarette might be called "indigestible." On the other hand, Fatimas always give comfort. They "digest" easily, smoothly as only a delicately balanced Turkish blend cigarette can. And best of all, Fatimas leave a man feeling fine and fit—yes, even after a long-smoking day. That's why men call Fatimas "sensible".

PERKINS FOULED ON THE DEUTSCHLAND'S CARGO

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 6.—An examination of the Deutschland's cargo shows the absurdity of the attempt of George W. Perkins to make political capital out of the $10,000,000 cargo of the submarine liner Deutschland. Mr. Perkins said:

"I call Mr. Wilson's attention to the fact that the newspapers are telling us today that the Deutschland arose out of the ocean yesterday with $10,000,000 of goods direct from Germany. Evidently these goods had somehow secretly been manufactured while a large part of Germany's mechanical force is at war."

Capt. Koenig of the Deutschland, when shown Mr. Perkins' statement, said:

"Mr. Perkins confuses goods with values. The Deutschland brings $10,000,000 in values, but less than $1,000,000 in goods. Nine millions or more is represented by securities to be used to strengthen Germany's credit here."

"The remainder, less than $1,000,000, is in dyes, medicines and other chemicals. Hospitals and the sick are in dire need of the medicines. These goods pay a duty about the same as under the old tariff law. A portion of the goods consists of diamonds and semi-precious stones, which pay as large a duty as under the old law."

Eagles' Notice

All members of Lowell Aerie are requested to be present at the home of our late brother, James F. McMahon, 51 Pleasant street, tomorrow evening at 7.15 o'clock, where the exercises of our order will be held. For order PATRICK J. MCCANN, W. Pres. JOHN M. HOGAN, Secretary.

Men of Lowell

Speaking of our recent record-breaking imports, my opponent said last Tuesday at Associate Hall: "This flood of foreign goods . . . may even be one of the causes of our present prosperity."—(Lowell Sun, Oct. 31.)

I believe that every man in Lowell knows that this statement is false; knows that our prosperity of today is in spite of our swollen imports—largely from Japan, China and South America—not because of them; knows that this prosperity was born with the war and will die with the war; remembers our prostration between October, 1913—when the Underwood revenue-only and non-protective tariff law became effective—and August, 1914, when war was declared in Europe, our business began to boom, and our exports of American-made goods grew, because of the European war, to colossal proportions; and knows that when the war ends, when war orders cease, the stagnation and unemployment of the months before the war will return, unless a protective tariff has replaced the present revenue-only tariff.

MEN OF LOWELL! You and I know, if my opponent does not, that the "flood of foreign goods" to which he refers can never be a "cause of our prosperity"—that, quite the contrary, in peace days past and future a "flood of imports" means disaster, reduced wages and unemployment.

MEN OF LOWELL! My opponent believes that a flood of cheap foreign-made goods to compete with your labor is for your welfare.

I pledge myself to work for and to support a tariff adequate to protect you from the cheap labor of Europe and Asia. Which do you choose?

Men of Lowell! I am a Lowell man, born and bred. I know Lowell conditions and the needs of Lowell men. My opponent, with his home in Concord and his affairs in Boston, does not.

him to his home and treated him there. On Saturday morning Mr. Walsh showed signs of improvement, but was taken very ill again during the afternoon and later passed away despite all efforts to save him. Deceased was born in this city and always made his home here. Some years ago he entered business with the late James Tweed and when the latter died Mr. Walsh took over the entire business, which he conducted successfully up to the time of his death. The news of his sudden demise spread rapidly throughout the city and it saddened the hearts of his many friends, the majority of whom did not know he had been ill.

Previous to entering the business in which he was engaged at the time of his death, he was employed for several years as color blender in the carpet mills, later known as the Bigelow Manufacturing company. There he earned good wages and accumulated considerable money.

In later years although of a retiring disposition and very unostentatious in everything he did, he was regarded as wealthy. Throughout the city he was known as a man who would not hesitate to relieve distress even to the extent of advancing considerable sums of money often without security or even the prospect of payment. He was sincere in his friendships and seldom turned a deaf ear to the appeal of any worthy charity. Particularly in West Centralville where he was so well known, will the death of Mr. Walsh be deplored by his wide circle of friends.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, Margaret E.; two daughters, Margaret and Mary; one son, John H.; two brothers, John P. and Michael H.; and four sisters, Margaret, Katherine and Maria Walsh and Mrs. Michael Carey.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Six men are dead and fifty are suffering today from bullet wounds as the result of a battle yesterday at Everett, Wash., 30 miles north of Seattle, when 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World attempted to land from the steamer Verona, which had carried them from Seattle. The boat was met by Sheriff Donald McRae of Snohomish county and a posse. The sheriff forbade the men to land. A shot fired from the Verona, according to the boat's officers, was followed immediately by firing from both sides. The steamer hastened back to Seattle with the dead and wounded.

One member of the Everett citizens' posse, C. O. Curtis, formerly second lieutenant in the Washington National Guard, was killed and 19 others were wounded. Including the wounded, there are 291 men and three women under arrest. Forty-one men were taken from a second steamer which failed to reach Everett. The women were taken from a motor bus which had conveyed them from the northern boundary of Seattle.

The fight was a result of a long contest between the Industrial Workers and the citizens of Everett over the right to hold street meetings in that city. The National Guard and naval militia at Everett and in Seattle are under orders today to meet any emergency. Sheriff McRae, who is suffering from two gunshot wounds in the leg, asserted that the first shot was fired by a man in front of the pilot house of the Verona.

Eye-witnesses asserted that several men jumped into the water from the boat and that some were drowned, but searchers today were unable to find any bodies and it was believed this report was incorrect. Four of the wounded members of the citizens' posse are in a critical condition today.

Those who have answered in favor of amending the present law in the following respects:

1.—To enable an employee coming under the act to have a free choice of physician?
2.—To limit the number of industrial cases which any one man might care for to a reasonable number?
3.—To prevent insurance companies referring their cases to open or charitable hospitals, dispensaries and clinics?
4.—To extend to all industrial cases the period of time during which the medical services shall be paid by the insurance company?

Allowing for the fact that many answers are still doubtless in the mails, it is obvious that out of the 150 letters sent out, less than 20 per cent of the nominees to the legislature have been sufficiently acquainted with the problem or interested in it to send an answer. The physicians throughout the state, and the laboring men as a whole, who are virtually interested in getting better surgical care for their injured, will not fail to appreciate the general lack of interest and knowledge which this canvass suggests. After election it is sure to be taken up in an aggressive way with the men who are elected to office, both by the labor unions and by the physicians throughout the state.

The Lowell physicians on the committee are as follows: J. A. McMan, R. J. Meigs, M. A. Tighe and G. F. Martin.

"My sole endeavor has been to raise the standard of our Registry to a point of efficiency equal to any in the state—my whole attention has been devoted to that end, believing that the people of this district were entitled to the best service possible. My opponent offers no criticism of that service—advances no reason why he should be elected, but on the contrary resorts to methods far beneath the dignity of the office for which he seeks the suffrage of the voters, in an attempt to gain their support. I believe such methods will be repudiated, and respectfully ask the endorsement of every citizen upon my record."

IN POLICE COURT

Woman Arrested for Drunkenness Shortly After Being Released from Jail

Alice J. Murtagh got out of jail Saturday but was arrested shortly afterwards on account of being under the influence of liquor. She was arraigned in police court today and promised that if given a chance she would leave the city and on that condition she was given a suspended sentence to the state farm.

The case of Mary Cornier, charged with drunkenness, was continued for 30 days. Ellen Hennessey, who was on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution. William Oswald will spend the next week in jail. One offender was fined $5 and 16 first offenders were released by the probation officer. Frank McCloskey was fined $5 and several other offenders had their cases continued until a later date.

More Serious Charge

Patrick O'Neil was charged with being drunk and entered a plea of guilty, but when Deputy Downey informed the court that it was thought the man had thrown his wife down a flight of stairs, she being in the hospital at the present time, the case was continued for one week.

Henry Trepanier was fined $5 for drunkenness over a year ago and he promised that if he would be given time he would pay the fine but he failed to do so. The reason he was arrested was that he fell on the sidewalk in Appleton street and taken to a hospital and after he received treatment was sent to the police station. He failed to remember anything about the accident. His case was continued until Nov. 11th.

STORING EXPLOSIVES

The permit of the United States Cartridge Co. to store in the town of Billerica explosives and chemicals for the manufacture of ammunition expires this month and a petition has been made to the board of selectmen for a renewal. Under the law a public hearing has been set for November 20th when anyone desiring to remonstrate against the granting of the petition will be heard. The magazines are located in Billerica on the South Lowell side of the Concord river.

ELECT

Hon. John T. Sparks

SENATOR

And assure the EIGHTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT a Live, Energetic and Capable Representation of Its Interest at the State House.

To the Voters of the 8th Senatorial District:

Permit me to request your favorable indorsement of my Candidacy for Senator at the polls tomorrow. In seeking this office again after a lapse of 16 years, I want to offer my assurance that I am not unmindful of its serious duties and responsibilities, and will exert every effort to win the approval and good-will of the citizens of the district to the same degree, at least, that I enjoyed when I previously held public office.

I recognize that the district is distinctively an industrial one, that much legislation is passed on in each session of the legislature of vital interest to the people of the district, and unless a Senator is in sympathy with the hopes and necessities of the people he represents, their interests are not properly safeguarded. It has happened more than once that such kind of representation has not been accorded the citizens of the district.

I submit that I am not a hide bound partisan. In fact, a man's partisanship does not enter into his attitude upon the big majority of legislation presented to him. It is his sense of fairness and justice upon the merits of proposed legislation that should count, and on the same line of reasoning the attitude of the voter in selecting a Candidate for this office should be determined more from the standpoint of capacity and ability, than partisanship. I ask you to judge my Candidacy based upon qualification and fitness to serve you in an acceptable manner, if you do, I am confident of your support.

If honorable and active public service; if close application to the duties of office; if courage to decide upon the merits of pending legislation without fear or favor; and, if assurance that my every effort will be directed toward obtaining the fullest measure of representation of the interest of the district are conditions upon which you will favor me with your support, then I conscientiously pledge, as your Senator, such kind of service. May I have your support?

ALLEGED ABDUCTION

PLANS PERFECTED FOR BIG RECEPTION TO COMPANY M INDICATIONS POINT TO RE-ELECTION OF PRES. WILSON MEN WHO CARRIED GIRL AWAY IN AUTOMOBILE SENTENCED TODAY

Mayor James E. O'Donnell was kept busy this morning on the plans for welcoming home Company M. Several telephone messages were received from the railroad centers along the home-coming route and there were scores of anxious inquiries from Lowell people who thought that the mayor's office would be aware of the latest developments.

The mayor was informed early today that the troops would arrive shortly after noon but a few hours later it was stated that the troops would come via Providence, Mansfield and Framingham and would not arrive before 4.30 p. m. and possibly later. The greatest uncertainty is the length of time that shall be consumed at Framingham. Company M will get rid of a great portion of its equipment at Framingham and members of the local militia companies say that it will take longer than the committee has allowed for.

Aside from the uncertainty of the hour of their arrival in Lowell, all plans will be carried out as scheduled—provided they are agreeable to the commander of the company on its arrival.

At the depot will be the Sixth regiment band, members of the municipal council and the reception committee. The parade will form immediately and will march through Middlesex street to Central, to Merrimack street as far as city hall, and from there to the armory on Westford street, through Dutton street and Thordike. Major Kittredge will have his command at the depot and all other uniformed organizations have been invited to line the streets that the soldiers will pass through. Battery C will join with Company M in the parade and in the dinner that is to be provided by the D. L. Page company. The purpose of the mayor and the committee generally is to give a hearty welcome that shall not keep the boys long from their families.

The Lowell high school regiment will meet Co. M and will join in the reception planned for the soldiers. At school this forenoon the officers and other members of the regiment were instructed to report at the school annex on Paige street immediately after the sounding of the 15 strokes on the fire alarm system.

On the eve of election, the indications point to a great democratic victory for the national and state tickets. The betting, which up until the eleventh hour, had been against the re-election of Pres. Wilson, has shifted and today, the big New York Herald, a republican paper, conceded the re-election of Pres. Wilson, spread throughout the country with the result that little Hughes money could be found. News from all parts of the United States shows that the south, east and west are rallying to the president, and now indications point to a great victory for President Wilson.

The New York World today prints the following:

Prophecies, the last for this year, were as promising on one side as on the other. The last to be issued was that of Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall, based on the private figures given him by the district leaders. Mr. Murphy has hesitated to give figures in advance for several years past. All that he said last night was: "The reports submitted by the Tammany leaders are very satisfactory indeed. They indicate a substantial majority here for the democratic ticket. In my opinion, President Wilson will carry this state and sweep the country."

BOTH CANDIDATES CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—President Woodrow Wilson and Charles E. Hughes, candidates of the dominant parties for president, today were recuperating from the labors of the long campaign. The last word sent forward by them to the people was an expression that each felt confident of victory.

The cases of James Antonious, John Roussea, John Coutas and Athanasios Chamonios, charged with assault and battery on Athena Akration which were opened last week, were resumed before Judge Enright in police court this afternoon. It is alleged that the defendants attempted to abduct the girl on the night of the 24th of October as she was leaving the Green school, but after passing Lakeview a tire burst and the chauffeur and one of the others returned to Lowell for a new tire. After getting the tire the pair went back in an automobile and after making the necessary repairs, Coutas, the chauffeur, brought the girl back home.

Judge Enright in summing up the evidence in the case said: "This is one of the most atrocious cases that has come to my attention since I have been on the bench. I do not believe that there was any intention of marriage. This man who came from Boston, the chauffeur, is as much to blame, if not more than the others. I am going to find them all guilty and sentence each to one year in the house of correction."

"I wish that I had the power to give them five years. I sincerely wish that I could give these defendants a penalty which would stop rogues from carrying on this sort of business."

The defendants entered appeals and each was held under $3000 for the superior court.

John Coutas when called to the stand and questioned by Mr. Hennessy, said he formerly resided in this city but of late had been stopping in Boston. He said that Athanasios Chamonios called upon him and asked him to meet him on Tuesday night and take him away on a trip.

Witness said that he owned an automobile and upon arriving in Lowell he met Chamonios and Roussea and the latter purchased oil and gasoline from a garage in Moody street.

Continuing with his testimony witness said: "I stepped my machine in Moody street and waited until the girl (Athena Akration) came out of the Green school. Athanasios took Athena by the arm and placed her in the car and I started the machine. I drove up Moody street by the Textile school and upon passing Lakeview I got a blow-out. James Antonious and I returned to Lowell to get a new tire. We went back to the city by electric car and after making the purchase returned by an automobile that we hired."

The witness said that upon returning to the machine he found the

BIG GERMAN WARSHIP HIT BY BRITISH SUBMARINE

LONDON, Nov. 6, 6.05 p. m.—A British submarine operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnought type yesterday, making a hit. The amount of damage inflicted is not known, the admiralty announces.

The announcement follows:

"One of our submarines operating in the North sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnought type near the Danish coast yesterday. The vessel was hit. The amount of damage is unknown."

The British announcement gives no intimation whether any considerable portion of the German high seas fleet was in the North sea yesterday. It was off the Danish coast that the main German and British fleets engaged in battle last May. On several occasions the German fleet has left its base for short cruises in the North sea. Ordinarily a dreadnought would not be employed merely for reconnoitering.

POTATOES DUMPED INTO RIVER

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 6.—A committee of Peoria women which has been investigating the high prices of food announced yesterday that potatoes by the carload are being dumped into the Illinois river to maintain the record prices. Potatoes are now selling here for upward of $2 1/4 a bushel.

The women also discovered that, although the wholesalers were contending there were no potatoes in Peoria, there were thirty cars in the Peoria railroad yards which had remained unloaded on the tracks for thirty days. In addition, immense quantities of potatoes, apples, sauerkraut and other produce on which the prices have advanced 100 per cent, were found stored in local warehouses.

HORSE WENT THROUGH RAILROAD BRIDGE

A horse belonging to Herbert M. Cowell, which either strayed away or was stolen, fell through the trestle on a railroad bridge on Broadway Saturday night. The horse had no driver and when found the wagon was demolished. Three of its legs were hanging through the bridge and it kicked continually, making it difficult for Special Officer Gilmore of the Humane society and others to remove it. After three-quarters of an hour of work the horse was taken from its position to the stable of C. H. Hanson & Co., where the owner was notified.

LIEUT. GEN. MAHON FOR IRISH COMMAND

COMMANDER OF BRITISH FORCES IN EGYPT APPOINTED TO SUCCEED GENERAL MAXWELL

LONDON, Nov. 6.—It is officially announced that Lieutenant-General Sir John Mahon, commander of the British forces on the western frontier in Egypt, has been appointed to succeed Sir John Maxwell as commander of the British forces in Ireland. General Maxwell is appointed commander-in-chief of the northern command in England.

It is also announced officially that General Sir Reginald Wingate, director of the Egyptian army, has been appointed high commissioner for Egypt in succession to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Arthur Henry MacMahon. (Note.—The Maxwell administration has caused much dissatisfaction throughout Ireland. He has been considered chiefly responsible for the harsh measures adopted to put down the Dublin revolt last Easter and for the severity with which martial law has since been administered. It is considered probable that with a change in command will come a change in the methods of military rule in Ireland.)

PRESCOTT STREET AS ONE WAY STREET

Strong opposition is expected at the hearing to be held before the municipal council next week on the proposal of Commissioner Morse to make Prescott street a one-way street. One of those to come out strongly in opposition to the project is John L. Robertson of the Robertson furniture company who says that the adoption of Mr. Morse's idea would rob the storekeepers of 25 per cent. of their business. He will be present at the hearing, he says, and he expects several businessmen of the street to take his view on the matter.

Mr. Robertson has said that the plan is brazened as a means of getting the electric cars out of the square as quickly as possible but this Mr. Morse denies, saying that he has personally observed the traffic congestion and that his scheme would be for the interest of all, even of the business men on the street. Mr. Morse says that Mr. Robertson does not take kindly to the idea that his teams instead of driving from Central street into the alley where he loads would have to drive to the alley from the direction of Merrimack square. The hearing promises to be animated and interesting.

TEUTONS PROCLAIM NEW POLISH KINGDOM

BERLIN (By wireless to Sayville), Nov. 5.—"Polish provinces occupied by troops of the central powers," says the Overseas News Agency, "were the scene today of a great and momentous historic event. Germany and Austria-Hungary, by joint action, proclaimed Warsaw and Lublin the kingdom of Poland, and re-established the right of the Polish nation to control its own government the wishes of the Polish national life and to govern itself by chosen representatives of the nation."

"A few days ago a representative Polish delegation called upon the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. All parties, all ranks of society and all creeds were represented. They transmitted to the German government the wishes to the Polish nation, which now have been granted to them."

"Thus, the ancient kingdom of Poland from which in the past came famous rulers like Jagellones (a dynasty founded by Jagello which reigned in Poland from 1386 to 1572) and glorious soldiers like the great Sobieski (John III, King of Poland in 1671-1696) is now resurrected to new life."

"The Poles are again free from Russian oppression, no more to be trodden under the heels of the Cossack. The liberty that had been destroyed a century ago on Russian fastigation now is restored. The rule of the knout has been abolished. Poland has been given back to western civilization."

The manifesto issued at Warsaw and Lublin today reads as follows:

"His Majesty, the German Emperor, and His Majesty, the Emperor of Austria, and Apostolic King of Hungary, inspired by firm confidence in a final victory of their arms, and prompted by a desire to lead the districts conquered by their armies under heavy sacrifices from Russian domination toward a happy future, have agreed to form of the districts a national state with a hereditary monarchy and a constitutional government. The exact frontiers of the kingdom of Poland shall be outlined later."

"The new kingdom will receive the guarantees needed for the free development of its own forces through its intimate relation with both powers. The glorious traditions of the ancient Polish armies and the memory of the brave comradeship in the great war of our days shall revive in a national army. The organization, instruction and command of this army shall be arranged by common agreement."

"The allied monarchs express the confident hope that Polish wishes for the evolution of the Polish state and for the national development of a Polish kingdom shall now be fulfilled, taking due consideration of the general political conditions prevailing in Europe and of the welfare and the safety of their own countries and nations."

"The great realm which the western neighbors of the kingdom of Poland shall have on their eastern frontier shall be a free and happy state enjoying its own national life, and they shall welcome with joy the birth and prosperous development of this state."

ROGER SHERMAN HOAR ANSWERS MR. ROGERS

Speaking at the big conference of campaign workers in Woburn on Sunday, former Senator Roger Sherman Hoar, democratic candidate for congress in this district, laid what he characterized as an extremely unfair eleventh hour roadblock issued by his opponent, Congressman Rogers. Mr. Hoar said:

"Mr. Rogers is afraid to discuss his record with me. He declined my invitation to debate it."

"Instead, the district is being covered with a circular, praising him, which is called by the man who gets it out, the Merrimack Valley Labor Journal, pretending that it is a regular labor newspaper and that it has the endorsement of the Central Labor Union of the district."

"This sheet is not a regular paper, and is issued only at campaign times. It has no circulation except as it is distributed free by politicians. It has no connection with organized labor, and is not endorsed by any Central Labor union of this district."

"Rogers voted against the eight hour law. The A. F. of L. certifies my record to be 100% correct."

"But I appeal not only to labor. The farmers are entitled to be represented by me, a farmer. And all lovers of fair play ought to repudiate the use of this false labor paper by Mr. Rogers by voting against him and for Roger Sherman Hoar."

SCOTT MAXWELL DIES IN DOVER, NEW HAMPSHIRE

ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN COTTON MEN IN THE COUNTRY—HEAD OF MERS. ASSN.

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—Scott Maxwell, president of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' association, and agent of the Indian Head Cotton Manufacturing company of Cordova, Ala., died Saturday night at the Wentworth hospital, aged 61, of a shock sustained a few days ago at his summer cottage at Ocean Park, Me.

Mr. Maxwell, who was one of the most widely known cotton manufacturers in the United States, had been connected with the mills in New England and in the south. He was born in Webster, Me., July 8, 1855, the son of Arthur and Elizabeth Maxwell.

He began his career in the doubling and twisting department of the American cotton mills at Lewiston, Me., in 1871. Later he became a second-hand in spinning with the Finnerell mills of Hallowell, then went to the Bates mills at Lewiston to take charge of the spinning department of the Grandville Manufacturing company in South Carolina. He was with the Vaucluse mill of that company.

In 1887 he became superintendent of mills at Rock Hill and Port Hill, S. C., and 10 years later went to the Dallas Manufacturing Co. mill at Huntsville, Ala., as superintendent. In 1901 he was made agent of the Lanier cotton mills of West Point, Ga., and early in 1904 went to Cordova,

Mr. Maxwell was elected a member of the board of governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association in 1910, becoming chairman of the board in 1913. At the annual meeting at Memphis, Tenn., in 1915, he was elected president.

He was a Pythian and a member of Masonic bodies in the south, and of Zomora Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Alabama. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Barton and Miss Mabel E. Maxwell, of Cordova. The funeral and burial will take place in this city.

CARDINAL IS PRESENTED BRONZE CRUCIFIX

PRESENTATION MADE AT RECEPTION BY LAYMEN'S RETREAT GUILD IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Cardinal O'Connell was presented a beautiful bronze crucifix at a reception tendered him yesterday afternoon at the Blessed Gabriel monastery in Brighton by the members of the Laymen's Retreat guild, composed of men who have made retreats at the monastery. Cardinal O'Connell invited the Passionist fathers to come to Boston and conduct a monastery about five years ago, and it was to show their appreciation to the cardinal for his great interest in the work that the guild honored him yesterday.

After the presentation and following solemn benediction in the chapel, the Rev. Fr. Alexis, C.P., rector of the monastery, thanked the cardinal for his interest and work in behalf of the retreat movement. The cardinal then spoke on the great work of the Passionist fathers and the retreats at the monastery.

The cardinal was accompanied by Mgr. Splaine, the Rev. Fr. Alexis, the Rev. Fr. George, the Rev. Fr. J. J. Ryan of St. Paul's church, Cambridge, and the Rev. Fr. Philip O'Donnell of St. James church, as he proceeded to the chapel, where solemn benediction was given.

Solemn benediction was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Stanislaus of West Hoboken, N. J., representing the provincial head of the order, who was unable to attend through illness. The Rev. Fr. Walter was deacon and the Rev. Fr. Benjamin, sub-deacon, while Mgr. Splaine was master of ceremonies. Maj. P. F. O'Keefe, in behalf of the Laymen's guild, made the presentation of the crucifix to the head of the archdiocese for his untiring work for the laymen of the diocese, particularly his interest in the retreat movement.

Father Alexis in his address gave all credit for the success of the monastery to the cardinal, who was responsible for its establishment in Brighton, and praised him for his work for the church.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR
A reception will be given in the Kirk Street Congregational vestry, Kirk and John streets, Wednesday evening, November 8, to Rev. and Mrs. William F. English, Jr. The members of the church and congregation are cordially invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. English from 5 to 10.

Free--STARTS TODAY--Free A Scenic Reproduction of Niagara Falls

Anyone who has ever visited Niagara Falls will be interested in this ingenious reproduction of one of the greatest scenic wonders of our country. The scene represents the Falls viewed from Victoria Park on the Canadian side, looking toward the Horse-shoe with the American Falls on the left. By a clever combination of art mechanism and electricity the water tumbles over the Falls and clouds of mist seem to rise skyward. The little steamer "Maid of the Mist" and the passing and repassing of trolley cars add life and movement to the scene.

EVERY DAY THIS WEEK—EVERY THIRTY MINUTES BETWEEN 11:00 A. M. AND 4:30 P. M. ON OUR FOURTH FLOOR.

THE COST OF LIVING

The increase in cost of living began in Republican aid to the trusts. It continues through conspiracy of the same corrupt forces.

This is the richest producing country in the world, and is today more prosperous than ever.

The people of Massachusetts are entitled to a just share in the wealth they produce.

It should be impossible to cheat them of the reward of their labor by increasing the cost of their living necessities.

Stock gamblers and speculators in the necessities of life are fishing millions in profits from the sea of blood that is drenching Europe.

The toiling masses in America must not be sacrificed on a golden altar reared to the god of war.

I pledge myself, if elected Governor, to punish with the utmost rigor, every person, regardless of politics, proved to be a party to any conspiracy for unjustly increasing the prices of the living necessities of the people of this State.

The record of twenty years devoted to the welfare of the working people of Massachusetts is the guarantee that I will make that pledge good.

PRES. WILSON CLOSES CAMPAIGN; SAYS COERCION TRIED

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Nov. 6.—President Wilson closed his campaign for re-election at Shadow Lawn Saturday with a speech in which he accused the opposition of attempting to coerce workmen, and charged that political capital is being made out of unasked questions, "which, if not settled wisely, might bring this country at any time into the world conflict."

Predicting democratic victory next Tuesday, the president declared: "Having despaired of an issue they are filling the country with alarms. They are not only filling the country with alarms, but they are attempting coercion of their laborers. They imagine that these men are not their own masters, and dare not vote as they think, but at last, I thank God, the American laborer is awake."

Alarms Their Own

"Let them fill the country with alarms; the alarms are their own, not ours. They used to control the credit of the country; now they control nothing but the fiction," he continued. "I feel rising in my pulses already, the inspiration and impulse which is to come not only to the United States, but to the world next Tuesday. I do not identify myself with this. To me has fallen the unspeakable good fortune of happening to be the spokesman of the American people at this crucial and fateful time."

Mr. Wilson asserted that the republican party had fallen back on the protective tariff as its only issue. "They know pretty well," he said, "that all the pretenses about the protective tariff have been torn away," adding that the industries with the highest protection have paid the lowest wages.

Difference Between Parties

"The difference between the republican party and the democratic party is this," he continued. "The republican party offers them masters; we offer them comrades and leaders. The republican party offers to take care of them; we offer to go into the fight shoulder to shoulder with them to get the rights which no man has a right to give them."

The New Jersey political situation was handled directly by Mr. Wilson. He said that any man voting for the republican ticket in that state is voting for "invisible government."

The president's address was delivered before a large gathering which came from Jersey City, Newark, Trenton, Princeton and other towns and cities in the state, including a delegation of Princeton professors and students. Gov. Fielder of New Jersey presided.

THE SPELLBINDER

The campaign comes to an end tonight and Saturday evening found the speakers on every corner putting in their final bids, and getting quite personal toward the finish, even Congressman Rogers finally having a few personal words to say about Roger Sherman Hoar, and the latter's career. Hon. John T. Sparks was in the height of his campaign work on Saturday evening, he received the shocking news of the illness of his close personal friend, Anthony Walsh, and gave up politics, temporarily to remain by the bedside of his dying friend. The death of Mr. Walsh was a shock to Centralville where he had been in business for many years. Messrs. Durcell and Stearns, who were about town during the evening, and despite the chill in the atmosphere, Mr. Stearns went around without an overcoat, and apparently unmindful of the November blasts. Tonight the local democracy will close the campaign with a rousing rally in Associate hall. Lawrence Cummings will preside and among the speakers will be Hon. James H. Vahoy, of Watertown, former democratic candidate for governor; Hon. Thomas J. Boynton, former attorney-general of this state; former Mayor Barton, of Melrose and Hon. Francis G. Slattery, of Boston, who made such a favorable impression at the rally held in Lincoln hall a few evenings ago. It is doubtful if ever before such elaborate preparations have been made to get out the vote and those who need a conveyance to get them to the polls whether they be democrats or republicans may secure such conveyance by the asking. Both city committees will have autos and carriages covering all of the 27 precincts while some of the candidates independently will provide machines. Many friends of Register Purcell have volunteered the use of their automobiles, and volunteer checkers and ratifiers will work in his behalf at each of the polling places, as well as in the towns of the district. It is doubtful if ever any individual candidate has had as complete and as effective a political organization as has Mr. Purcell, in this contest, and it is a volunteer organization pure and simple, the friends of the popular candidate rallying to his support regardless of party affiliation, and purely out of personal regard for him. A meeting of Mr. Purcell's friends was held yesterday afternoon at the Purcell headquarters at Rogers' Commission Rooms, at which final arrangements were completed.

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. until 4 p. m., and all who have a vote should avail themselves of the privilege of voting, and there is little doubt that all will do so, though Lowell has seen in earlier presidential campaigns in the past. The early returns will come in late in the afternoon, and The Sun will throw them on the screen upon their arrival. Come down to Merrimack square and get the returns from The Sun.

The Highland Line Joke

Just one year ago, after the state election Rep. Lewis intimated that he was about to start something that would result in an improvement of the car service in the Highland district where a long-suffering constituency had been getting only a miserable service "and then some." But the year has gone by, and likewise Rep. Lewis, with a worse service and more of it, and now the unhappy residents of that neglected district are wondering if the new member of the legislature from ward eight, Mr. Putnam, will take up their cause and attempt to remedy the conditions that at present exist.

If Rep. Putnam answers their request with the statement: "I'll take it up with the management," he's likely to get in bad at the outset, for the stairs in the Grosvenor building, lead-

Don't Neglect Wounds

Do not neglect even the little cuts or scratches. Blood-poisoning with dangerous results may follow if wounds are not properly and promptly given attention. For wounds, cuts, sores or bruises apply at once a little Minard's Balm, obtained at any drug store. It is absolutely pure, wonderfully antiseptic and works wonders in its healing influence. Its use promotes circulation and restores vitality to injured or wounded parts and causes rapid healing. It is entirely stainless, easy to use and very economical.

135 CENTRAL STREET.

ing to the railroad office are worn from the feet of complaining Highlanders seeking redress at the local headquarters, and they realize that it can't be done through that source for the only result from complaints there made has been the "bawling out" of some motorman, conductor or starter who is not responsible for the system, or lack of it, under which the line is operated.

The Highland car which leaves Merrimack square at 10.07 in the evening always carries a goodly crowd. On Monday nights it carries an army; on Saturday nights, a mob. Let me tell you the experience of the Highlanders who took that 10.07 car on last Saturday night. The Highland car preceding it was on time to the minute, and hence it was to be assumed that the next car would also be on time.

But it wasn't, and when the assembling crowds noted that the car was late they began to hasten toward East Merrimack street to meet the tardy conveyance before it reached Merrimack square and assure themselves of a seat. By the time the belated car had reached the canal bridge on East Merrimack street it was crowded almost to the doors. More time was lost at Merrimack square as the crowd which had awaited it at that point paid as they entered, and when it left the square there were 93 fares rung in, the seating capacity of the car being 40. On the way to the depot a few more tried to crowd on and some managed to get clinging on to the rear platform, though it was impossible for them to pay as they entered because they never really entered and couldn't get to the machine in which the fares are deposited. Upon arrival at the depot another crowd awaited the car, and being unable to get anywhere near the rear entrance forced their way onto the front platform through the front door and thus got a ride home, such as it was, free of charge. When the car finally left the depot it had 100 passengers aboard at least. It proceeded but a short way along Middle street when it met the down-bound Highland car and the crowds changed over. But there was no difference in the size of the conductors and hence the change afforded the passengers no perceptible advantage. When the car turned into Coral street, the excitement of detaining started. Everybody was supposed to get out the front door. But by the time they had reached it most of them were ready to be carried the remaining distance. Probably about one-half of the passengers had left the car when it arrived at the Pine street turn-out, and it was well filled when along came the 10.27 car behind it, and when the two cars got side by side the passengers in the ill-fated 10.07 were told to "change cars."

On the 10.27 car was a fair-sized crowd and when the others got in, the 10.27 was packed to the doors, and a tightly packed throng of passengers for the motorman to close the front door of his car, thereby affecting his own view of objects in front of him. In order to proceed in anything like safety, the motorman was obliged to extinguish the lights on his front vestibule, and as a result all who left the car from the corner of Stevens and Pine streets to the end of the line were obliged to leave through a pitch-dark vestibule, which in case of accident might be construed as "contributory negligence" by a jury. It took about three-quarters of an hour to get from Merrimack square in utmost discomfort on that 10.07 and no less than a dozen disgruntled passengers asked that something be written about it.

But what's the use? The management may fire a conductor for missing a few fares and a motorman for putting out his vestibule lights. The management is never at fault; it's always the conductor, the motorman or the starter, though the public service commission might entertain a different opinion of the situation.

A Lively Night Before

With the soldiers coming home from the border, the big democratic rally and Roger Sherman Hoar challenging Congressman Rogers to meet him on city hall steps at 9 o'clock, there should be excitement enough down town this evening to please all comers. From the manner in which Candidate Hoar words his challenge to his opponent the congressman will have work getting away from a meeting, in graceful manner. If he does appear there should be a real time, as the two engage in joint debate. There isn't any doubt of the size of the audience they'll have, particularly with a democratic rally being held nearby.

"We Think," Etc.

As usual on the eve of election the editor of the Courier-Citizen this morning told the world how to vote, and mentioning the eighth senatorial contest said: "We cannot with any honesty say we regard Mr. Sparks as capable of making nearly as good a senator as Mr. Colburn would make."

On the eve of the primaries he told us about McIntyre, Judge Mulligan, Nelson Brown and a few others and in each case apparently the voters read his advice and then voted the other way. In all probability the same thing will happen tomorrow.

The Little Things

Yesterday's Boston Globe had an interesting article on the little things that have affected the presidential campaigns in the past, referring principally to the defeat of James G. Blaine, through the bad break of Dr. Burchard of Rumm, Romanism and Rebellion memory. Since Senator Lodge made his break about the postscript, he has been dubbed the Burchard of this campaign in many quarters. Twenty-five years ago the late John D. Long was called the Burchard of the Russell-Allen campaign as the result of his "Little Apples" story. The little things count in minor contests as well as in national matters, and the little things that Candidates Stearns and Colburn have been saying in the country towns and elsewhere are likely to react with force.

Labor Can't Be Fooled

Republicans' Final Effort to "DELIVER" the Labor Vote Exposed

There appears in the leading newspapers of the United States today a page advertisement containing alleged labor testimonials in support of Candidate Hughes and censuring President Wilson.

This is the last desperate effort of the Republican National Committee to hoodwink the Public into believing that even one reputable labor man of prominence is supporting their candidate.

A few days ago they were gleefully quoting a six-year-old statement made by John M. O'Hanlon, Editor of the official organ of the New York State Federation of Labor, even after Mr. O'Hanlon had issued a public statement calling attention to the fact that for months he had been supporting President Wilson.

This time the Republicans are leaning upon Frank Feeney named by Martin M. Mulhall in the famous lobby scandal at Washington as his "closest friend and advisor" while Mulhall was the strike breaker and legislative agent of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Feeney is notoriously known as the labor agent and political henchman of the Penrose-McNichol Machine in Philadelphia. Mulhall swore that he had Feeney on his payroll and that he had documents to prove it.

Two weeks ago the Democratic State Chairman of Pennsylvania publicly charged that Senator Boies Penrose had been put in charge of $400,000 to attempt to influence the labor vote of the country and that Penrose had objected to "doing the dirty work" with so small a slush fund! That charge has not been denied.

Nearly a week ago the Democratic National Committee exposed Frank Feeney's employment by Penrose in this campaign to circulate fake labor endorsements of Mr. Hughes.

The alleged resolutions appearing in today's page advertisement of the Republicans are the work of Feeney and his agents.

The Chicago Building Trades Council did not adopt the pro-Hughes resolution quoted in the Republican advertisement and the Republicans know it!

The false report that such a resolution had been adopted was promptly denounced by Simon O'Donnell, President of the Chicago Building Trades Council and by Edward N. Nockels, Secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

The alleged pro-Hughes resolution, offered at a meeting in the Philadelphia Building Trades Council, was defeated. Leonard Kraft, Feeney's closest friend, then drew enough proxies from his pocket to jam it through. A week later—November 3rd—the Council officially denounced the act as a conspiracy and repudiated the alleged pro-Hughes resolution. Feeney tried to get similar resolutions adopted in Cincinnati and other cities—and failed.

When the attention of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was called to the Republican's page advertisement last night, he issued the following statement:

"To the Workingmen of the United States, Greeting:
"As predicted by me a few days ago, there is some scheme to spring a canard upon you when it will be too late to disprove and repudiate the falsehoods and fictitious allegations or declarations.

"The information comes to me that a pretended labor leader has secured some fake declarations of a few supposedly labor organizations attacking the character and the policy of the Labor Representation Committee of the American Federation of Labor, and that they are to be published as advertisements in the newspapers of the country tomorrow (Monday).

"The American Federation of Labor has without a dissenting voice or vote proclaimed the political policy to stand by the friends of labor and justice and to defeat its enemies.

"In this campaign Woodrow Wilson stands for all that is true to labor, justice, patriotism, freedom, and humanity.

"The false friends of labor will fail in their purpose to deceive."

PROGRESSIVE PROGRAM ENACTED INTO LAW

Here is the democratic record of achievement in legislation for the past four years. The platform of the progressive party in 1912 demanded:

The destruction of the invisible government—President Wilson destroyed it when he drove the lobby out of Washington.

Woman Suffrage—Wilson voted for woman suffrage.

National Child Labor Law—Wilson himself drove such a law through congress.

National Income Tax—Wilson's administration enacted that tax.

National Inheritance Tax—Wilson's administration passed an inheritance tax law.

Downward Revision of the Tariff—Wilson's administration revised the tariff downward.

Non-Partisan Tariff Commission—President Wilson obtained the authority and is now choosing such a commission.

Trade Commission—Was appointed by President Wilson under authorization by a democratic congress and is now at work.

New Currency Law—The federal reserve act, one of the wisest and best of the currency laws known, was enacted and is now at work.

Rural Credits Law—Enacted and now in operation.

National Aid for Good Roads—Wilson's administration appropriated seventy-five million dollars for good roads.

Government Railroad in Alaska—Authorized and is now being constructed.

Cessation of Abuse of Injunction in Labor Disputes—Wilson's administration by the Clayton law stopped this abuse.

Eight-Hour Day for Women—Such a law was enacted and is in operation.

Workmen's Compensation Act—Such a law was placed on the statute books.

Federal Department of Labor—In President Wilson's cabinet is a secretary of labor.

Improved Corrupt Practices Act—Such a law is now pending and undoubtedly will become a law at the next session of the democratic congress.

National Aid for Agricultural Education—The agricultural extension law is only one of many measures of the Wilson administration to give such aid.

Physical Valuation of Railroad—This physical appraisal is now being made.

Naval Program of Two Battleships Per Year—Wilson's administration has provided for a naval increase three times as great.

An Eight-Hour Day in all Industries Operated Throughout the Day and Night—Wilson has gone far beyond this. He has secured a trial of the eight-hour day even on railroads.

But, more than all this, Wilson has far exceeded the general demand of the progressive platform. The new department of labor takes care of much work that the progressive platform demanded better and more efficiently than could have been done by direct compliance with that party's platform. Health is being looked after by a strengthened public health service. For the first time in history the aid of the federal government has been extended to men in search of work.

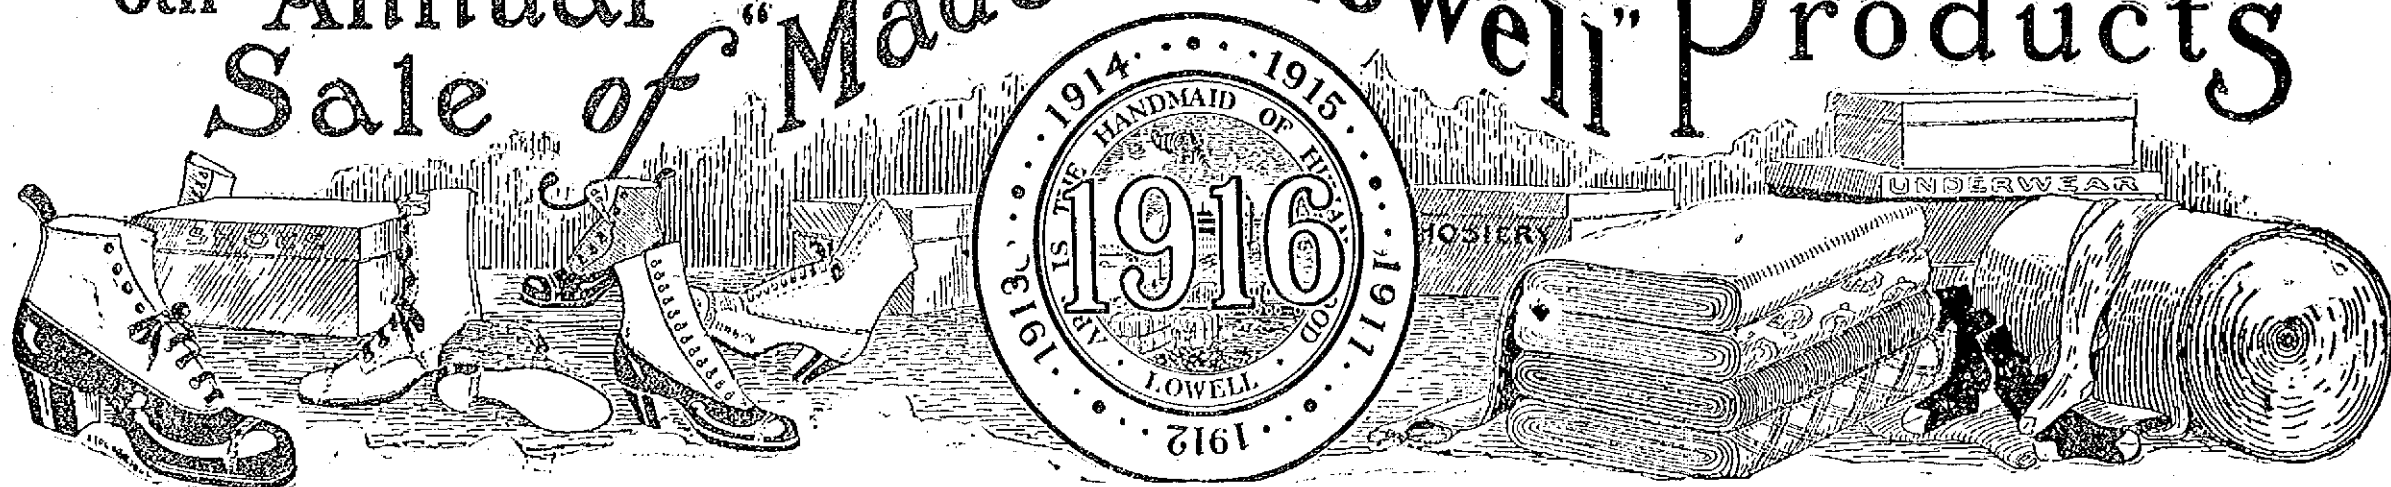

This administration has also looked after many matters of real conservation. A national park service has been created and Americans have been introduced to the magnificent stores and the landscape beauty in our national parks and reserves.

WILSON THANKS SUPPORTERS FIGHT WON

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 6.—President Wilson Saturday night wired his final word of the campaign to the men who have worked tirelessly to bring about his re-election, this telegram, being sent to every state and county chairman in the country: "I thank you heartily for the splendid work done by you and by all the workers in the cause of progressive principles at issue in this campaign. "The fight is won, I fully believe; though I take this means of urging you to renewed exertions and vigilance to see that belated efforts to confuse the public judgment do not succeed. "Our country is prosperous, secure and happy, and its prosperity is upon a sound basis. Steps to protect our commerce and industry in any emergency after the European war ends have been taken. The anti-dumping clause of the so-called war revenue act provides the executive with ample power to prevent the 'dumping' of European surplus manufactures upon our markets. "The tariff commission shortly will be appointed and at work to provide the facts which will determine what other legislation is necessary or desirable. I need not add that the federal reserve act is a guarantee against panics and that the federal trade commission will aid, as it already has helped, to preserve the stability of our domestic and foreign commerce. "I am confident that the time has passed in America when votes can be bought, the ballot box deluged by corrupt practices or the judgments of the American people determined or influenced in any way by the use of money. It is, however, our duty to take every precaution, lest conscienceless agents of the sinister forces working in opposition to progressive principles and popular government resort in their desperation to

SERVICES SHORTENED

Lights in Haverhill Churches Go Out and Organs Stop Playing When Line-men Cut Cable

HAVERHILL, Nov. 6.—Church services were interrupted, and in some cases cut short, here yesterday when some inmen of the Haverhill Electric company began to cut over some cables in the conduit on Merrimack st. They began their work about 10.30, which is the time for church services to commence. As they started on one cable they cut off the power from St. Joseph's church on Grand street, St. James' church on Winter street, the Winter Street Baptist church, Trinity Episcopal church on White street, and the North Congregational church on Main street. The lights in these churches went out, and they had no power for their organs. As the power remained off for about three-quarters of an hour, the services were necessarily shortened.

IMPORTANT RULINGS BY ACCIDENT BOARD

Special to The Sun

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 6.—Two important rulings were made by the industrial accident board last week in cases coming before the board in which claim was made for compensation on account of injuries received by employees. In one case the board favored the employee, while in the other the insurance company benefited by the board's finding.

Dorinda Cournoyer of Webster was employed by S. Slater & Sons, and during the noon hour one day last March, with another girl employee, she got on an elevator on the company's premises to "take a ride." The other girl pulled the cable, starting the elevator, and Dorinda was caught between the elevator and the second floor, her leg being broken and the flesh badly torn.

It appeared in the evidence that several other employees had used the elevator for pleasure rides; that no signs were posted warning them not to do so, and that the overseer had never told them not to. The board held, however, that an injury arising out of the use for pleasure purposes of a freight elevator, during hours when employees are not actually at work, cannot be held to be an injury arising "out of and in the course of" employment, as intended by the compensation act, and compensation was refused.

Street railway employees will be interested in the case of Bernard J. Gibbons of Watertown, an employee of the Boston Elevated. Gibbons was a motorman on one of the company's big semi-convertible cars, and one day last May attempted to close the front door of the car by using the handle provided for the purpose. The door was obstructed in some way and Gibbons used considerable strength in forcing it to close. In doing so he aggravated an existing hernia, and as a result was laid up for several weeks. The board ruled that he was entitled to compensation during the period of incapacity. Hoyt.

COMMISSIONER BOULGER CALLS AT HOTELS

The police reported "business quiet" at all of the hotels yesterday and that in most cases there was a very perceptible falling off in patronage. Just how great was the falling off will probably be disclosed in the officers' reports to the superintendent. In order to ascertain if the sandwiches were of the honest-to-goodness type, officers, it is stated, would feel them, and if any were not eaten that might probably account for it. The fact remains that the police seemed very vigilant and some of the hotels had another visitor last evening in the person of Commissioner Boulger, who had undoubtedly decided that he would see things for himself. His visits were unannounced and he went unattended. Only two arrests for drunkenness were made during the day.

GERMAN U-BOAT BLOWN UP
LONDON, Nov. 6.—A despatch to Reuters Telegram Co. from Copenhagen says a German submarine stranded Saturday night off Esboere, on the west coast of Denmark. After vain attempts by German torpedo boat destroyers to refloat it and the refusal of assistance from the local life boat station, the crew blew up the submarine and took refuge on board the destroyers.

Roger Sherman Hoar of Concord, candidate for the U. S. congress, met with a second automobile accident yesterday afternoon, the second since opening his campaign, and as a result he left his machine by the side of the road between this city and Wilmington and rode to Lowell in a Lowell-bound machine which picked him up on the road. Mr. Hoar's car became crippled while driving it to Lowell.

FITZGERALD AT WOBURN

WOBURN, Nov. 6.—Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the opening of the Woburn forum in Lyceum hall. Ex-Mayor Henchey presided and fully 1000 were present. Mr. Fitzgerald said in part:

"I think it is a fine idea for cities like Woburn and Brockton and other communities where forums have been established to discuss affairs relating to the public weal. The Ford hall forum in Boston is doing splendid work."

In a huge advertisement issued this morning by the republican state committee, attention is called to the fact that wages in this country are two and a half times as much as they are abroad. The voters are called upon to vote the republican ticket as a reason for the continuance of that condition of affairs.

"As I have said before in this campaign, this argument of the republicans is a falsity and does not stand the test. The woolen and cotton industries are the highest protected in the state, while boots and shoes have no protection, yet wages in the boot and shoe industry are 40 per cent. higher than in the cotton and woolen industry."

The fact is that the United States is the wealthiest place in the world, and can easily distribute amongst the 100,000,000 people 2-3 times as much as any other nation can give. Germany, for instance, is not as big as our one state of Texas, neither is France nor Great Britain, yet all of these countries give insurance against sickness, accident, non-employment and old age.

"We grow nearly all the cotton in the world, a large proportion of the wheat, most of the corn, while our mineral deposits are stupendous and would satisfy a nation five times as big as ours if the people controlled them."

"I have said upon the platform that the time has come when the United States should own the tremendous deposits of coal and oil that lie underneath the surface."

"I believe the time has come when there should be an embargo on the exportation of food products until the reasonable demands of the people of the United States are satisfied."

"I believe that a system of insurance akin to that in Great Britain, Germany and France, should be in vogue in the United States, and when I go to the senate I shall introduce a bill for that purpose."

SUPPER AND CONCERT

A supper and concert was held in Oad Fellows hall, Middlesex street, Saturday evening in observance of the 25th anniversary of Waverly lodge, 194, Sons of St. George. The affair was attended by over 200 people and proved most enjoyable.

The supper was served at 6 o'clock and the meal was presided over by P.T. Joseph Wilcox. Later the guests repaired to Entertainment hall, where a delightful entertainment program was carried out, those taking part being Fred Timmins, Master Wilber Roberts, Mrs. Albert Felding and Miss Timmins. The members of the degree staff of Princess lodge, Daughters of St. George, gave a pleasing exhibition drill under the direction of Miss Nellie Haslam with Miss Northam at the piano. Addresses were given by Supreme Vice President John Orrell, a charter member of Waverly lodge, and by Mr. Wilcox.

The committee in charge of the event consisted as follows: N. W. Matthews, Jr., chairman; Fred Potter, secretary; Samuel Holgate, treasurer; Willis H. Howles, Benjamin Holgate, D. H. Holgate, William S. Dawson, John Orrell, Samuel J. Burt and Joseph Wilcox, assisted by Frank L. Orrell, Ernest Orrell, Seth Fawthrop, William Hornby, Albert Stophard, John W. Corfield, William Shires, Herbert Ashton, Thomas Gardiner and John Barker attended to the sale of tickets.

CALLS ON LABOR TO VOTE FOR PRES. WILSON

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—In a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Boston Central Labor union yesterday afternoon, all laboring people are called on to support President Woodrow Wilson at the polls tomorrow.

The resolution, enunciating laws enacted by the present administration, mentions the Clayton Anti-trust act, seamen's act, child labor law and the eight-hour law for railroad employees, points out that the utterances of the principal political opponent of President Wilson and the well-known views of his principal backers and supporters leads the central body to entertain the gravest fears that much of the beneficial labor legislation enacted during the last four years will be nullified or wiped from the statute books if labor fails to support public officials who have rendered "such valuable assistance as has the present administration."

The central body at Washington is asked to express its approval of the administration of President Wilson and to endorse his candidacy.

PRES. GOMPERS HEADS OFF A CANARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, issued the following statement last night, addressed to "The workmen and citizens of the United States":

"As predicted by me a few days ago there is some scheme to spring a canard upon you when it will be too late to disprove and repudiate the falsehoods and detestable allegations or declarations."

"The information comes to me that a pretended labor leader has secured some fake declarations of a few supposed organizations, attacking the character and the policy of the labor representation committee of the American Federation of Labor, and that they are to be published as advertisements in the newspapers of the country tomorrow (Monday)."

"The American Federation of Labor has, without a dissenting voice or vote, proclaimed the political policy to stand by the friends of labor and justice and to defeat its enemies."

"In this campaign Woodrow Wilson stands for all that is true to labor, justice, patriotism, freedom and humanity."

"The false friends of labor will fail in their purpose to deceive."

MEETING OF FRIENDS OF IRISH FREEDOM

A regular meeting of the Padraic H. Pearse branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, was held in Hibernia hall last evening with a large attendance. Among other business transacted plans were made for a commemorative meeting for the Irish martyrs of Easter week, at Associate hall, Sunday evening, November 26. The anniversary of the Manchester martyrs has usually been celebrated around this date, but this year the other Irish societies will join with the Friends of Irish Freedom in a great joint celebration.

The committee is planning to have as principal speaker Judge Patrick O'Donnell of Chicago, a noted orator, and among other speakers will be Luke Dillon of Philadelphia, one of the noted political prisoners of Fenian times. A concert of appropriate vocal and instrumental music will also be provided.

An invitation was received from the Irish National Foresters asking the body and through them all friends of Ireland to march with them to the Sacred Heart church Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock where a solemn mass of requiem will be offered up for the men who died for Irish freedom. Other Irish societies are planning for a mass for the same purpose that morning at St. Patrick's church and large congregations are expected at both.

WM. G. BUNCE, FAMOUS ARTIST, KILLED BY AUTO

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 6.—William G. Bunce of Hartford, said to be the best-known painter of Venetian subjects, was killed here last night at 6 o'clock, when he was struck by an automobile driven by John C. Nichols.

He is believed to have painted more Venetian studies than any other artist of the present day, and his paintings are to be seen in almost every gallery of any size in this country and in France.

His most famous picture, "A Venice Night," painted in 1874 and 1875, won first prize in the Paris Salon in 1875. The companion picture, "A Venice Morning," was hung in the Paris Salon and received a gold medal in 1878. In that year he entered the Society of American artists in New York. His picture, "La Luna Venetiana," was sent to the Paris exposition, and was one of the most-talked-of pictures hung there.

The French republic purchased several of Mr. Bunce's pictures, and Queen Victoria bought one at Riviera.

AMERICAN WORKMAN: "Yes, Cousin, that's what the tariff does for me."

BRITISH WORKMAN: "Well I'm blown! And to think I've been voting FREE TRADE!"

FOUR CHURCHES HOLD UNION SERVICE

The first of a series of union services was held at the High Street church Sunday evening. The other churches represented being the Elliot Congregational, the First Unitarian and the First Universalist. The preacher was Richard L. Swain, D.D., of Bridgeport, Conn., who gave the introductory address to a series of five lectures, to be given at the High Street church this week. These lectures will be delivered each evening, excepting Saturday at 8 o'clock and questions are invited at the close.

The sermon last evening was on "The Honest Atheist," Dr. Swain relating his own religious doubts and experiences as typical of the point of view of many. A questioning condition of mind, he said, is to be found within the church as well as without it. He deplored the fact that so many college men lose a sense of religion and told of teachers in colleges who believe neither in God nor in a soul.

In relating his own experience he said that he is the son of English parents who came here when he was a small boy and settled in the frontier. As a boy he never doubted the existence of God, but when he reached 15 a new impulse woke within him. He has attended revival meetings and he tried to get the religious feeling of the older people. After one experience of what he described as ecstasy he felt that other religious experience was arid and soon grew to doubt and question. Then still doubting, he helped in evangelistic work in a supernatural psychic state. Finally he went to college and to the theological school and in the study of philosophy discovered that to look for revelations from God is neither Christian nor sensible. The popular conception of God, he said, is wrong and we may not know any more about it after death than we know now. Yet if one knew all that "God" means, there would be no need for other definitions of creed. At the close a few questions were asked and Dr. Swain gave interesting answers.

St. Paul's Church

Twenty new members were admitted to membership at St. Paul's church yesterday. There was a large attendance at the communion service and two members were baptized. The sermon in the evening was on "Is Religion Necessary?" and Rev. C. R. Skinner in his talk declared that religion is not only necessary, but indispensable to humanity. Without religion life is incomplete. Religion is native to the soul, it alone makes for the highest development of all powers. "But we want a religion which honors God, exalts man and one which spans the great divide. Christ alone adequately meets the need."

Calvary Baptist
Yesterday was the seventh anniversary of the erection of the Calvary Baptist church and also brought to a conclusion a seven weeks' campaign for new members for the church. It was learned that 42 members were admitted into membership. The pastor, Rev. A. Reed Ditts, took for his moving topic, "New Things," a subject appropriate to the occasion, and especially helpful to the new members who were received into the church at the communion service. The evening subject was "A Great Keeper," on which Rev. Mr. Ditts preached a telling sermon.

FIRE TOOK PART IN MOVIES AT THE JEWEL

Considerable excitement was caused in upper Merrimack street shortly before 7:30 o'clock, Saturday night, when an alarm was sent in from box 24 for a blaze in the cellar of the building numbered 507-509 Merrimack street. When the blaze was discovered, it had consumed a great deal of rubbish in the cellar and the smoke poured from the windows in huge volumes. The smoke also made its way into the Jewel theatre, where there were hundreds of people seated watching the "movies." The management of the house notified those present that there was no danger and but few left the theatre.

DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Have Beautiful, Soft Hair of an Even Dark Shade.

Not even a trace of gray shows in your hair after a few applications of Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer to hair and scalp. Q-Ban is no dye, is harmless but makes scalp and hair healthy and restores the natural color glands. If your hair is gray, streaked with gray, faded, dry, bleached, thin or falling, apply Q-Ban as directed on label. Soon all your gray hair and entire head of hair gradually turns to an even, beautiful dark shade, leaving all your hair healthy, fluffy, soft, radiant, thick, full of life, fascinating; so evenly dark and handsome no one will suspect you used Q-Ban. Also stops dandruff and falling hair. Sold on a money-back guarantee. Only 25c for a big bottle at Liggett's-Riker-Jaynes' Drug Stores, Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass. Out-of-town people supplied by parcel post.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

flames, but when the gas was shut off, the firemen were able to make better progress and it was but a short time before the blaze was under control.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building owned by Father Harpoonian on Merrimack street damaged by fire Saturday night.

Another Cellar Fire

An alarm from box 6 was sounded at 5:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon for a fire in a pile of rubbish in a cellar at 35 Lakeview avenue. The fire was extinguished before any material damage was done. The property is owned by Robert Bartlett.

And Still Another

What threatened to be a dangerous fire broke out in a pile of kindling wood in a cellar at 609 Market street, shortly after six o'clock Saturday night, but the early discovery and prompt response of the fire department put an end to the blaze before much damage was done.

91 LIVES LOST IN COLLISION OF SHIPS

BELFAST, Nov. 5.—The death list as a result of the disaster to the steamers Connemara and Retriever on Thursday night is now set at 91. Eighty-two persons lost their lives on the Connemara and nine on the Retriever. Sixty-nine bodies have been recovered.

The collision occurred at 8:30 o'clock in the evening a mile off the coast. The sole survivor of the Retriever, James Hoyle, was in the water half an hour clinging to an overturned boat, which was washed ashore.

The disaster was due directly to a storm. The incoming Retriever and outgoing Connemara were steering the proper course to pass each other in the narrow channel of Greenacres harbor. The vessels were nearly abreast when a huge wave struck the Retriever, laden with coal, altering her course. Before she could recover, the bow was driven amidships into the Connemara. The Retriever was so badly damaged that she sank in a quarter of an hour.

The collision was seen from the shore, but the sea was too rough to permit assistance being sent to the ships. Scores of rockets were sent up from the shore in the hope of drawing any ships in the neighborhood to the rescue, but apparently none was near. The boilers of both steamers exploded after the collision, killing a great number of persons on board, as was made evident by the mutilated bodies washed ashore.

The people on board did not even have time to secure lifebelts as none of the dead was found to be provided with them.

BABY GIRL IS DESERTED ON MAINE COAST

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 6.—A well dressed baby girl about six months old, was found abandoned in a state-room of the Governor Cobb yesterday morning. The boat left Boston last night. The only clue to her identity was a name, Irene Holt, written on a piece of note paper and pinned to the baby's breast.

The police have but a hazy description of the couple that engaged the state-room, but are watching every railroad station in the city and searching hotels and lodging houses in an effort to locate the pair. The man in taking message, gave his name as A. W. Harris, no address.

The infant was dressed in expensive clothing, while, according to a stewardess, the couple who occupied the state-room were poorly dressed. This may indicate, the police say, that the couple were hired to make the trip to this city from Boston and to desert the baby here.

The baby was found at 8 o'clock by a porter who entered the state-room to make the berth. The baby was in the upper berth, playing with her toes and cooing to herself. The porter reported that a half hour earlier when he had knocked at the door the couple had been inside the state-room.

The police were notified and men were sent to the railroad stations but it is believed that the couple had time to reach the Union station and take the 2 o'clock train back to Boston before the police reached the station.

Officials of the steamship line stated that the couple had purchased their tickets at the uptown office of the line in Boston and that they had kept closely to their state room after coming aboard last night. No one can be found who remembers seeing the couple being the baby aboard the boat. A stewardess who was called to the state-room when they came aboard, asserts that the man was between 21 and 25 years of age and the woman about 40. He wore a shabby gray suit and stiff hat, and the woman wore a brown suit.

You Are Working; —Not Fighting! Alive and Happy; —Not Cannon Fodder! Wilson and Peace with Honor? or Hughes with Roosevelt and War?

Roosevelt says we should hang our heads in shame because we are not at WAR with Germany in behalf of Belgium!

Roosevelt says that following the sinking of the Lusitania he would have foregone diplomacy and seized every ship in our ports flying the German flag. That would have meant WAR!

Hughes Says
He and Roosevelt are in Complete Accord!

Senator Fall, who has vast interests in Mexico and is Candidate Hughes' advisor as to Mexican Affairs, declares "a Hughes WAR would be preferable to a Wilson peace."

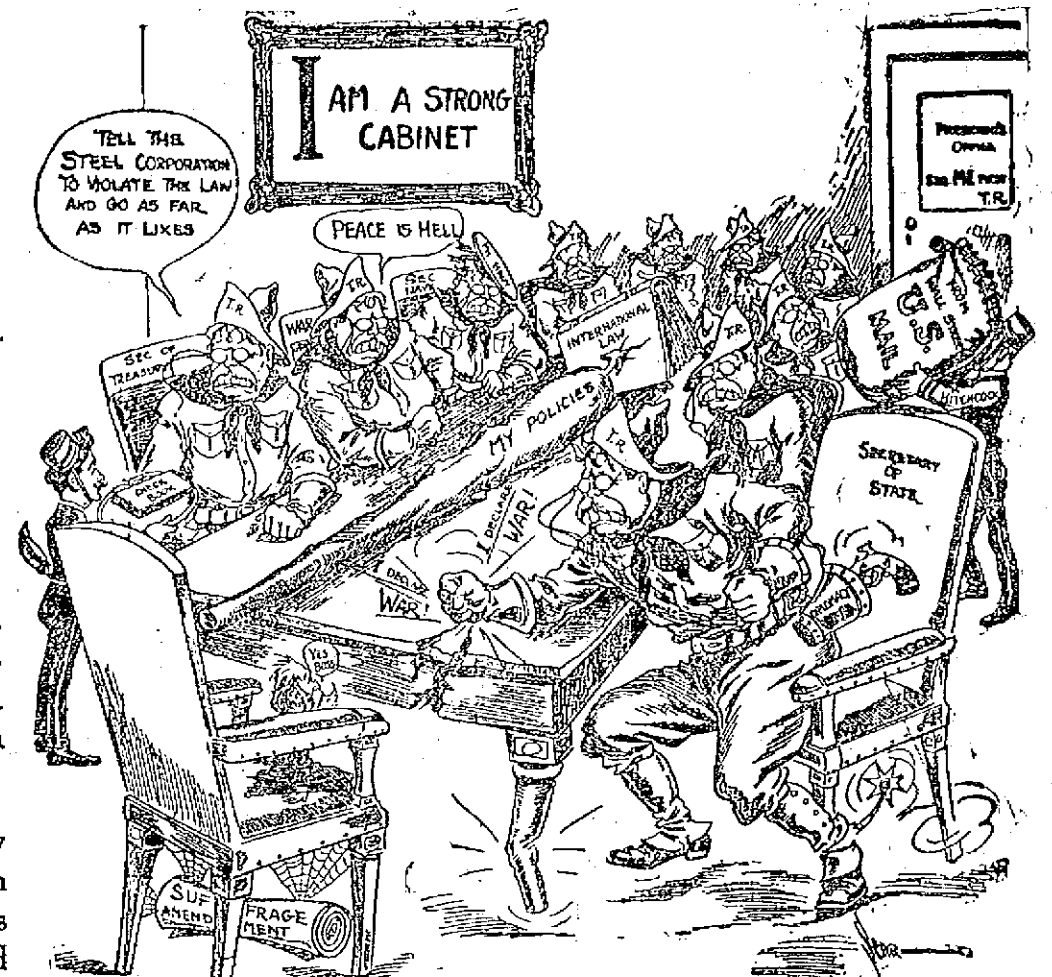

Read the published list of Heavy Subscribers to the Republican campaign fund, then look up the list of Americans with enormous interests in Mexico and learn why those who place the almighty dollar ahead of human life would not hesitate to plunge this country into an ignoble war of conquest—would not stop at sacrificing thousands and thousands of American lives in their greed for oil and gold.

Look again at this list. Then you will see why the "Old Guard" appeals frantically for a protective tariff—

THAT BREEDER OF STRIKES, OF STARVATION WAGES, AND OF EVERY PANIC THAT EVER CURSED THIS COUNTRY—

And which made billions for organized wealth by putting honest competition out of business.

You will see why in sheer desperation and bereft of all decency the Republican "Old Guard" is capitalizing the lamentable incidents in Mexico and trying ing to discredit your President for sparing you the horrors that would come with intervention.

Mr. Hughes "Would Name a STRONG Cabinet?"

Read the list still again. Note the names of men heavily entrenched financially in the protective tariff system and in vicious special privilege.

Read and see why millions are being spent to reenact the Payne-Aldrich tariff—to wipe out the Federal Reserve System—to repeal the Eight Hour law and other progressive laws—to undo the Wilson Record of unparalleled achievement.

Then understand why Candidate Hughes said in his Milwaukee speech: "The whole list of Democratic accomplishment must be wiped off the books for the good of the country."

The Lesson is Plain:

If You Want WAR, Vote for HUGHES!

If You Want Peace With Honor

VOTE For WILSON!

and Continued Prosperity

The Tumult and the Shouting Die!

It is Up to You and Your Conscience!

MORE POWER TO YOU JOHNNIE BRENNAN

John W. Brennan, town clerk of Dracut, former representative from that district and one of the most popular residents of the town, has accepted the position of paymaster at the Merrimack Woolen mills in the Navy Yard district. Mr. Brennan was for a number of years in the accounting department of the Beaver Brook mills.

DISEASES OF CHILDREN

I had worms one of the most common of children's diseases—either pinworms or stomach worms. These parasites make their presence felt through deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 60 years Dr. True's Family Laxative and Worm Expeller has been the standard remedy for worm stomach disorders and constipation, both for children and adults. Mr. Wm. L. Wythe of Houston, Texas, writes: "I want to say that Dr. True's Laxative is certainly a fine medicine." At all dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00. Advice free. Write to me.

marine and the German commander forced us to come aboard. He put some of his crew into our boat and they went out to the Midland and sank her. After four explosions we saw her roll over and go down.

"The Germans used only one English expression when they returned to the submarine after sinking the Midland. That was 'get out.' We drifted throughout the night until, at daybreak a French trawler picked us up and kept us aboard for two days. Later it took us into St. Malo."

INVESTIGATE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The rising cost of living is being investigated by the government to ascertain whether the increasing prices are being pushed upward unlawfully. Wherever that is found to be the case, persons responsible will be punished to the full extent of the law, according to Attorney-General Gregory. Agents of the department of justice particularly are seeking evidence of unlawful price increases through conspicuous or other means.

The attorney-general yesterday authorized the following statement of his department's activities in that connection:

"The department of justice investigation of recent abnormal and suspicious increases in the prices of various necessities of life, especially coal. Wherever any such increase has been found to be the result of other unlawful action, the department will invoke against the offenders the severest penalties which the law prescribes."

GET TOGETHER DAY OF THE BOY SCOUTS

The "get together" day of the Boy Scouts of America, Lowell Council, held at Golden Cove Saturday was a pronounced success. A feature was the sporting program. The starter was Scoutmaster Ernest Mountain and the judges were Scoutmasters Herbert Vance, Arthur W. Shaw, Axel Schomborn, Ernest Gauthier, Roy Raymond C. Clapp and Rev. F. W. Tingler of Dracut. The result of the program follows:

100 yard dash under 14 years, won by Scout Carl Laidlaw of Troop 19.
100 yard dash over 14 years, won by Walter Lorman of Troop 8.
Bicycle verbal dash race, won by David Lamerton, Alfred Palmer, Fred Willet and Rupert Rhodes.
Blind crab race, won by Leroy Perkins of Troop 15.
Scout race, a most interesting and educational scout event, won by Walker Caddell of Troop 15.
Stunt race, won by Troop 11 of Dracut.

One mile bicycle race, scouts under 14, won by Walter Rogers of Troop 19 from a field of 25 contestants.
One mile bicycle race, scouts over 14, won by Alfred Lamson of Troop 18, from 15 contestants.
Antelope race: Won by Troop 4, the Scandinavian troop; Scouts Hedlund, Castor, Lloyd, Malley, Stromberg, Ryan, Copp and Laurin.

RESCUE MORE THAN 50 IN NEW YORK BAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Volunteer lifesavers and coast guard crews rescued more than 50 persons yesterday in the outer bay when a northeast gale drove inland disabled motor boats and sandy fishing craft. Coast guards from Sandy Hook station went to the rescue of three power boats, one of which were 20 fishermen. Another boat, the Mary E. Combs, drifted ashore at Sandy Hook point with 33 fishermen clinging to her sides.

A small motor boat tossed by the heavy sea a mile off Normandie, N. J., attracted hundreds of persons to the beach. The three occupants were rescued by a coast guard cutter after being stuck about for three hours by the gale.

A lifesaver crew from the Anchor line steamer Calabria, outbound for Naples, took eight men from the disabled motor boat Echo in Ambrose channel and transferred them to the pilot boat New York. Coast guard stations at Monmouth beach, Sea-bright and Spermaceti Cove reported many fishing and small pleasure craft in distress, but were unable to launch lifesboats to go to their assistance on account of the heavy seas.

AMUSEMENT NOTES
LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"The Story of the Rosary" Walter Howard's great drama of love and war, is the offering of the Emerson Players.

What a pity she doesn't know that Resinol Soap would clear her skin

"She would be a pretty girl, if it wasn't for that pimply, blotchy complexion!" But the regular use of Resinol Soap, aided at first by a little Resinol Ointment, would probably make it clear, fresh and charming. If a poor skin is your handicap, begin using Resinol Soap and see how quickly it improves.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold everywhere. For free samples of each, write to Dept. 4, N. Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

ers at the Opera House all this week and it is a play that every man, woman and child in Lowell and for miles around will see. There is a great demand for seats for the attraction now and though capacity houses will rule all the week and though there is likely to be hundreds of requests to see the play a second week, the contracts make it impossible to do so, and wise ones will make reservations early and thus avoid any chance of disappointment. Reservations can be made by phoning 261.

"The Story of the Rosary" was originally produced in London and for a year played to packed houses afternoon and evening at the Prince's theatre. In New York, the play ran for nine months and just now is being given a very successful run in Chicago while there are two other companies appearing in the big cities of the south and west offering the attraction at prices ranging from 30 cents to $2. The play has been secured by special arrangement with Sanger and Jenson, the well known New York playbrokers at an almost prohibitive royalty and one of the largest that has ever been paid for any attraction offered in stock in recent years.

Ivan Miller is seen at his best in the play as the character which he portrays offers him splendid opportunities to exploit his talents. Miller, Dun also has wonderful opportunities in this attraction and his work is certain to win him the laurels of admirers. Richard Vincent, James Hayden, Ross Morrison, Gertrude Shirley, Gladys McLeod, James T. Galloway, Frank Wright, Ernest East, David Baker, Ben Haddell and other members of the company also appear in fine character parts while a mammoth scenic production is given with seven distinct settings.

The play has all the elements of a great success. It is a wonderful story, a wonderful drama, a wonderful character and while intensely dramatic, it has many delightful comedy scenes in the play and they are sprinkled around beautifully. "The Story of the Rosary" is a play that will live long in the memory of the theatregoers of this city and everyone who witnesses the production. It is not to be confused with "The Rosary" which has been played in this city many times. The story of the Rosary is a brand new success and an entirely different play.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Vandalized Musical Comedy" is the title of the brilliant skit to be shown at the B. F. Keith theatre this week by Roger Gray & Co. Gray is new to vaudeville, but he has had a long and rather eventful career in the highest grade of musical comedy, and he is in a position to put over a very funny and bright things connected with the history of amusement. For the purpose of bringing out all of the niceties of the musical comedy line, Mr. Gray has formed a mixed quartet, and the thing just as it is programmed in the bigger productions will get a neat little thing from this company of delightful satirists. "Our little play" is a dramatization of Robert L. Bailey's own personality, for Robert Bailey will play the title part of this scintillating skit. He has been seen with the biggest successes of recent years. Keller Mack and Frank Orth have written this delightful sketch around Robert L. Bailey, and have given him the opportunity to show his unusual talents. A novel singing banish is one of the best things to the place. McIntosh and his Scotch Lasses sing the pipes, beat the drums and blow the brass and, besides, they will swing their kilties and contribute stirring songs and sweet dances. What sea-ding and a tingling more than a well done Scottish turn? And McIntosh is a bawdy lad, who knows just what all the world likes when it comes to putting forward Highland scenes. The lasses are an engaging lot. The Merrimack Brothers are billed as the most sensational aerial performers in the world. They make use of a replica of the Eiffel tower in Paris in doing their daredevil stunts. Jack Sidney and Miss Billie Townley make frequent changes of costume and sing and dance. Arthur Rigby, the old time minstrel blackface comedian, will entertain royally The Larneds, a man and a woman, offer "Scenes" from "The Path of Duty" and will give all first-run news pictures.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The bill of pictures which will be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday at the continuous performances is a bill of the attention of every motion picture enthusiast, and will doubtless engage the attention of all who are appreciative. And the stars? There is the famous actor of Oriental birth and ancestry, Sessue Hayakawa, who appears on these next three days with the adorable Myrtle Stedman in the five act drama of Japanese life, "The Soul of Kura-San." Sessue appears in the role of a poor Japanese artist in love with the Japanese beauty, Kura-San, the daughter of a tea house merchant. Upon the death of his uncle in America,

Sessue goes to Japan to claim his bride, but in his absence many things have happened which bring about a tragedy which leads the Japanese to believe that woman has no soul. The play, which is interesting in every scene, shows what little regard the state of Japan has for suffering and death.

Lenore Ulrich will also be seen today, tomorrow and Wednesday in a pleasing yet powerful picture, entitled "The Intrigue." This is a modern story revolving around the invention of an X-ray gun which the United States refuses to buy. Miss Ulrich as Countess Sonia, an international spy, tells the purchase of it by another government. Though the inventor loses his gain through the destruction of the model—he wins more—the heart of the girl he loves. The play brings out a lot of great dramatic action and is well received. A very funny comedy—one which will make everyone laugh, has also been booked for the first half of this week, as well as the feature, which gives every patron a living glimpse of the events of world interest. On Tuesday evening the latest election bulletins will be given from the stage. Special arrangements have been made which assure prompt service. "Less Than the Dust," the first picture produced by Mary Pickford's own company, is the last word in motion picture art. By far it surpasses any play of its kind produced.

ROYAL THEATRE

Among the famous masterpieces of fiction turned out by Alexandre Dumas is "Black, the Story of a Dog," a plausible story of reincarnation. This author, known world-wide, has been hailed as the greatest writer of fiction in his day, and his contributions always have been novel and refreshing. His subtle phraseology, his wonderful grasp of humanity rendered to each of his works a sincerity of conviction, and his excellent one of the most sensational ever filmed. This seven part master play and five other fine releases, among them a railroad story, featuring Helen Gibson, will round out the entire show for today and tomorrow.

The story of "Where is My Father?" deals with the adventures of Diouienne, a French girl, who is taken to America by her mother, a young orphan who soon wears of her good natured husband. Learning of her unfaithfulness, he leaves for other parts, and finally settles in the South Sea islands, with Dumesnil, a sincere friend, who tells him that if he needs him after his own death, he would come to serve him in the shape of a dog. His wife dying in Paris, and some time later the death of Dumesnil soon leave him a broken man. Years later, Diouienne returns in Paris, and there, one day, a black dog comes to her. The dog leads him to Theresie, who, unknown to him, is the daughter of his unfortunate wife of years ago. She is to commit suicide, she being

It is a hopeless task to try to restore your health while your blood is deficient in quantity or quality.

The blood circulates throughout every portion of the body except the hair and nails. It takes the nourishment from the food and distributes it to the various muscles and organs; it takes also any medication that is administered through the mouth. The blood is the only medium by which medicine can reach the nerves. If the blood is thin its carrying capacity is lessened because it is the red corpuscles in the blood that carry oxygen and other needed constituents to the various parts of the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People increase the red corpuscles in the blood. They enable it to absorb more oxygen, to carry more life and strength to the weakened organs. In any disease in which the patient becomes thin and pale Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be used successfully to combat the anemia and build up the health and strength.

"Building Up the Blood" is a booklet, full of good information. Every mother and every growing girl should have one. It is sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price 50 cents.

This novel theme has been remarkably well handled by a splendid cast of high class players, and Dumas' splendid bit of fiction has not lost its flavor in the filming.

OWL THEATRE

Lionel Barrymore, the idol of hundreds of local theatregoers, has been starred in another great five part Metro photoplay, entitled "The Brand of Cowardice," which will head the big Owl theatre bill today and tomorrow. Advance notices predict that Barrymore will gain thousands of new admirers by his wonderful portrayal of the military man in this new release, which was taken on the Mexican border while the troops of the state militia were stationed there. This new play deals with a military matter, it was written by a military man and the man who directed it is a military man. A West Point graduate and a veteran of the Spanish war, appearing with Barrymore in this film is the charming young star, Grace Valentine, who displays such wonderful talent that she rose from the ranks of the supernos to the heights of stardom in less than 12 months.

The story of "The Brand of Cowardice" deals with the recent trouble with the Mexicans. Barrymore is seen in the role of an officer of a crack militia company, who refused to go to Mexico at the call of the president. His fiancée calls him a coward and returns his engagement ring, then leaves for Mexico to join her father, who is an officer in the regular army. The officer, stung by the girl's contempt, goes to Mexico and joins the army as a private there, comes in contact with a fighting corporal and after giving him a severe trouncing, deserts the army and flees across the border to Mexico. In the meantime, the girl falls into the hands of a crowd of Mexican bandits. The despised sweetheart soon after learns of it and goes alone to the village of the bandits. How he finally rescues the girl, and how his bravery soon wins love for him forms one of the best photoplays ever released on the Metro screen. In addition to "The Brand of Cowardice," other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl today and tomorrow.

LOWELL LOSES TO MANY OTHER BIG SIX DAY RACE

MANCHESTER HIGH

LEAGUE CLUBS ON MARKET

BEGINS THIS AFTERNOON

Scoring the only touchdown of the game in the first few minutes of play, the Manchester high school football eleven defeated Lowell high at Textile park, Manchester, Saturday afternoon. The score was 7 to 0.

After the touchdown, which came on the third play, the teams fought hard but most of the time they remained near the center of the field. Once or twice Lowell threw a scare into the 1500 or more Manchester fans present by threatening to cross the line, but the great defense of the winning team prevented a score.

The Lowell team was badly crippled. Captain Linton played the entire game in spite of a recent injury. Arthur Lynch, the star fullback, was called into play in the latter stage of the game and his work made a difference in the showing. Mahoney did not play.

Manchester high considered the game one of the most important of the season. The New Hampshire boys had a string of victories, but it was not thought that they were strong enough to win from the fast Lowell team. The work of Hampton, Kelly and Kenyon excelled, and they succeeded in offsetting the brilliant playing of Lynch, Linton and some of the other Lowell boys.

Hampton scored the touchdown for Manchester, sweeping around the left end for a 65 yard run. The play puzzled the Lowell team. Kenyon kicked the goal. Lowell then made several advances but the "pep" that has been shown in the victories this season was lacking, and Hampton's touchdown proved sufficient to win the game.

Half a Century Sailed Old Briny

In order that any man or woman may derive a full measure of pleasure and success in life, it is necessary that he or she should be possessed of health in mind and body. It is certain that the greatest thing in all the world is health without it a man can scarcely do anything worth doing; he can accomplish little that is really worth accomplishing. Attention to health then should take the place of every other object; that which is necessary to secure it should receive consideration in preference to everything else, for instance, the new herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, which is gaining such a following in Lowell, where daily grateful people are testifying to its merits and recommending it to their friends.

Recently, I signed testimonial of Mr. John C. Chipman, a retired sailor, who lives now at the Sailors' Home, Snug Harbor, Quincy, Mass., was received. Mr. Chipman has sailed the seas for 60 years and is well known in all the harbors along the New England coast. He has hosts of friends who will be glad to learn of his recovery to health. He stated:

"For the past four years I was troubled with rheumatism contracted while at sea, and I had terrible pains all over my body. I could not sleep at night on account of the pain and would walk the floor all night long many a night. My stomach was in very weak condition and I could hardly keep any food in it; I had such pains in my arms and shoulders that I could hardly move them. I had tried so many different kinds of medicine that I was very skeptical, as none ever did me the least good. When I heard so much about Plant Juice I thought I would try it, although I had little faith in its curing me. After taking it for several weeks I was greatly surprised at the wonderful results I obtained; I can now eat any kind of food and have a good appetite for my meals; I sleep well at night and the pains have left my system. I consider myself entirely cured, and am glad to recommend Plant Juice to all of my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Dows Drug Store, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the good public, and introducing and explaining the merits of the remedy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The sale of the Boston American League club, within a month after the team had won the world's championship, is thought by many close followers of baseball politics to mark the first of a number of changes and readjustments in major league circles. Former President J. J. Lannin made no secret of the fact that the Red Sox were for sale and if rumors and inner circle gossip can be accepted at face value, several other club owners are just willing to dispose of their holdings but lack the frankness of Lannin.

The president of the Boston Americans placed a price of $750,000 upon the club early in the present year; it is understood, was offered and refused $500,000. Under the circumstances the sale of the Red Sox, while the glimmer of the world series victory was still fresh, at $675,000 appears in the light of a compromise. Judging from past results and attendance figures at Boston the new owners made a fair deal.

The Boston club entered the American league in 1901 and since that season has won the junior league pennant five times and the world's championship three times. In the sixteen years the Red Sox have finished fourth or better every season except in 1906-7-8 and 1911. The average position of the team for the full period works out as 3-1-4. Furthermore Boston has always been noted as a good baseball town, supporting its clubs with consistency whether winners or losers.

Harry Frazee, the new head of the club, while a young man has always been a close follower of sports and is far from being a novice in the promoting line. In addition to his many other interests, he has backed several sporting events of more than ordinary prominence including the heavyweight championship bout at Havana, Cuba, when Jess Willard wrestled the title from Jack Johnson. As a result he does not enter big league baseball circles without preliminary training. Because of his knowledge of the amusement trend of the American public, Frazee should prove a valuable addition to the roster of baseball magnates.

With the growing prosperity of Cuba, yachting has developed into one of the leading sports of wealthy Cubans and the Havana yacht club races are now a feature of the season. The amateur yachtsmen feel that they have outgrown the Sonder type of racing craft and orders have been placed in this country for several of the larger racing yachts. When these are launched it is hoped that some of the American yachtsmen will be induced to visit Cuba and participate in a series of international races. If the outcome of these races warrants several of the wealthy Cuban enthusiasts may combine and challenge for the America's cup within the next few years.

The new plan for the intercollegiate tennis league among eastern colleges has been outlined as follows:

"The league embraces Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Cornell. Each team will play each other team in the league a match of at least four men, four singles and two doubles; if possible, a six man match will be played. These matches will take place in the spring of the year, and an intercollegiate league championship banner will be awarded to the leading team at the end of the season. The league will be under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Tennis association and will have the captains of the league teams as an executive committee. It is believed that the league matches will increase college interest in tennis and give a definite purpose to the spring matches."

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Twenty-two of the world's most famous cyclists, every one trained to the minute, will take the starter's gun at the Boston Arena at 4 o'clock this afternoon for the start of Boston's tenth annual six-day race.

Probably no field of bikers ever gathered together for an event of this kind compare in all-round ability with the one which will start in this year's contest. It's a speedy bunch, with a good-natured sprinkling of youngsters, and it is these so-called kids that bend their energy toward new records and in doing so make the race a thriller from beginning to end.

In every race, no matter what kind it may be, there is always some individual or team that stands out a shade better than the others, at least on paper. This year that honor goes to the Australian-American combination of Alf Grenda and Al Goullet.

Australian Favorites
Goullet and Grenda are parts of the past two winners in the Hub's six-day race. Grenda, paired with Freddy Hill, landed last year's grand and the one previous went to the team made up of Goullet and Hill. It's the only natural team that Goullet and Grenda welded as one, stand out the favorites.

McNamara and Spears, the Australian team which finished second in the 1915 race, is probably the pick of the others. The German-French outfit, Harry Kaiser and Marcel Dupuy, is a whirlwind in every respect and one that will always be feared by its competitors. The Spencer brothers, Willie and Arthur, forming the Canadian team, must be considered in the running. Arthur certainly will make them all hustle. He was a sensation at Newark last year. He whipped Goullet and many other crackmen. In fact he took Goullet's measure down at the Havana track, or at least tied him, which is as good as a victory for the Canadian, considering that Alf was a top-heavy favorite.

All Are Dangerous
As for the rest of the teams they're even sturdier off at the hotting goes. Of course every team is dangerous in a six-day race, for accidents and jams and the like often break up a winning combination. There's some corking good outsize outside of the favorite row, especially the kid teams of Hamley and Madden and Sullivan and Eaton. Eddie Reel, the blonde-haired Melrose boy, and his partner, Harry Lawson of Salt Lake City, are veterans, but a dangerous pair, up to every trick of the game and a combination that will bear watching.

Italy has a youthful pair in Vincent Madonna, the sensational pace follower, and Tommy Belle, road champion of his country. New York's motor-paced team will be represented by George Wiley and Clarence Carman, former favorites and long-distance riders of note. Two teams likely to be overlooked, but which will certainly make themselves heard before the race is well under way, are the San Francisco riders—Thomas and Lawrence, and an Australian-American pair—Corry and Magin.

Lowell Eleven Was Easy For St. John's Preparatory School Team—
Score 26 to 0

St. John's Preparatory football team had trouble in defeating Lowell Textile on Columbus avenue, Danvers, Saturday afternoon by a score of 26 to 0. John's team showed its best form of the season and easily outplayed the local school boys. Two of the winning team's touchdowns were scored on forward passes, the first coming about three minutes after the start of the game. Haxey Shea and White made the touchdowns and two goals from touchdowns were kicked by Murphy.

WANTED MCARTHY TO SPLIT SHARE OF MONEY

trip at the close of the regular season are spreading a story that does credit to the Dodgers as thrifty souls.

Low McCarthy, as is well understood, received a full share of the Dodgers' world's series take as a condition for joining, the Giants in exchange for Fred Merkle. That little stipulation, it seems, rankled in the breast of diverse Robins, and when McCarthy ventured forth on that little exhibition tour of the Giants the same Robins arose to remark that since McCarthy cut in on the Dodgers' world's series bit, it was only just and proper for McCarthy to donate a percentage of his barnstorming receipts to be divided in equal shares among the entire team. It is estimated that each Giant mailed about $200, and you can imagine what McCarthy and his fellow-tourists thought of the money-mad Robins.

"About the only thing the Dodgers parted with upon their departure from Brooklyn was the breath to articulate their best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," said an old-time ball player who had heard about the McCarthy incident from the New York players.

Before the largest crowd of the season, the Indians and the U. S. Virginia football eleven played to a scoreless tie at Bunting park Saturday afternoon. In the first three periods the teams showed equal strength, neither one being able to get any advantage over the other. In the final stages, however, the local boys displayed a burst of speed and rushed the ball down the field a distance of about 60 yards. They were within a few yards of the opponents' goal posts when time was called.

The large crowd saw a well played game, there being many spectacular plays. In the attendance there was a number of sailors from the Chesapeake navy yard, and the enthusiasm was kept at a high pitch by both teams. In the first period the sailors were a little superior but after Lowell's men got a line on their play the result was different. Line plunges and end runs resulted in the best gains for the Indians while the Virginia team resorted to more open work. The entire Indian team played well, the backfield being particularly fast. The lineup:

Indians	U.S.S. Virginia
Quinn, Laurine to	to Gato
Mahoney to	to Johnson
Moran to	to Mahabernan
Flynn to	to Bowen
Kelley to	to Kuttner
Poult, Quinn to	to Lowman
McHugh to	to Perdual
E. Donnellan to	to Brewster
R. Donnellan to	to Muller
McIntyre to	to Murphy
Williams, Gleason to	to Shultz

Summary: Score—Indians 0, U.S.S. Virginia 0. Officials: Referee, Donovan; umpire, Smith; head linesman, Hoxley. Linesmen, Olson and Aldrich. Time: Four 12-min. periods.

GERMAN SUBMARINES IN GULF OF MEXICO

MEXICO WARNED BY BRITISH AMBASSADOR OF DRASTIC MEASURE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6.—The Mexican government has been notified by the British ambassador at Washington of the presence of German submarines in the Gulf of Mexico and has been warned that the allies will take "drastic measures" if the under-sea craft receive aid from Mexican ports or sources.

This information was made public last night by Foreign Minister Aguilar, who issued the text of a note received from the British ambassador through Secretary of State Lansing and Charge d'Affaires Charles B. Parker.

The British note demands a strict censorship of the Mexican wireless and says that any failure to maintain Mexican neutrality will be attended by disastrous results. In his reply, addressed to Mr. Parker, Senator Aguilar says that it seems strange to the Mexican government that Great Britain should use the United States state department as an intermediary in a point concerning Mexico alone, especially when Great Britain has an accredited representative to Mexico. The reply says that the Mexican government will, for this time only, answer the questions of the British government through an intermediary.

Foreign Minister Aguilar states that the Mexican government feels it unjust for the allies to hold Mexico responsible for submarine activities in the Gulf of Mexico when the same submarines arrived in American ports and made shore landings in the United States without causing conflict or difficulties between Germany and the United States. He adds that Mexico desires to retain cordial relations with Great Britain and to this end suggests that the English fleet prevent the German submarines from leaving their base, thus obviating the Mexican government's disagreeable incidents caused by the European conflict. If such measures by England are not efficacious, the foreign minister concludes, the Mexican government will take such measures as the circumstances direct should German submarines enter Mexican waters.

EX-CONG. O'CONNELL FOR PRES. WILSON

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Ex-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, who is the chief figure in the Friends of Irish Freedom movement in New England and a noted authority on international law, issued a statement last evening in which he declared that the best interests of the country demand the reelection of the president.

The ex-congressman has just returned from a visit to New York, where he says he found Wilson sentiment very strong. The following is his statement:

"There need be no question concerning the attitude of any democrat in this campaign, nor the attitude of any man who carries the interests of America close to his heart. Woodrow Wilson deserves the vote and hearty support of every man who places humanity above the dollar and America above the world.

"He may have made mistakes, but we forgive them because we know he tried sincerely to serve the interests of America and the American people. I have freely criticized many features of his foreign policy, but I freely acknowledge his unselfishness and his ardent desire to aid his country."

"No man, least of all a democrat, can look with any favor on the interests behind Mr. Hughes. It is inconceivable that we should again turn the country over to the discredited, reactionary Old Guard republican bosses tainted as they are with the domination of Wall street and all the millionaire high tariff barons."

"I believe the reelection of President Wilson is assured. The democratic party in congress, by its fine achievements in legislation, namely, the federal reserve act, the rural credits bill, the child labor law, eight-hour law and other splendidly progressive legislative acts, has well earned a vote of confidence and an order from the people to complete the program."

"Those who are true to America have but one choice tomorrow, for there is no place here for the man who by his vote shows he has anything but the highest and truest interests of this country at heart."

16 BODIES ARE RESCUED FROM BESSIE MINE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 6.—Sixteen bodies have been recovered from the Bessie mine of the Sloss-Mohr Steel & Lym Co., where an explosion occurred 30 miners Saturday. Rescue parties fighting their way into the mine through masses of black damp gas virtually had abandoned hope that any of the 16 missing would be found alive.

WANTS EX-PRES. TAFT TO GO TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Theodore Marburg, former United States minister to Belgium, who is now chairman of the committee on foreign organization of the league to enforce peace, in an address here last night dealt with a constructive scheme of world statesmanship to be put into effect after the close of the war. Mr. Marburg proposed that former President Taft, who is the president of the league to enforce peace, should be sent to Europe at once to negotiate some plan of a joint guarantee of peace.

Immediate action is essential, Mr. Marburg declared, because of the fear that men will forget the horrors of war as soon as the fighting ends.

BOTH LEGS BROKEN IN LEAP FROM BRIDGE

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Joseph Leboutre, aged 45, of 443 West 4th street, South Boston, employed as a bridgeman in the South Terminal yards of the New Haven road, is at the Massachusetts General hospital with both legs broken as the result of a peculiar dilemma which confronted him yesterday afternoon while at work in the yards.

Leboutre had just started to cross the ponderous steel bridge which spans East Point Channel, across which Old Colony, Plymouth and Midland division trains pass. An incoming tug sounded a signal whistle for the raising of the draw. Leboutre hastened his steps, but was 10 feet short of the southernly end when it began to rise. Not caring to risk going up with the span, he climbed up the ties as the end of the structure speedily arose to a perpendicular position. Attaining the top he poised himself and leaped a distance of 25 feet to the solid roadbed, both legs being broken. Employees of the yard were quickly at his side and in a few minutes he was on his way to the hospital.

A SENSIBLE CIGARETTE IS EASY TO "DIGEST"

No word can describe that mean feeling which often follows smoking a poorly-blended but otherwise good cigarette. Such a cigarette might be called "indigestible." ¶ On the other hand, Fatimas always give comfort. They "digest" easily, smoothly as only a delicately balanced Turkish blend cigarette can. ¶ And best of all, Fatimas leave a man feeling fine and fit—yes, even after a long-smoking day. ¶ That's why men call Fatimas "sensible".

RUMANIA IS IN A SERIOUS POSITION

BERLIN, Nov. 6, by wireless to Sayville.—Rumania in her present serious position is suffering because of the mistake she made in contracting an alliance at variance with her traditions and her geographical position, declared Premier Radastavoff of Bulgaria in an interview published in the newspaper Avest of Budapest, obtained by its Sofia correspondent.

"Rumania is in a serious position," said the premier.

"She became false to her historical aims and now must atone for it. The geographical position of the country showed clearly a road which should have led to an alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary. Rumania had been deluded and misled by her success of 1913 and now the country has fallen into German hands. Such a collection of mistakes could not remain unpunished."

"Rumania already has lost her independence as the Russian censor and the Russian policemen rule in the land. She is entirely in control of the general and general staffs of the emperor."

Asked his opinion in regard to the rumors as to separate peace, Premier Radastavoff said:

"I do not credit such rumors, which undoubtedly originate from the fact that the entire press blames Russia for the Rumanian defeat, while the Russian press rebukes the entire for a like reason, declaring at the same time that Rumania took up arms not in the common interests of the entente, but for the satisfaction of her own aims. These mutual imputations are undoubtedly the reason for these separate peace rumors. Russia has fallen into the net of England, and is now unable to act by her own will. For this reason peace can only come when Russia is forced by the military situation to conclude it. Competent opinion uniformly asserts that this decision will come in 1919."

"If our enemies hope that we shall allow them to make preparations during the winter they are mistaken. The war will go on in order to hurry a decision. I shall not prophesy as to the consequences which will arise from the menace to Bessarabia and the Ukraine, but I repeat that it is only in consequence of a hopelessly bad military situation that Russia will be forced to conclude peace and not by the fact that Russia is now further from her goal, which is Constantinople, than at any time before."

WORK TO PREVENT BIG FREIGHT BLOCKADE

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 6.—Operating officers of the railroads entering Pittsburgh were all on duty today in an effort to prevent what some of them asserted would become the greatest freight blockade ever known. The long streams of traffic pouring into the district were halted for as much as half an hour. It was said that ten thousand loaded cars were moving between Chicago and Pittsburgh on the Pennsylvania northwest system alone and the situation on the southwest system of the Pennsylvania railroad was equally interesting. Every precaution known to modern railroading, it was asserted, had been taken and, barring such eventualities as heavy fogs in the valleys or a sudden drop in temperature, there would be no stoppage.

BRITISH ACTRESS DEAD

Mrs. Dion Boucicault, who had appeared on the American stage, died today.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Dion Boucicault, the British actress, who has appeared many times on the American stage, died in London today.

Mrs. Boucicault was born in Edinburgh, Christmas day, 1823. She was the mother of Dion, Aubrey and Nina Boucicault. Her son Aubrey died in New York in the summer of 1912.

CUBA ALSO HAS AN ELECTION; RESULT OF POLL LONG IN DOUBT

ALFREDO ZAYAS MARIO MENOCAL

In the excitement of their own election campaign, Americans generally forgot the fight that went on in the sister republic of Cuba for the presidency. It was a hotly contested election, with the result in doubt and election claimed by both contestants. Official figures gave Alfredo Zayas a majority of 9,000 for all provinces in the republic, with many colleges missing.

only activity tomorrow will be a trip to Princeton to cast his ballot. Tomorrow night, with only the members of his family about him, he will receive the returns in his study at Shadow Lawn.

Mr. Hughes remained at his hotel early in the forenoon, but later visited the national republican headquarters, chiefly, it was stated, to thank the workers there for their efforts in his behalf. He intended to take a drive through the parks this afternoon and spend the rest of the day quietly at his hotel. Tomorrow he will vote in his home district here and tomorrow night he will get the returns in his hotel rooms. Like Mr. Wilson, he plans to have only immediate members of his family with him when the election returns come.

Political headquarters here still presented scenes of activity today. Late reports from the political battlefield were received and final instructions sent. Both the chairman had little to add to their forecasts issued Saturday night. Republican Chairman Wilcox then predicted Hughes would receive at least 100 majority in the electoral college, while Democratic Chairman McCormick gave Wilson 364 votes in that body. The necessary number of votes to elect is 262.

The larger participation of women as voters in a presidential campaign and the congressional elections is a matter of keen interest to politicians generally. The returns from the states in which women will vote will be anxiously scanned.

So far as congress is concerned a full house of representatives and 33 United States senators will be elected. The total membership of the house is 435. In the senate the present membership is 96. In all 35 new senators will take their seats next March.

Of these the republicans elected two at the September election in Maine. Forty-two of the states will elect officials tomorrow. Of these states 35 will elect governors.

Fair weather and moderate temperatures is the forecast generally for election day and if this prediction holds true virtually a full vote, it is expected, will be cast throughout the country tomorrow.

The national chairman of the republican and democratic committees were both busy today receiving final reports on the results of their respective campaigns but neither had anything to add to their already published predictions. Both reiterated their confidence of victory tomorrow.

Miss Cecelia Wright, woman fiercer, seeking to establish an altitude record for women, climbed to the height of 5,100 feet in a standard aeroplane equipped with a 135 horsepower American made motor at Mincola, N. Y. She was in the air fifty-two minutes.

The machine used is the first that has been constructed entirely according to the army plans and specifications and under army supervision, as provided in the bill appropriating $13,000,000 for aerial armament.

Captain C. A. Rice, U.S.A., retired, asserted that the new army type machine, with its American made motor, made a remarkably good showing in maneuvers and air conditions. When it reached 5,100 feet a strong down current dropped it to 3,500 feet with great velocity.

Observers asserted that it withstood the wind in excellent style. Tex Millman, chief army aviation instructor, who went up with Miss Wright, said he never had encountered such bad air conditions.

CLOSE VOTE IN RHODE ISLAND
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 6.—The contest between Senator Henry F. Lippitt and former Congressman Frederick W. Mansfield, made their final pleas on the stump in this city, and rallies, many of them in the open air, were arranged for all parts of the state.

Republican leaders remained firm in their estimates of victory tomorrow for both state and national elections, including the return of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his first test by popular vote, by a margin of at least 75,000. Democratic state committee asserted confidence that President Wilson and Mr. Mansfield would carry the state by safe margins and that John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, would defeat Senator Lodge.

IN NEW YORK STATE
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The day before election finds both republican and democratic candidates for the governorship of New York making appeals to the voters, although victory is claimed for each of them by the respective chairman of their parties. Both Gov. Whitman and Samuel Seabury, democratic nominee for governor, selected this city as the scene of their last campaign activity.

The final forecast of Republican State Chairman Tanner is that Gov. Whitman will carry the state by more than 100,000. Democratic State Chairman Harris and the Tammany leaders are giving out no specific figures officially, but claim that the democratic plurality in New York city will be so heavy that it will overcome the republican plurality up-state.

Both Gov. Whitman and Samuel Seabury, democratic nominee for governor, selected this city as the scene of their last campaign activity.

The final forecast of Republican State Chairman Tanner is that Gov. Whitman will carry the state by more than 100,000. Democratic State Chairman Harris and the Tammany leaders are giving out no specific figures officially, but claim that the democratic plurality in New York city will be so heavy that it will overcome the republican plurality up-state.

TWO MEN STABBED IN ROW IN BENT'S COURT THIS AFTERNOON

Two men were taken to St. John's hospital early this afternoon suffering from wounds sustained in a stabbing affray on the lower floor of a tenement block situated at 12 Bent's court, off Gorham street. One of the men, Provosty Tigardick, had several cuts on his body and at the time of going to press the extent of his injuries could not be learned. The other, Frank Smith, of North Chelmsford, sustained a bad cut on his left arm.

The man alleged to have used the knife jumped through a window after the stabbing had been done and disappeared through the alley. The police were given a description of the man, and his address. This afternoon a search was made for him in the vicinity of Howe and Davidson streets.

Little about the trouble was known in Bent's court. It seems that there were five men in a room together. All work nights in a mill in North Chelmsford. This noon three men who occupied a room at 12 Bent's court were entertaining Smith, who was said to have done the stabbing. It is said that a pair of beer was sent for and soon afterward the trouble started. According to occupants of the house, the Beldyders man drew a knife during the heat of an argument and threatened to clean out the room. Tigardick and Smith were stabbed and then the assailant escaped.

The other two men ran for a policeman and the ambulance. Patrolman Kilroy was soon on the scene, but no trace of the man accused could be found. No information relative to the cause of the trouble or the circumstances of the stabbing could be learned at the police station.

Alleged Stabber Arrested
Shortly after 2 o'clock, Alexander Bolder, who is accused of the stabbing, was arrested on Bridge street. The rumor spread and there was quite a crowd at Merrimack square when the accused was taken to the police station and booked for the offence.

OUTLOOK IN THE SOUTH
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Notwithstanding that the republicans have made spirited fights in several southern states, democratic leaders today seemed chiefly concerned with the problem of getting out the vote in order to give President Wilson an unusually large plurality on Tuesday.

Although it is conceded that the electoral vote of the south will go to the democratic candidate, as usual, this year the republicans have picked Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida as favorable battle grounds and have waged hot fights for state and national tickets there. The other states have been occupied mainly with local issues and a few contests for congress.

Tennessee is claimed by the democrats as a state where the republicans have made a spirited fight, but the republicans claim that Mr. Hughes' visit to Nashville helped them greatly and that they not only will cut deeply into the normal democratic vote but will elect at least a part of their state ticket and four congressmen.

The democratic managers claim that North Carolina will give the state and national ticket a majority of forty thousand and that they will unseat Representative Britt of the tenth district, one of the few southern republicans in congress. While making no claims for the state, the republicans assert that they will increase their representation in the lower national house to three.

Seizing the opportunity offered by democratic party strife in Florida, the republicans have made an unusually vigorous campaign in favor of their state ticket, headed by George W. Allen of Key West, and while it is conceded that the electoral vote will be democratic and that a democratic state ticket will be chosen, republican leaders believe that one of the largest republican votes of recent years will be cast. W. V. Knott, regular democratic nominee, and S. J. Catts, a minister, are the other candidates for governor. Catts was nominated by the democrats on the first count of the primary, but a recount gave the nomination to Knott on a slender plurality. Catts is running as an independent democrat and a prohibitionist.

Louisiana is expected to give John M. Parker a good sized vote for vice president.

THE ODDS SWITCH TO PRESIDENT WILSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Republican managers were in a near-panic yesterday.

The country-wide poll of the New York Herald, showing that Wilson would easily win Tuesday's election, came like a bombshell. The Herald has been a strong supporter of Mr. Hughes, but its correspondents report such a trend to Wilson that the paper was reluctantly forced practically to concede defeat for the G.O.P. candidate.

The fact that an opposition paper predicted Wilson's victory spread all over the city yesterday, with the result that the betting showed an immediate change. Hughes, Saturday night a 10 to 7 favorite, dropped immediately to even money, while later in the day Wilson ruled a favorite at 10 to 2. It was freely predicted that today Wilson will be a heavy favorite among the "wise" element.

BIG PURCELL MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

Over 200 friends of Register of Deeds William C. Purcell held a big meeting in Keyes' auction rooms yesterday. The gathering included many from the surrounding towns and great enthusiasm prevailed. Principal Assessor Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan presided and remarks were made by J. Joseph O'Connor, Hon. James B. Casey, Hon. Dennis J. Murphy, Daniel J. Donahue, James F. McKella, Andrew E. Barrett, Frank Warnock, Charles E. Keyes and others. All the speakers dwelt on the splendid services Mr. Purcell has rendered the district, his efficiency, his courtesy and his knowledge of the work of the office and predicted his triumphant re-election.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Purcell spoke but he was obviously unable to express himself as he would have liked after receiving a mighty ovation. He spoke feelingly of the friends he has made, who now encircle him and who make him feel confident that success will be ultimately his. He dwelt on the work of the office, to which he has applied himself closely and said that he yields to no man in his knowledge of the work of a registry of deeds. The committee desires the fact to become known that any sick or infirm voter unable to get to the polls tomorrow will cheerfully be furnished transportation if names are left at the headquarters in Keyes' commission rooms, or telephoned to 1485. Automobiles are at the disposal of the Purcell committee.

CAR CONDUCTOR PAID SHERMAN HOAR'S FARES

Speaking to a crowd of about 300 at Railroad square in Reading this morning, Hon. Roger Sherman Hoar of Concord, democratic candidate for congress, told of an interesting experience which had occurred to him on his way there.

His Ford milk truck is in a Lowell garage, being thoroughly overhauled for tonight's tour, so the senator was forced to go to Reading by trolley. The conductor recognized him and insisted on paying all of Mr. Hoar's fares out of his own pocket, saying: "You are fighting the fight of the workman, and are spending your own money, which you cannot well afford to do. Let me as one workman, distribute in mite to your success."

pils, and other matters. The school committee talked with the principal of the school, Peter Scullis, and also questioned some of the children, with a view to discovering their educational status and their knowledge of English.

The school was found very much overcrowded, there being about 200 children in attendance. Of these, 66 were in the first grade. Principal Scullis said, in answer to questions of the school committee, that instruction is given in English only five hours out of the 26. There is but one teacher of English, Miss Grace Akers, but it was stated that another will soon be provided. The state law says that instruction in such schools shall be in English, but aside from the small time devoted to the teaching of the English language, no English is used, all instruction being in Greek. No geography is taught in the school.

GOOD CENTERS SEEM TO BE VERY PLENTIFUL THIS SEASON

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—It is a noticeable fact that there are any number of good centers in the east and west this season. The football experts will have their hands full at the end of the season picking out who is the best middleman there being so many good ones. Among those who have done brilliant work are Harris of Harvard, Brown of Cornell, Wray of Pennsylvania, Pryor of Tufts, Sprague of Brown, Gilmore of Syracuse, Goodstein of Navy, Gemert of Princeton, Nieman of Michigan, Taft of Yale, McEwan of West Point and Peck of Pittsburg. According to many experts the latter two are the best men in the position. Layout shows four of the leading centers of the season. No. 1, McEwan of West Point; 2, L. Wray of Pennsylvania; 3, Gemert of Princeton; 4, Peck of Pittsburg.

graphy is taught in the school.

Of the children questioned by the school committee, the great majority did not seem to understand English. Even when asked their names, they did not answer. One exceptionally bright boy who answered all questions readily said that he had attended an "American school" at Dover, and was later sent to the Worthen Street school by his father who wanted him to learn Greek.

Rumors as to the drastic punishment meted out to pupils were not substantiated by this morning's investigation. After leaving the Greek school, the committee spent a short time at the dental clinic which has been established at the old Worthen Street school.

In British Service

In answer to his letter to the state department relative to two Lowell boys, John Pelletier and Leroy Mc-

Mahon, minor American citizens now in the British service, Mayor O'Donnell has received the following letter from Alvey A. Ade, second assistant secretary:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE
Washington, Nov. 4, 1916.
James B. O'Donnell, Mayor of Lowell, Mass.
Sir: The department is in receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo concerning the desired discharge from the British military service of John Pelletier and Leroy McMahon, minor American citizens.

There is enclosed herewith for your information a copy of the department's circular setting forth the British requirements in the matter of applications for the discharge of American citizens on the ground of minority and enlistment without parental consent. Upon a compliance with these requirements the department will take up the matter with the appropriate British authorities through the American consul-general at London.

It is deemed proper to add that the British government has recently announced that it will not consider requests for the discharge of persons who have attained the age of 18, of whatever nationality they may be, if they have enlisted of their own free will. The department, however, has not admitted the legality of this regulation.

I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
For the secretary of state,
Alvey A. Ade,
Second Assistant Secretary.

The circular referred to gives the detailed conditions that the English government demands before any American is released from active service. It shows that it has become increasingly difficult for Americans to get out of the English army, but some of the con-

Oaklands Extension

Commissioner Putnam stated this morning that the return of the strikers who left the Oaklands job a week or so ago will give a new impetus to the work which he now expects to go along smoothly. It was very difficult to get labor the first of the year, but he now has a good gang working and he will keep them busy as long as the weather will permit. He stated, however, that it will not be possible to put the extension through this year, but it will be well along before work is suspended.

Meeting on Immigration

There is no indication here that Japan intends to inaugurate permanent diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

LOWELL JITNEY DRIVERS WIN IN LAWRENCE

A delegation of 10 jitney drivers from Lowell and Lawrence appeared before the municipal council in Lawrence this morning, in an endeavor to have the newly adopted ordinance in relation to jitneys revised so as not to discriminate against Lowell chauffeurs.

Some time ago, the Lawrence city council passed an ordinance by which all jitneys must be licensed. The fee for the license is $5 and that of the chauffeur, $1, but no chauffeur is eligible for a license unless he is a bona fide resident of Lawrence, Methuen, Andover or North Andover, the said ordinance to go into effect Dec. 1.

The delegation of chauffeurs present at this morning's meeting pointed out that Lawrence men under the new ordinance can secure a license to operate their machines to and into Lowell, while Lowell men cannot go to Lawrence. They said Lowell men should be given as much right as Lawrence people. The ordinance was passed at the request of the Lawrence Chauffeurs' association. It was stated this afternoon that all the members of the council were in favor of amending the ordinance so as to include Lowell chauffeurs and they have taken the matter under advisement to report next Monday.

JAPANESE MINISTER TO VISIT POPE BENEDICT

TOKIO, November.—Yagoro Niura, Japanese minister to Switzerland, has been instructed to proceed to the Vatican at Rome to return the visit made to the Japanese court early this year by Archbishop Petrelli, special apostolic delegate who conveyed to Emperor Yoshihito the coronation congratulations of Pope Benedict. Minister Niura will present to the pope an autograph letter from Emperor Yoshihito.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

At the first signs of hateful fat a woman should begin a vigorous campaign against the enemy before she is completely conquered by it. The first and most powerful weapons to use in this warfare against flesh are diet and exercise. The diet should eliminate all sweets, cakes, candies, desserts, sodas, sugar in tea or coffee, all starchy foods such as rice, white bread, potatoes, beans, peas, etc., and all fatty foods such as cream, milk, chocolate.

However it is a great mistake to cut down too much on the amount of food, for it will only produce weakness. Another point about the diet is that it is better to take three slim meals, consisting of non fattening foods, than to eat only one meal a day, in which enough is eaten to make up for four other meals. A great many women follow this form of dieting, giving up all but one meal, but they eat enough at this one repast to make up for all of their dieting.

If your finger tips are pudgy don't blame it on Nature, says Hortense, for it is only the result of cutting the nails away too far at the corners. The nails on the fingers serve as a brace and support for the flesh. A great many cut their nails away in at each corner and run them out to a point, believing that it assists greatly in giving a tapering effect to the fingers. It does not, however, have this effect. Quite the contrary, it takes away the support from the flesh, whereupon the flesh proceeds to spread out wider and wider the more the nail is trimmed away, until it is almost impossible to get them back in shape again.

In trimming your nails, let the sides of the nail alone and shape only the top. Never use scissors if you can help it and if you do be sure to give the nails a fine finish with the file. Remember that vasoline will not only keep the nails from becoming brittle, but will also improve the texture and help to make them shapely.

If you are troubled with oily hair Hortense wants you to try this lotion. Alcohol, two ounces, which has been two ounces, resorcin fourteen grains. Use it daily, rubbing well into the scalp. When brushing the hair, if it falls out to an alarming extent, a good hair tonic to use is the following: Phenol half a dram, tincture of nux vomica seven and a half grains, tincture of eucommia one ounce, tincture of cantharides half a dram, cologne four ounces, sweet almond oil two ounces. Apply to the roots of the hair and rub it in well. The tonic is especially good for dry hair. When you stop to think that beauty depends largely upon the condition of the hair you will be most anxious to keep the scalp clean and the hair well groomed.

Hortense wishes to give you some more instructions about caring for your hair, particularly proper shampooing. First file the nails the shape desired. Never cut them with scissors unless you use a file afterwards, as it makes the nails thick and takes away the transparency of them. Then place the hand in warm soapy water and let it soak for five minutes. Green soap is very good to use in the water.

Wipe the hands gently and with an orange stick wrapped about with a piece of cotton, clean out whatever dirt may be around the edges of the nails. With a clean piece of cotton about the stick gently push back the cuticle, so as to show the crescent on each nail. You may not be able to do this at first, as you must be careful not to break the skin.

Trim off any bits of torn flesh surrounding the nails with curved scissors. As soon as the nail is finished rub cold cream on it so that it will not become brittle. After both hands have been taken care of, polishing powder should be applied to each nail. They are then polished with a chambray buffer. Dip the hands in warm soapy water and scrub every particle of powder from the nails.

When your hair shows signs of getting thin and particularly if you are troubled with dandruff, Hortense has a home made tonic which I am sure you will like and find very efficacious. Take two tablespoons of sulphur and mix with five cents worth of glycerine. Get a package of sage and pour over it a quart of water and let it stand two hours and, when cool, strain into a bottle and add the sulphur and glycerine. Add a small quantity of alcohol, about two tablespoons, to keep it from souring.

Even if the sulphur is not all dissolved it is all right, for the sulphur is what stops and cures dandruff, and the alcohol is the cause of hair falling out in most cases. Rub the scalp with the finger tips until it feels quite hot, and then rub the tonic into the scalp.

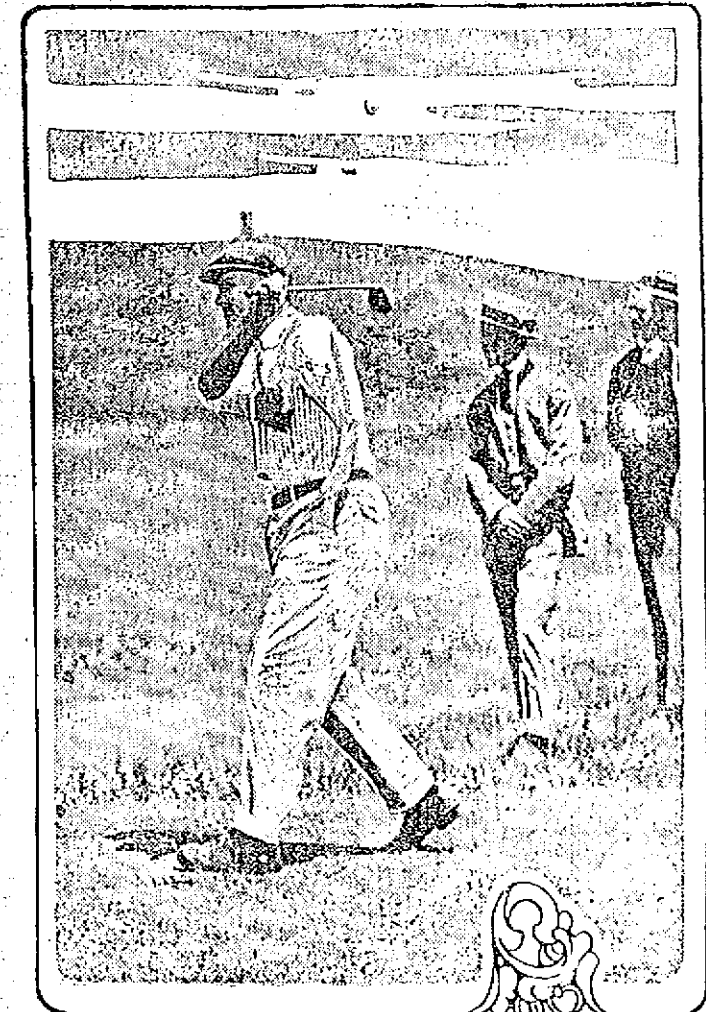

Ten minutes spent every evening for two months will result in your scalp being put in good condition and will also put new life into the hair roots.

A more alert, erect carriage is the immediate result of wider skirts. When it was impossible to walk with a free step, or even to stand squarely on both feet, a relaxed line of head and shoulders produced what was called the debutante slouch.

But the debutante slouch and a brisk, free, untrammelled step were found to be utterly incompatible. With the new step the spine must be held straight, the shoulders back and the chin well up. This means erect young figures, instead of the limp, drooping, effeminate so fashionable of yore.

Many society women have already taken up physical culture to counteract the consumptive looking slump of the shoulders and chest in the recently adorned slouch, and are cultivating with dumbbells and Indian clubs the back and shoulder muscles.

PERKINS FOULED ON THE DEUTSCHLAND'S CARGO

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 6.—An examination of the Deutschland's cargo shows the absurdity of the attempt of George W. Perkins to make political capital out of the $10,000,000 cargo of the submarine liner Deutschland. Mr. Perkins said:

"I call Mr. Wilson's attention to the fact that the newspapers are telling us today that the Deutschland arose out of the ocean yesterday with $10,000,000 of goods direct from Germany. Evidently these goods had somehow already been manufactured while a large part of Germany's mechanical force is at war."

Capt. Koenig of the Deutschland, when shown Mr. Perkins' statement, said:

"Mr. Perkins confuses goods with values. The Deutschland brings $10,000,000 in values, but less than $1,000,000 in goods. Nine millions or more is represented by securities to be used to strengthen Germany's credit here."

"The remainder, less than $1,000,000, is in dyestuffs, medicines and other chemicals. Hospitals and the sick are in dire need of the medicines. These goods pay a duty about the same as under the old tariff law. A portion of the goods consists of diamonds and semi-precious stones, which pay as large a duty as under the old law."

Men of Lowell

Speaking of our recent record-breaking imports, my opponent said last Tuesday at Associate Hall: "This flood of foreign goods . . . may even be one of the causes of our present prosperity."—(Lowell Sun, Oct. 31.)

I believe that every man in Lowell knows that this statement is false; knows that our prosperity of today is in spite of our swollen imports—largely from Japan, China and South America—not because of them; knows that this prosperity was born with the war and will die with the war; remembers our prostration between October, 1913—when the Underwood revenue-only and non-protective tariff law became effective—and August, 1914, when war was declared in Europe, our business began to boom, and our exports of American-made goods grew, because of the European war, to colossal proportions; and knows that when the war ends, when war orders cease, the stagnation and unemployment of the months before the war will return, unless a protective tariff has replaced the present revenue-only tariff.

MEN OF LOWELL! You and I know, if my opponent does not, that the "flood of foreign goods" to which he refers can never be a "cause of our prosperity"—that, quite the contrary, in peace days past and future a "flood of imports" means disaster, reduced wages and unemployment.

MEN OF LOWELL! My opponent believes that a flood of cheap foreign-made goods to compete with your labor is for your welfare.

I pledge myself to work for and to support a tariff adequate to protect you from the cheap labor of Europe and Asia. Which do you choose?

Men of Lowell! I am a Lowell man, born and bred. I know Lowell conditions and the needs of Lowell men. My opponent, with his home in Concord and his affairs in Boston, does not.

I. W. W. FIRE ON CITIZENS SIX DEAD, FIFTY WOUNDED

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—Six men are dead and fifty are suffering today from bullet wounds as the result of a battle yesterday at Everett, Wash., 30 miles north of Seattle, when 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World attempted to land from the steamer Verona, which had carried them from Seattle. The boat was met by Sheriff Donald McRae of Snohomish county and a posse. The sheriff forbade the men to land. A shot fired from the Verona, according to the boat's officers, was followed immediately by firing from both sides. The steamer hastened back to Seattle with the dead and wounded.

One member of the Everett citizens' posse, C. O. Curtis, formerly second lieutenant in the Washington National Guard, was killed and 15 others were wounded.

Including the wounded, there are 294 men and three women under arrest. Forty-one men were taken from a second steamer which failed to reach Everett. The women were taken from a motor bus which had conveyed them from the northern boundary of Seattle.

The fight was a result of a long contest between the Industrial Workers and the citizens of Everett over the right to hold street meetings in that city.

The National Guard and naval militia at Everett and in Seattle are under orders today to meet any emergency.

Sheriff McRae, who is suffering from two gunshot wounds in the leg, asserted that the first shot was fired by a man in front of the pilot house of the Verona.

Eye-witnesses asserted that several men jumped into the water from the boat and that some were drowned, but searchers today were unable to find any bodies and it was believed this report was incorrect.

Four of the wounded members of the citizens posse are in a critical condition today.

nominees to the legislature which has just been made by physicians of the Massachusetts Medical society and the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical society throughout the state. The doctors in these societies have been watching the operation of the law since it was passed, and have felt that generally throughout the state the injured workmen were not receiving all that was intended when the law was passed in the way of good medical and surgical care.

These societies have appointed committees throughout the state, with a large central committee, to find out the facts and see whether the employees in all the big industrial centres are being better cared for than they were before the workmen's compensation act was passed; or whether it cannot be improved so that a laboring man when hurt will get the best medical care that he can be given.

They have made a canvass of all the nominees for the legislature, and have asked them to state their position relative to amending the laws. They have selected four points as being the places where there is apparently the greatest difficulty in applying the law.

Candidate Sparks Approves

John T. Sparks of this city, candidate for senator in the 8th Middlesex district, is one of the few nominees that have answered in favor of amending the present law in the following respects:

1.—To enable an employee coming under the act to have a free choice of physician?

2.—To limit the number of industrial cases which any one man might care for, to a reasonable number?

3.—To prevent insurance companies referring their cases to open or charitable hospitals, dispensaries and clinics?

4.—To extend in all industrial cases the period of time during which the medical services shall be paid by the insurance company?

Allowing for the fact that many answers are still doubtless in the mails, it is obvious that out of the 450 letters sent out, less than 20 per cent of the nominees to the legislature have been sufficiently acquainted with the problem or interested in it to send an answer. The physicians throughout the state, and the laboring men as a whole, who are virtually interested in getting better surgical care for their injured, will not fail to appreciate the general lack of interest and knowledge which this canvass suggests. After election it is sure to be taken up in an aggressive way with the men who are elected to office, both by the labor unions and by the physicians throughout the state.

The Lowell physicians on the committee are as follows: J. A. Mehan, R. J. Meigs, M. A. Tighe and G. F. Martin.

PURCELL SAYS:

"My sole endeavor has been to raise the standard of our Registry to a point of efficiency equal to any in the state—my whole attention has been devoted to that end, believing that the people of this district were entitled to the best service possible. My opponent offers no criticism of that service—advances no reason why he should be elected, but on the contrary resorts to methods far beneath the dignity of the office for which he seeks the suffrage of the voters, in an attempt to gain their support. I believe such methods will be repudiated, and respectfully ask the endorsement of every citizen upon my record."

IN POLICE COURT

Alice J. Murtagh got out of jail Saturday but was arrested shortly afterwards on account of being under the influence of liquor. She was arraigned in police court today and promised that if given a chance she would leave the city and on that condition she was given a suspended sentence to the state farm.

The case of Mary Cornier, charged with drunkenness, was continued for 30 days. Ellen Hennessy, who was on parole from the state farm, will be returned to that institution. William Oswald will spend the next week in jail. One offender was fined $5 and 16 first offenders were released by the probation officer. Frank McCluskey was fined $5 and several other offenders had their cases continued until a later date.

More Serious Charge

Patrick O'Neil was charged with being drunk and entered a plea of guilty, but when Deputy Downey informed the court that it was thought the man had thrown his wife down a flight of stairs, she being in the hospital at the present time, the case was continued for one week.

Henry Trepannier was fined $5 for drunkenness over a year ago and he promised that if he would be given time he would pay the fine but he failed to do so. The reason he was arrested was that he fell on the sidewalk in Appleton street and taken to a hospital and after he received treatment was sent to the police station. He failed to remember anything about the accident. His case was continued until Nov. 11th.

STORING EXPLOSIVES

The permit of the United States Cartridge Co. to store in the town of Billerica explosives and chemicals for the manufacture of ammunition expires this month and a petition has been made to the board of selectmen for a renewal. Under the law a public hearing has been set for November 20th when anyone desiring to remonstrate against the granting of the petition will be heard. The magazines are located in Billerica on the South Lowell side of the Concord river.

ELECT

Hon. John T. Sparks

SENATOR

And assure the EIGHTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT a Live, Energetic and Capable Representation of Its Interest at the State House.

To the Voters of the 8th Senatorial District:

Permit me to request your favorable indorsement of my Candidacy for Senator at the polls tomorrow. In seeking this office again after a lapse of 16 years, I want to offer my assurance that I am not unmindful of its serious duties and responsibilities, and will exert every effort to win the approval and good-will of the citizens of the district to the same degree, at least, that I enjoyed when I previously held public office.

I recognize that the district is distinctively an industrial one, that much legislation is passed on in each session of the legislature of vital interest to the people of the district, and unless a Senator is in sympathy with the hopes and necessities of the people he represents, their interests are not properly safeguarded. It has happened more than once that such kind of representation has not been accorded the citizens of the district.

I submit that I am not a hide bound partisan. In fact, a man's partisanship does not enter into his attitude upon the big majority of legislation presented to him. It is his sense of fairness and justice upon the merits of proposed legislation that should count, and on the same line of reasoning the attitude of the voter in selecting a Candidate for this office should be determined more from the standpoint of capacity and ability, than partisanship. I ask you to judge my Candidacy based upon qualification and fitness to serve you in an acceptable manner, if you do, I am confident of your support.

If honorable and active public service; if close application to the duties of office; if courage to decide upon the merits of pending legislation without fear or favor; and, if assurance that my every effort will be directed toward obtaining the fullest measure of representation of the interest of the district are conditions upon which you will favor me with your support, then I conscientiously pledge, as your Senator, such kind of service. May I have your support?

Signed JOHN T. SPARKS,
172 Pleasant Street, Braintree, Mass.
